36 OTHERS MAY BE ADRIFT

STEWARD DEAD IN BOAT

Doomed Vessel's Wireless Outfit Wrecked and Hull Torn by Explosions—The Seydlitz Standing By.

ON BOARD THE STEAMSHIP FRANCONIA, via Sable Island, N. S., May 5.—Thirteen survivors of the British steamship Columbian, bound from Antwerp for New York, which caught fire at sea Sunday night, were picked up to-day by the Cunard liner Franconia, bound from Liverpool for Boston. In the boat with the survivors was the body of Chief Steward Matthews.

Another boat, containing the chief and second officer and seventeen men was still adrift. The Franconia cruised vainly in search of it.

Those aboard the Franconia are: James Drohan, wireless operator; Antone Elas, carpenter; Ivar Iverson, boatswain's mate; Unguse Prinze, Jens Jensen, A. Abelnick, quartermaster; Gustav Schriborm, donkeyman; Thomas Connor, Juri Lei, and Arthur Brantik, able seamen; Antony Cordones, and Bennett Rother, firemen, and Frank Wedekind, messroom steward.

The survivors suffered terribly during their forty hours' exposure in the open boat. Their exhaustion was so great that it was impossible to obtain a coherent story from them for several hours after they were picked up.

The fire started Sunday night, when the Columbian was about 300 miles south of Cape Race. A series of violent explosions followed almost immediately. Capt. McDonald gave orders to the wireless operator, James Drohan, to send out calls for assistance, but one of the explosions put the wireless apparatus out of commission, cutting off the Columbian from communication with nearby ocean liners, which might have gone to the rescue.

With the vessel belching flames and torn by the explosions, it soon became evident that the crew could do nothing to control the fire, and the order to abandon ship was given.

The men left the Columbian in two boats. Chief Steward Matthews was in charge of the first. This boat lay to at a distance for a time, but in the dense smoke which surrounded the burning vessel the other boat was not visible, and the steward's boat finally drifted far from the scene.

Of their sufferings during the forty hours in which they were tossed about, and of the death of Chief Steward Matthews during this time, the men could say little when they were brought on to the decks of the Franconia.

Food and sleep were matters of first consideration, and although sympathetic passengers were ready with offers of assistance to the shipwrecked ones, Capt. Miller of the Franconia saw to it that they had the required rest.

Having learned that the other boat with nineteen men, probably including Capt. McDonald, was still missing and supposedly adrift, Capt. Miller ordered the Franconia turned about on a searching cruise. No trace of the second boat had been obtained late to-night.

BOSTON, May 5.—The Franconia was about 600 miles east of Boston Lightship when she reported. Her Captain is David S. Miller of Liverpool, a commander in the Royal Naval Reserve. On board the Franconia are 1,733 passengers, including 65 in the first cabin, 394 in the second cabin, and 1,274 in the third cabin.

The Columbian was reported by the North German Lloyd steamship Seydlitz to-day to be burning all over, with her foremast and funnel gone. Her position was given as 41.27 north, 59.07 west. The Seydlitz apparently had remained alongside the steamer since yesterday.

Until the receipt of the radiogram from the Franconia late to-day nothing had been learned as to the name of the vessel or the fate of her crew. The last direct word from the burning vessel had been a mysterious message, saying "We are on fire. Hurry up." It was believed that it was this message which Operator Drohan was flashing out when his apparatus was smashed by an explosion.

The Columbian, although owned by the Leyland Line, was under charter to the Phoenix Line, of which Sanderson & Sons of New York are the agents. She formerly ran between this port and London.

Whether the number of missing was represented by those said to be in the second boat was still uncertain to-night. Estimates by officials of the Leyland and Phoenix lines placed the number of the crew at between forty-five and fifty. The messages from the Franconia told of only thirty-three men, represented by the occupants of the two boats. It was thought possible that there was a third boat commanded by Capt. McDonald of the Columbian.

The survivors were so exhausted by their experience that they could tell little of what had happened, and steamship officials expressed the opinion that the omission in the wireless messages of mention of the Captain might be laid to this fact.

FIGHTS IN SANTO DOMINGO.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The decision of the American Government to dispatch the armored cruiser Washington to Dominican waters, and thus increase its naval force during the revolutionary movement in Santo Domingo was followed by an announcement to-day that the Custom House at Puerto Plata would be reopened. The information came in a dispatch from Commander S. V. Graham of the gunboat Petrel.

The Washington has sailed from Key West for Puerto Plata. The gunboat Peoria met the Washington outside of Key West last night and delivered mail for the gunboats Petrel and Wheeling, now in Dominican waters.

Disturbances in the environs of Levago, Santo Domingo, were reported to the Navy Department to-day. The forces under Leconte Vasquez were routed, and Vasquez himself was wounded. An official Navy Department announcement on the situation said:

> Commander Graham reports from Puerta Plata that the Custom House will be reopened.
> There have been slight disturbances in environs of Levago, Santo Domingo, but the revolutionists have been routed; also slight depredations against sugar mills near San Pedro de Macoris.
>
> It is reported that Moca, in Santo Domingo, is in the hands of the revolutionists and they are operating against Santiago.

GIRL ROUTED DETECTIVES.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., May 5—When Detectives Rossi and La Femina of District Attorney Smith's staff went to the home of Luigi Cozzona, at Westbury, yesterday to arrest Cozzona on the charge of keeping a disorderly resort they were confronted by Florina Toreno, a 17-year-old girl, who covered them with two revolvers.

The detectives did not stop for further warning and hurried off to tell their troubles to Sheriff Pettit. The Sheriff got in touch with District Attorney Smith and the four of them returned to the Cozzona house. This time they had no trouble in arresting the man, but the girl could not be found. As a last precaution Sheriff Pettit stuck his head through a scuttle opening on the roof. Then he gave a yell and dropped to the floor.

"She's up there all right," he said.

In fact, the girl was sitting by the chimney, firmly grasping the revolvers. An order to descend was met by a threat to shoot. She held the fort until Sheriff Pettit got a rope and lassoed her.

The prisoners were held under $1,000 bail for examination to-morrow.

WOMEN TRUSTEES ELECTED.

Chosen for School Boards in Babylon, L. I., and Hastings, N. Y.

Special to The New York Times.

BABYLON, L. I., May 5.—Woman's suffrage advocates elected Mrs. James McLachlin to the Babylon School Board to-day. The Republican organization had made a strong fight for Joseph Sanderson, but the combination of suffragettes and Democrats was so strong that when the time came for nominations to-day his name was not proposed, and Mrs. McLachlin was elected without opposition. She was nominated by Mrs. Robert Taylor Oliver, who has a voting residence in Babylon and came from New York to lead the fight.

HASTINGS, N. Y., May 5.—For the first time in the history of this village, or the town of Greenburg, a woman was elected to-night as a School Trustee. When her name was presented it was a great surprise and resulted in the withdrawal of Judge James E. Hogan, who had been President of the Board of Education for twenty-five years.

The successful candidate is Mrs. E. D. Griswold, whose husband is an instructor in the Stuyvesant High School in Manhattan. She was formerly an instructress in pedagogy in a school at Akron, Ohio. Dr. F. R. Lyman also was elected.

JUMPED OFF HIGHBRIDGE.

Impact Drove Rib of Unidentified Man Through His Heart.

An unidentified man about 40 years old committed suicide yesterday by leaping from the parapet over the centre arch of Highbridge into the Harlem River at 174th Street. His body struck the water with such force that one of the ribs was driven through the heart. Persons who saw him jump summoned Mounted Patrolman Fitzgerald of the St. Nicholas Avenue Police Station, who got a rowboat and recovered the body, which was removed to the Harlem Morgue.

The man was five feet seven inches tall and weighed 160 pounds. He wore a dark blue suit bearing the name of Stern & Jackson, tailors, of 102 East 123d Street, and the date Aug. 27, 1908. The name "Hackenberger" was written in ink on the label. That firm went out of business two years ago. In one of the coat pockets were found a card issued by the Board of Health on which was written the name "Zimer" and a treatment card of the Cornell Medical School Dispensary.

DR. BLAKE SELLS ESTATE.

TORRINGTON, Conn., May 5.—Dr. Joseph A. Blake's country estate in Litchfield, Conn., has been sold to Dr. B. Austin Cheney of New Haven, who will take possession at once. The property, which is known as Falcon's Flight, includes about 700 acres of land, a handsome residence, and several barns, and is one of the largest farms in this section of Connecticut. It is understood that the purchase price is between $50,000 and $60,000.

Dr. Blake's wife a few months ago brought suit for $1,000,000 against Mrs. Clarence Mackay for alienating her husband's affection. Mrs. Mackay spent a recent Summer in Litchfield. Dr. Blake is now abroad. The transfer of the property was made through his brother, Frank Blake, who has been looking after his interests in this State.

TRIP FULL OF DANGER

OPERATION ON HIS FOOT

Now Recovering—Starts Home To-morrow and Will Go to Spain for Son's Wedding.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARA, Brazil, May 5.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt and Kermit Roosevelt, with George K. Cherry, a representative of the Museum of Natural History at New York, arrived here this afternoon. They will depart on Thursday morning on the steamship Aidan for New York via Barbados.

The Colonel consented to be interviewed, though still suffering slightly from the wound on his foot. He talked with his usual brilliancy.

Though, he said, the voyage was full of accidents, the expedition was a success, not only for the purpose undertaken by the Museum of Natural History, there having been collected 2,100 birds and animals, but for its geographical work in exploring an unknown river, undertaken at the suggestion and through the generous cooperation of the Brazilian Government.

Col. Roosevelt said that in conjunction with Col. Rondon, his Brazilian associate, he had discovered a river nearly 1,000 miles long, of which the existence was not even hinted at in any map. He added:

"It takes its rise in a high upland in west Matto Grosso north of the 13th parallel of latitude and between longitude 59 and 60 west of Grenewich. We embarked in 12 degrees south latitude and longitude 60.15 west. The river runs with many doublings and twistings almost due north into the River Madeira, entering it at about 5.30 south latitude. The Madeira is the biggest affluent of the Amazon, and the newly discovered river is the biggest affluent of the Madiera. Its course is full of rapids and falls.

"Speaking roughly, in point of volume it is equal to the Rhone or the Hudson and it is impossible to navigate it. At about 7 degrees 30 minutes, south latitude, it joins practically another river of the same size.

"The party consisted of myself, Kermit, George K. Cherry, and the Brazilian Army officers—capital men—Rondon, Lyra, Dr. Cajazeira, and paddlers.

"From latitude 11 degrees 48 minutes to 10 degrees 48 minutes, our course was almost unbroken, save by rapids.

"Leaving civilization behind, we entered this part of the river on the 27th of February, during six weeks' working the rapids, slugging our way down, and making no more than a couple of miles a day, sometimes cutting inland through the jungle, carrying canoes on our shoulders, and sometimes shooting rapids with great risk of life.

"One paddler was drowned and another murdered by his comrade, from whom he had stolen food.

"Five of the seven canoes were lost and we built others instead. We worked our way forward at half rations, carrying what was only necessary, leaving behind even rifles, food, and clothes on one occasion, but saving the canoe."

Col. Roosevelt was wounded in the foot, and Dr. Cajazeira was obliged to perform an operation due to an abscess. Lying down in a canoe under the tropical heat most of the time, but obliged to walk sometimes, the Colonel reached Manaos April 30. He is now practically well.

Col. Rondon was nearly killed by unseen Indians, and was saved by his dog. The animal's barking gave the alarm. Indian arrows killed it.

The party did not actually see any Indians, but twice heard them.

PARA, May 5.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt, who, with his son, Kermit, arrived here to-day on the steamer Dunstan from Manaos, was greeted on board by a representative of the Governor of the State of Para, by the municipal authorities, and by a number of other prominent personages.

In a speech thanking the deputations for their reception, Col. Roosevelt referred to the great progress made by Brazil, and highly praised the work of the Brazilian commission under Col. Rondon which made the exploration trip with him.

Col. Roosevelt and his companions were so fatigued that they decided not to go ashore until to-morrow, when they will visit the principal places in the city

HUERTA-BLANQUET FLIGHT?

Vera Cruz Hears War Minister Will Go with Chief on Warship.

VERA CRUZ, May 5.—An unconfirmed report was current here to-night that quarters had been held for several days on board a foreign cruiser for some high Mexican official, coming down from the Federal capital. It was suggested in some quarters that preparations had been made for the coming of Gen. Huerta or Gen. Blanquet, or both.

There was a persistent rumor to-night that Gen. Huerta was preparing to flee and some close observers expressed the belief that his recent solicitude for the safe exit of Americans from Mexico was designed to insure a safe conduct for himself in case of emergency.

Amundsen Expects to Take Two Machines on Next Year's Trip.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 5.—Capt. Roald Amundsen has completed a course of tuition as an aerial pilot at the Johannesthal aerodrome.

He expects to take two aeroplanes in the Fram on his polar expedition next year, and, after going as far as possible by sea, to reach the pole by air route.

PRESIDENT AT THE CIRCUS.

Varies His Customary Evening Relaxation as a Theatregoer.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—President Wilson, who frequently seeks relaxation after an arduous day at one of the local theatres, varied his custom to-night by attending the circus, accompanied by Miss Margaret Wilson, Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, Miss Gertrude Gordon, and Dr. Cary T. Grayson.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, May 6.—T. W. Broadhurst's Biblical play, "The Holy City," was produced here last night. It finds scant favor among the critics, who pronounce it "a sickly pseudo-romance," a "jumble of stale texts," and "shallow jargon with unutterable bathos."

Epirotes Then Burn Albanian Church and Bodies of Victims.

DURAZZO, Albania, May 5.—Two hundred and fifty Mohammedan Albanians, captured by the Epirote invaders at Hormova, were crucified in the orthodox church at Kodra, according to information received by the Albanian Government.

The Epirotes afterward set fire to the church and allowed the bodies to burn, it is said.

ROCKEFELLER GIVES A BOND.

Puts Up $50,000 Guarantee Against Damage to Tarrytown Road.

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., May 5.—John D. Rockefeller has offered the village of North Tarrytown his personal bond for $50,000 to guarantee it against damage when his new 250-ton fountain arrives.

The Trustees looked the bond over and said they guessed Rockefeller was good for the amount. After some discussion it was approved.

Finley Admits Collecting Political Funds from Officials.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 5.—William L. Finley, Democratic State Chairman, pleaded guilty late to-day to an indictment charging him with violation of the State civil service laws. Finley was indicted together with Emory Lattanner, State Superintendent of Banks, and others on a charge of collecting funds from State employes for political purposes.

Prosecutor Turner made a statement to the court recommending that indictments against all others in connection with the so-called "political" indictments be dismissed.

MRS. WENMAN GETS DIVORCE

Court Frees Broker's Wife, Who Accused Him of Cruelty.

BRIDGEPORT, May 5.—Judge W. P. Tuttle of the Superior Court on the ground of intolerable cruelty to-day granted a decree of divorce to Louise Ladew Wenman of Stamford, from Byrd Wilson Wenman, a member of the New York Cotton Exchange. Originally the suit was on the contested list.

At the trial to-day it was announced that the defendant had withdrawn his cross suit. Mrs. Wenman made a strong denial of charges he had made. The court awarded $5,000 to Mrs. Wenman. The defendant receives the custody of his five-year-old son, except for two months of each year. The Wenmans were married on Nov. 2, 1904.

Aged "Beggar" a Couple Gave Shelter To Had Nearly $8,000.

SUNBURY, Penn., May 5.—For their "kindness and self-sacrifice," Mr. and Mrs. George Smith inherit nearly $8,000 under the will of John Fell, 80, a beggar, at Northumberland. The will was probated yesterday shortly before relatives of Fell arrived at Northumberland to contest the document.

Fell, who was believed to be almost penniless, went to the home of the Smiths several days ago and asked for shelter. He said he was friendless, that he felt ill and believed he was going to die. Although the Smiths had only one bed they gave it to the old man, and themselves slept on the floor.

The next day Mrs. Smith said Fell gave her a check for $507 on a Northumberland bank and $55 in cash. Before he died Sunday night he made a will leaving to the Smiths his entire estate, said to consist of $7,000 in a Wilkes-Barre bank and stocks valued at $800.

BADGER'S MEN HELD READY

VERA CRUZ, May 4.—Refugees fleeing from Mexico City in order to place themselves under the protection of the American flag, report that Villa's rebels are advancing southward carrying all before them, leaving devastation in their wake, while demoralization and anarchy are rapidly spreading before their van.

The railway line has been destroyed north of Queretaro by order of Huerta, to check the advance of the rebels, since he does not expect to be able to make a stand against Villa north of that place. Following this action, several Federal forces occupying towns north of Queretaro are reported to have sacked the towns, some taking the field as guerrillas, while others openly joined the rebels advancing southward.

Gen. Antonio G. Olea, commanding the forces at San Luis Potosi, is reported to have joined the rebels with 4,000 Federals known generally as the "devil's column," but, it is understood, that Luis Medina Barron is holding Zacatecas, offering a desperate resistance to Villa's forces under Panfilo Natera, advancing southward from Torreon. At Sombrerete, Durango, and Concepcion del Oro refugees report heavy and desperate fighting progressing three days and nights previous to their departure for Mexico City on Monday, at which time Barron was still holding the place, but reported to be short of ammunition, and preparing to evacuate, moving to the hills. It is expected that San Luis Potosi and Aguascalientes will fall into the hands of the rebels practically without resistance, Guanajuato, Leon, Irapuato, and other smaller places following.

An unconfirmed report says that rebels under Iturbe are advancing toward Guadalajara and Colima from Sinaloa. It is expected, however, that Gens. Felipe Mier at Guadalajara and José del Gadillo at Colima will offer considerable resistance, but probably will be unable to check the advance of the rebels who expected to join forces in the vicinity of Siloa preparatory to continuing the advance on the capital.

Reports of Huerta's resignation are generally discredited by refugees who believe he will make a stand to the bitter end. Refugees state they believe rebels will inevitably sack Mexico City should that place be captured by them, the alternative being the evacuation by the Federals who doubtless would sack residences, stores, and banks before taking to the hills. Wherefore many are either leaving for Vera Cruz or fleeing to their ranches where they believe they will be safer, avoiding capture and being held for ransom by Villa.

Mexico City is reported absolutely quiet under the iron hand of Huerta, who is known to be prepared to suppress any disorders with troops. The principal places where mobs would be dangerous are provided with machine guns, and strongly protected by troops.

The reports of the refugees arriving in Vera Cruz of the progress of the rebel forces show the extremity of Huerta's position and reveal the situation as much more dangerous for the dictator than the

VILLA PUTS OUT CARRANZA OFFICIAL

Gen. Chao Deposed as Executive Head of Chihuahua State.

FEDERAL PLEA SPURNED

EL PASO, Texas, May 5.—Gen. Manuel Chao has been removed as Constitutionalist Governor of Chihuahua by Gen. Francisco Villa. The report of the change in executives reached the border to-night. The removal, it was said, was the result of an intrigue against Villa by Chao in an effort to have the conqueror of Torreon replaced as General in Chief of the army.

Trinidad Rodriguez has been named Governor of Chihuahua, and Gen. Chao has been ordered to report at the front beyond Torreon for active service in the field. Silvestro Terrazas, who has been Secretary of State for Chihuahua and a close friend of Chao, was removed at the same time with his chief, and has been succeeded by Augustin Labanstadt, formerly Inspector of Police for Gov. Abram Gonzalez.

Chao and Terrazas, who is not connected with the rich Federal family of that name, are regarded as being closely aligned with Gen. Carranza, while their successors are friends of Villa.

When Villa was in Chihuahua for his conference with Carranza on the policy to be pursued toward the United States he gave orders that Chao should not confiscate the property of one of his friends who owned a handsome residence on the Alameda in Chihuahua. After Villa left for Torreon Chao confiscated the property that Villa had ordered him not to touch. He delivered the house to one of his personal friends, who immediately called in all of his neighbors for a house-warming.

Villa heard of this at Torreon when his friend protested to him direct. He ordered Trinidad Radriguez to return to Chihuahua, assume the position of Governor, and put Chao out. Chao refused to go. Villa made a flying trip to Chihuahua to depose Chao. He is reported to have knocked him down and threatened to shoot him.

It is asserted by the Constitutionalists here that Gen. Carranza himself warned Chao that unless he curbed his tongue he would find trouble. Opponents of the Constitutionalists here point to the removal of Chao as a widening in the breach they insist exists between Carranza and Villa.

Word has reached Constitutionalist officials here that Gen. Alberta Guajardo, the Federal commander defeated by the Constitutionalists under Gen. Murgas after the Federals had evacuated Piedras Negras, and who was supposed to have been killed in the battle, has crossed the border and is now hiding in San Antonio.

Constitutionalist officers will make a request to the United States officials to have Gen. Guajardo arrested and "interned" in the same manner as the Federals who crossed the border after the battle of Ojinaga.

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico, May 5.—In a statement directed to American newspapers, Gen. Carranza reiterates that foreigners can return to their pursuits in Constitutionalist territory without misgivings as adequate measures have been taken to afford them every protection. Gen. Carranza is eager for a general resumption of all industries.

The last of Gen. Villa's field forces, a squadron of 260 cavalry, left this city for the front yesterday. It is understood that operations against Saltillo will be pushed with unceasing vigor, although there is a strong impression here that no great resistance will be offered at that point and that the Federal force will retire on or before the approach of the Constitutionalists and make their real stand at San Luis Potosi.

A Constitutionalist army of about 9,000

REBELS RESUME TAMPICO ATTACK

FEDERALS ARE REINFORCED

Probably Have 2,700 Troops in City—Rebel Force Also Is Reported Strengthened.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The truce between the Mexican Federals and Constitutionalists at Tampico has been broken. Admiral Badger to-day noted the resumption of hostilities in this message to the Navy Department:

> Firing continues daily at Tampico, and Admiral Mayo reports having heard heavy guns fired ashore yesterday morning. The steamer Camaguey has arrived at Vera Cruz from Tampico, bringing reports that the Federals at Tampico were reinforced by 1,500 men last week.

Admiral Badger reported Sunday that he had a message from Admiral Mayo, stating that it was reported that the Constitutionalists had arranged a truce, the Federals occupying the south bank and the Constitutionalists the north bank of the Panuco River.

To-day's message indicates that the reported truce was of short duration. It appears to have been made after the arrival of Federal reinforcements last week. Constitutionalists also have been bringing up reinforcements and guns, the latter supposedly from Monterey.

Two weeks ago there were about 1,200 Federal troops in Tampico with guns and ammunition for arming two or three thousand citizens besides. The Camaguey has been reported as bringing 1,500 men, making the Federal total 2,700 men. The Federals have about sixteen modern field guns and fifty or more machine guns.

American naval officers at Tampico have warned foreigners that if they land at Tampico they do so at their own risk. The district has been practically cleared of Americans, those remaining being mainly at the oil wells. Both the Constitutionalists and the Federals have given assurances that they will not molest persons connected with the oil wells, and Secretary Bryan said to-night that these assurances also included protection of the oil wells from attack.

> The rebels made a sharp attack on the north and northwest defenses of the city yesterday. No definite result on either side. There is a persistent rumor in Tampico that Villa, with a large body of troops, is coming down to assist in the attack on Tampico. From the best obtainable sources there has not been any destruction of oil properties as yet.

> The chartered transport San Marcos, for Galveston; the hospital ship Solace at 5 P. M., for New York; the destroyer Cummins, for Tampico, and the destroyer Ammen, for Galveston via Lobos Island and Tampico with mail.

WON'T RESIGN, SAYS HUERTA.

Has Had No Thought of Doing So, He Tells London Daily Mail.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, May 6.—The Daily Mail's Mexico City correspondent, who has had an interview with President Huerta, reports him as saying:

"I have had no thought of resigning the office which the republic conferred upon me."

Gen. Huerta also said that his health was good.

When asked about his sentiments toward the American people, he said:

"The conduct of my Government and of the Mexican people toward the Americans remaining here during the present conflict is the best answer to your question."

LONDON, Wednesday, May 6.—The Times in an editorial article on the Mexican situation to-day says:

"The position is too tense to last. Peace hangs by a very slender thread, which the first untoward incident may snap. If mediation is to preserve peace, mediation must do its work quickly, and the difficulties in its way seem almost insurmountable. If President Wilson insists that Gen. Huerta be eliminated and Gen. Huerta obstinately refuses to submit to that operation mediation will have ended before it has well begun."

Mediators Still Leave Door Open to Carranza.

PESSIMISM IS DOMINANT

MEDIATORS EMBARRASSED?

Gossip Has It That Bryan Appears to be Too Much in Their Confidence.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Announcement was made to-night in behalf of the mediators of Mexico's troubles that Niagara Falls, Canada, had been selected as the place of their proposed conference with the representatives of the contestants involved. A strenuous effort is being made to induce Gen. Carranza to become a party to the conference there. He has been asked to participate on the broader grounds laid down by the mediators, which he was unwilling to acceupt because the consideration of the differences between the Huerta Government and the Constitutionalists was included. Meanwhile the star of peace has lost a lot of its brightness.

The announcement of the mediators was made for them by Secretary Bryan in the following brief statement:

"The mediators have notified the different parties that Niagara Falls, Canada, has been selected as the place where the mediators will confer with the representatives of the different parties interested in the mediation, and that May 18 has been fixed as the date when the conference will begin."

Endeavors to bring Carranza around to the mediators' way of thinking are being made through various sources. John Lind, President Wilson's special advisor on Mexican affairs, spent part of to-day with Rafael Zubaran, Minister of the Interior of the Constitutionalist Government, who has come to Washington to represent Gen. Carranza's interest in the mediation proceedings.

It is believed that representations on the part of this Government are being forwarded to Carranza through Señor Zubaran.

Door Still Open to Carranza.

Carranza is still regarded officially as a party to the mediation negotiations. In notifying him in a polite way of their dissatisfaction with his refusal to agree to an armistice and to undertake peace exchanges with representatives of the Huerta Government, the mediators left the door wide open for his re-entry into the present negotiations. It is understood that the invitation for a conference at Niagara Falls, Canada, mentioned in to-night's announcement, was extended to Carranza as well as to the de facto Government of Mexico and the Government of the United States.

For the time being, however, the mediation negotiations are being conducted by the "A B C" envoys with the United States and the Mexico City Governments. As matters stand now, the negotiations have become limited to the differences between the United States and Gen. Huerta growing out of the indignity offered to the Stars and Stripes at Tampico. But the mediators, following the suggestion contained in Secretary Bryan's note of April 25, insist that the whole Mexican problem is within the scope of their effort to bring about peace, and for that reason they are fearful that the refusal of Gen. Carranza to take part in the negotiations will make their labors fruitless.

The attitude of the mediators toward Gen. Carranza's refusal to agree to the proposal for an armistice was expressed in a note which they sent by telegraph to him yesterday. In it they took issue with his contention that the trouble between the Huerta Government and the United States over the Tampico affair was independent of the difficulties which the Federal Government and the Constitutionalists were trying to settle by force of arms. They hold that both matters are interrelated and tell Gen. Carranza that if he adheres to his present attitude they will be obliged to withdraw their invitation to him to participate in the mediation conference.

But a definite withdrawal of the invitation is not set forth in the mediators' note, the text of which follows:

"We have received your telegram in which you are kind enough to tell us that you deem it inconvenient for the Constitutionalist cause to suspend hostilities against Gen. Huerta, on the ground that such suspension would only accrue to the benefit of Huerta, and in which you declare that the international conflict between Mexico and the United States, for whose solution you accepted our good offices, is independent of the internal strife in the former country.

"We consider this unexpected statement as inconsistent with the idea which caused us to offer our good offices. We think, indeed, that all the difficulties which have contributed toward the present situation in Mexico bear either directly or indirectly on the solution of the pending conflict between Mexico and the United States. Consequently we think that these difficulties should be made the subject of consideration of the negotiations for whose successful conduct we have deemed it indispensable to suspend hostilities.

"Should you not deem it so, we should be compelled in that case to withdraw as inopportune our invitation for the appointmentof representatives of the Constitutionalists in such negotiations. We beg to assure you of our highest consideration."

Taking it all in all, the outlook for peace in Mexico is not rosy. In the opinion of most of those concerned a conference for the mere purpose of adjusting this country's troubles with Huerta over the Tampico affair will leave the Mexican situation practically where it is. The desire of the United States Government, as well as of the diplomatic representatives of Argentina, Brazil and Chile, who compose the mediation committee, is to provide a means through the movement instituted by the mediators to adjust all Mexico's troubles and not solely the comparatively unimportant side issues which culminated in the landing of American armed forces at Vera Cruz.

Carranza's shyness of a mediation that contemplates a complete peace is well understood in Washington. He believes that to assent to an armistice and enter into peace negotiations with Huerta would rob him of the fruits of victory that he sees within sight. Gen. Villa's preparations for continuing his offensive campaign are nearing completion, and undoubtedly there is confidence on his part and on that of Gen. Carranza that they will soon be able to enter on the final phase of the programme which has for its object the capture of Mexico City.

Both Carranza and Villa believe, according to what is said here, that, should they commit themselves by submitting their case to the mediators, they might find that they, personally, or others whom they favor, would be left out in the cold in any settlement of the Mexican problem which involved setting up a provisional or permanent government in Mexico City.

Mediators Have a Grievance.

The United States Government is regarded as looking with complacency upon the attitude of Carranza and Villa. Present conditions are decidedly satisfactory to the Washington Administration, which finds itself practically free from the danger of being forced into general hostilities with the Huerta following, while at the same time Huerta is harassed by the Constitutionalist forces, which are better able than ever to take the offensive. According to the gossip in diplomatic circles this same complacency is extremely distasteful to the mediators as well as to a large section of the Latin American diplomatic contingent. They are represented as feeling that the mediators are being placed in the position of engaging in an undertaking of which the United States Government and the Constitutionalists are likely to be the chief beneficiaries to the consequent disadvantage of the Huerta Government.

Under all the rules of the game Gen. Huerta must stand on an equal footing before the mediators with the United States and the Constitutionalists. Therefore it is not pleasant for the neutrals who are seeking to bring about peace to hear comment indicating that the sole result of their labors thus far has been to place this Government and the Constitutionalist authority in a better position to achieve their common purpose of forcing Huerta from power.

Nothing has appeared in the surface indications of the official procedure to show that the United States has observed other than what is known in diplomacy as a correct attitude. But the undercurrent of unofficial comment in diplomatic circles discloses that considerable feeling exists. As for Carranza, the dissatisfaction with his course is openly expressed, as witness the note telegraphed by him to the mediators, the text of which they are pleased to see printed in newspapers.

The mediators are clinging tenaciously to the hope that their efforts for peace will be a success. In common with the rest of the Latin-American diplomatic contingent, they believe that if Mexico's troubles are settled through the efforts of Argentina, Brazil, and Chile the cause of pan-Americanism will be advanced to a marked degree and Latin America, or at least its most important nations, will be placed on equality with the United States in the adjustment of American questions.

American Gains Through Mediators

For a time during the last day or so, comment was heard in interested quarters tending to show dissatisfaction with the close relations existing between Secretary Bryan and the mediators. The latter have had frequent conferences with Mr. Bryan, and all their announcements have been made through him. Whether the criticism that has been going the rounds has reached the ears of the mediators has not been made known; but it is a fact that some of the comment indicated a belief that Mr. Bryan had shown diplomatic skill in utilizing the mediation proceedings to the advantage of the United States.

This advantage was gained, in the view of some observers, through the consequent suspension of hostilities between the Huerta Government and the United States without the withdrawal of the American forces from Vera Cruz, Huerta's principal port, while at the same time preparations went foward among the Constitutionalists for continuing their aggressive campaign.

However, no official note is taken of this state of affairs. To all appearances Mr. Bryan is on the most cordial terms with the mediators. Reports current this afternoon that hereafter the mediators would make their announcements directly to the press, instead of through the State Department, were disposed of by the fact that it was Mr. Bryan who announced to-night on behalf of the envoys that Niagara Falls, Canada, had been selected as the place for the real mediation exchanges.

Although officials are reticent on the subject, this Government must be fully aware of the dangers that confront the mediation movement. The note of pessimism is louder than the note of optimism at this time. Indications that the Government is not confident of the success of the efforts at mediation are given in the active preparations which are being made to meet any hostile emergency that may arise in Mexico.

Opinion is widespread here that Huerta's present pacific course may be changed at any time. The theory advanced here is that Huerta, granting that he is in dire straits represented by dispatches from Mexico, will prefer to be forced from power by the might of the United States rather than by the aggressive followers of Carranza and Villa. As things stand now, his acute trouble with this Government over the Tampico incident is in a quiescent stage, but through the tentative truce that exists, with American troops still holding Vera Cruz, the Constitutionalists are at an advantage in continuing hostilities.

Following out this theory, some observers argue that Huerta may be expected to order his forces to commit some overt act that will compel this Government to abandon its present course and make real war on the Huerta authority. The belief here is that officials of the Administration are apprehensive of some such outcome of present conditions.

Secretary Bryan said yesterday in response to questions that the Huerta Government had taken the ground that its assent to the principle of the proffered mediation carried with it a suspension of hostile activity. This accords with the interpretation formally expressed by Mr. Bryan in a note to the mediators on his acceptance of the mediation proposal. With Gen. Huerta and the United States in accord on this subject a gentleman's agreement may be said, to exist between them with reference to a suspension of hostilities.

Mr. Bryan was careful to point out, however, that no "truce" had been concluded.

"Truce," he said, "is an agreement between two parties at war. We have not been at war. There has been no agreement that there shall be no hostilities. We have merely notified the mediators that there will be no hostilities during the negotiations. Huerta has notified the mediators that he had the same understanding."

Secretary Bryan said to-night that no progress had been made toward the selection of the American representatives to participate in the peace conference. He indicated, however, that some names were under consideration.

FLED BEFORE WARSHIPS.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

U. S. S. SOUTH DAKOTA, VIA SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 5.—The Annapolis is bringing sixteen refugees, including women and children, to Mazatlan for transshipment. The Annapolis reports anti-American demonstrations on the west coast, but Federals gave escort to the ship at Salina Cruz. The British Consul is now representing the United States there. The Annapolis said that when the Denver touched at Salina Cruz on last Tuesday the entire population fled.

Troops evacuated Acapulco on the arrival of the South Dakota, but returned later. Commandante Sale issued a proclamation from Mexico City offering amnesty to all rebels joining the Federals against the United States. No shore leave was granted.

Federal officials were celebrating false news of the situation in the north, stating that 500 Americans were killed at Vera Cruz, and that Villa and Carranza had joined Huerta to start a march into the United States, capturing El Paso and Brownsville.

Acapulco is menaced by Zapatistas, who may attack the garrison.

reports that have come to this city from the border towns of Texas.

If the refugees are correct and Huerta has decided to make his final stand at the town of Queretaro, he will have allowed the main rebel force to come within 167 miles of his capital. Queretaro is a strategic railway point. It is the "neck of the bottle," and all railway trunk lines to the north and west pass through it.

The line of the rebel attack from the northwest starts now at the rich mining City of Zacatecas, in the State of the same name, where hard fighting is reported going on. The next large cities which are said to be able to offer small resistance to rebel attacks are Aguascalientes, in the State of that name; Leon, further down the same line of railway, and Guanajuato, a rich mining centre.

While operations are being carried on against these places it is reported that Constitutionalist forces from the State of Sinaloa, on the North Pacific Coast, will advance toward Guadalajara, and from there, following the railroad, to Colima, and presumably on to the Port of Manzanillo, which has figured prominently in the Mexican news, chiefly through false reports of bombardment. Many refugees have fled from this district, and have reported dangerous encounters with the Federal authorities.

With Queretaro, Manzanillo, and Tampico in their control the rebels will have throttled the Government in Mexico City. The capital would have outlets through Vera Cruz and Puerto Mexico on the Atlantic, and Salina Cruz, and possibly Acapulco, on the Pacific. This is leaving out of account the bands allied with Emiliano Zapata, which have long carried on their operations to the south of the capital.

Denies Huerta Is Aiming Blow.

By The Associated Press.

VERA CRUZ, May 5.—A prominent business man, arriving from Mexico City, says that Huerta has done nothing to show that he expects a forward movement of the American Army or is likely to offer serious resistance in case of such a movement.

Except for shipping a dozen or more cannon to the vicinity of Paso del Macho, the headquarters of Gen. Gustavo Maass on the Mexican Railway, and a like number to Gen. Guillermo Navarrete at Jalapa on the Interoceanic Railroad and supplies of dynamite for mining the bridges on the railroad, nothing has been done by Gen. Huerta, he asserts, to prepare for resistance on the road from Vera Cruz to the capital.

The business man, who made these statements, called on Gen. Maass at Paso del Macho, having been furnished a safe conduct by Gen. Huerta. He spent some hours with the General, while the train on which he was a passenger was held pending the arrangement of formalities.

From personal observation the refugee estimated that Gen. Maass had less than 1,000 men under his orders. He saw only a few small detachments here and there on the way from the capital.

Gen. Navarrete, who is said to have entered Vera Cruz a few days after the American occupation and moved about freely in disguise, is now reported to have 500 to 600 men with him at Jalapa.

Twenty-four Big Guns Landed.

In spite of this and similar optimistic statements, however, Gen. Funston is taking many precautions.

In addition to the field guns landed from the war vessels, twenty-four powerful pieces of marine artillery have been placed in position for defense.

It is pointed out that an artillery attack, directed on the waterworks at El Tejar, is the most favorable plan open to the Mexicans, and Gen. Funston is making preparations to repel any such attempt.

The latest information confirms reports of the destruction of the San Francisco Bridge and also of one smaller one nearer Vera Cruz. The abutments were dynamited and the structure let into the water. One of the bridges was destroyed by Mexican irregulars.

So far as is known the Soledad bridge is still unharmed, but is supposed to be mined in the same way as the others.

Other reports from the capital, originating in sources no less credible, assert that Huerta, instead of yielding, has determined to play out the game. He knows that mediation will mean time, even if it does not lead to an amicable adjustment of the difficulty.

Several representative citizens of Vera Cruz held a meeting this morning to forward the organization of certain civic departments, and assist generally in the re-establishment of municipal institutions. Committees were appointed, which will co-operate with the Americans in reopening schools and carrying on hospitals, asylums, &c.

Mulcahy, who was sentenced to five years' imprisonment by Provost Marshal Commander D. F. Sellers for blackmailing the proprietor of a gambling house, is not to serve his sentence. He was deported to-day, and left for Galveston on the San Marcos.

Heart failure!

If your head bookkeeper came to you and said, "Mr. King, we've got to have two more clerks on the billing desk," you would probably ask a few questions and then say, "All right."

But when we ask $500 for an Ellis Adding-typewriter that will do more work than any two $15 a week clerks that ever "toted" up a column of figures, you pretty nearly have heart failure.

That, too, in spite of the fact that the first cost of an Ellis machine is almost its only cost.

We notice, however, that banks and business houses that buy an Ellis always buy another. That tells the story.

Phone us and one of our service men will call and explain how—with an Ellis—you can save 50% of the cost of making out your monthly statements and doing your ledger posting.

DR. RYAN STILL HELD, CABINET PRISONER

SEEK NEWS OF SILLIMAN

Bryan Anxious to Get in Communication with Saltillo Consul—Americans Reported Detained.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 5.—Dr. Edward W. Ryan of the American Red Cross, brought from Zacatecas, is in Mexico City, but has not been released from custody. He is held under the surveillance of a member of the Mexican Cabinet, but is to be permitted to go from Mexico City on a special train which is to leave there on Thursday for Puerto Mexico carrying a large party of refugees.

These facts were made public to-night by Secretary Bryan, who explained that he based them on information which he had received from the Brazilian Minister in the City of Mexico, who is at present looking after American interests in that capital. Secretary Bryan said at first he understood that Dr. Ryan was being held in custody by the Mexican Secretary of State. A few minutes later he said he was not sure whether it was the Secretary of State or the Mexican Minister of Foreign Affairs who was detaining Dr. Ryan, but that, in any event, he was certain Dr. Ryan was being held by one of the members of the Mexican Cabinet.

"Meanwhile," added Secretary Bryan, "the Brazilian Minister in Mexico City is looking after the comfort of Dr. Ryan while he is being detained."

If Mr. Bryan had other details regarding the detention of Dr. Ryan he did not disclose them to-night. He was asked whether he had any information concerning the reasons for Dr. Ryan's detention, and replied in the negative. He also said he had no information as to the reasons for the original arrest of Dr. Ryan.

Mr. Bryan said that he had asked for the relief and release of Dr. Ryan and following that Dr. Ryan was delivered into the custody of a member of the Cabinet in Mexico City.

Wilbert L. Bonney the American Consul at San Luis Potosi, and his wife have arrived safely in Mexico City. Word to this effect reached Secretary Bryan to-night. There had been fears for the safety of Consul Bonney because of failure to communicate with him. Until this message came to-night from the Brazilian Minister at Mexico City no word had been received concerning him since the Tampico incident on April 9.

No Tidings of Silliman.

Secretary Bryan to-day renewed his efforts to get into communication with the American Vice Consul at Saltillo, John R. Silliman, who has not been heard from for a month. A news dispatch last night asserted that Consul Silliman was being held a prisoner and for eleven days had been in danger of execution. When Secretary Bryan was asked to-night whether he had been able to communicate with Consul Silliman he answered in the negative.

Admiral Badger reported to the Navy Department to-day that the torpedo boat destroyer Drayton, at Tuxpam, sent this information received from the British Consul:

"A number of Americans who have arrived at the Consulate from Mulaltuyea, which is in the State of Puebla, about sixty miles from Tuxpam, say that thirteen Americans have been detained at Mulaltuyea against their wishes, the authorities giving as a reason that they wish to assure the safety of the Americans from possible harm. The Consul wired the Governor of Puebla requesting their release, as the authorities at Tuxpam can do nothing owing to the town being in another State. The British Consul reports that nothing can be done until he hears from the Governor of Puebla."

Delay of Refugee Train.

The Brazilian Minister at Mexico City notified Secretary Bryan late this afternoon that owing to the lack of rolling stock the refugee train which was to leave Mexico City at 6 o'clock last night, would not be able to leave until the same hour on Thursday. Secretary Bryan said he had positive assurances that Dr. Ryan would be put on board this train and sent to Puerto Mexico with the other refugees.

Admiral Badger to-night sent to the Navy Department a dispatch confirming the information which Secretary Bryan had received concerning this refugee train. In his dispatch Admiral Badger said:

> The refugee train did not leave Mexico City for Puerto Mexico last night as planned, on account of lack of cars. The train will probably leave to-morrow or next day. Will send the chartered steamer Esperanza down to Puerto Mexico to get the refugees when definitely learned that train has left.

Consul Canada also sent a dispatch about this refugee train, saying he had received information from a former clerk in the American Embassy, still in Mexico City, that about 500 Americans, now in Mexico City, would be taken to Puerto Mexico on this train. He added:

"This trainload practically exhausts the Americans who wish to leave Mexico City, but arrangements will continue to be made for the transport of any who desire to leave later. The Puerto Mexico route is chosen as more secure than the one to Vera Cruz."

Consul Canada in another report today said that "the alleged killing of a woman named Clara Beckmeyer is also characterized as without foundation, the murder of whom by a mob had been made the subject of inquiry by the State Department."

The American Consul at Nogales today in a report to the State Department said: "The reported murder of a German citizen by the Yaqui Indians is denied by Col. Calles, in command in the Yaqui country."

The department said in its bulletin on this subject: "It is further stated that no person named Otto Muller was in the Yaqui Valley, and the whole incident is said to have been false."

FIGHT ACROSS THE BORDER.

Texas Militiamen Repulse Attack on Pumping Station.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, May 5.—It was learned yesterday that an attempt was made on Saturday to dynamite a large irrigation pumping plant on the Rio Grande, sixteen miles above Brownsville, and on Sunday night a detachment of State militia guarding the plant exchanged about 150 shots with persons across the international boundary.

Militiamen in Brownsville will be replaced by United States troops this week, but guards at irrigation projects and several isolated towns up the river are expected to be maintained by the Texas National Guard.

Two companies of coast artillery arrived here to-day from Jackson Barracks, La. Two more companies were due to-night, which would make a total of 500 regulars here to replace an equal number of Texas National Guardsmen.

FUNSTON PREPARED TO REPEL ATTACK

Vera Cruz Has New Report of Maass's Increasing Strength—Outposts Are Rearranged.

CELL FOR WOMAN "SNIPER"

Accused of Having a Gun, She Is Promptly Sentenced to Six Months' Imprisonment.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.
From a Staff Correspondent.

VERA CRUZ, May 5.—Reports continue to reach the city that a large force of Mexicans is massed in and around Soledad, twenty-six miles out of the city, on the Mexican Railway.

In military circles it is not believed that there are more than a few thousand Mexicans at Soledad, and that these include women and children. Most Mexicans, when they go to war, are accompanied by their families.

Despite the reports, no sign was seen of Huerta's soldiers to-day, and everything was quiet at the American outposts.

To-day was Mexico's "Fourth of July," but it was as quiet there as a country Sunday in America. There were no parades and no display of any sort by the natives in commemoration of the event.

Two hundred thousand dollars in American silver money was received here to-day to relieve the shortage in change.

The food situation with reference to the poorer classes is still serious.

The public health service is working out an elaborate system of sanitation for the city.

A Military Police Department has been organized, and many native policemen have been engaged.

A Mexican woman who was arrested on the charge of having a gun in her possession has been sentenced to six months in jail.

The correspondent of The London Daily Express, arriving from Mexico City, is cabling his newspaper to-night an interview with President Huerta. He quotes Huerta as saying:

"I am taking every precaution to protect all foreigners against all eventualities, but it is not necessary, as Mexicans are not savages."

The correspondent describes the attitude of Huerta as calm, impassive, and fatalistic.

All the reports from Mexico City indicate that it continues to be quiet there. All the stories of refugees show the temper of the populace between Mexico City and Vera Cruz toward Americans has greatly improved.

The refugee train, which was to have left Mexico City last night, did not start. It is now scheduled to depart for Puerto Mexico Thursday. The reason for the delay is officially stated to be lack of rolling stock, but railway men believe it is due to lack of fuel for the engines.

Agustin Rodriguez, who is reported to have been named by Huerta as one of the delegates to the mediation conference, is a strong believer in intervention by the United States. He said months ago that he believed this was the only solution of Mexico's problem.

F. P. Splitstone of Leslie's Weekly and Paul Davis, correspondent of The Brooklyn Eagle, who were released from captivity at Saltillo as the result of direct orders from President Huerta, and arrived here yesterday, tell this story jointly of their experiences:

"The three American newspapermen sent to the front at Torreon as special guests of the Huerta Government, have returned safely, Paul Davis of The Brooklyn Eagle and F. T. Splitstone of Leslie's Weekly, to Vera Cruz, and William H. Nutter of The Boston Herald to Mexico City.

"The party got only to San Pedro de Las Colonias where the Constitutionalists stopped the Federal advance. Gen. Velasco fell back from Torreon to San Pedro, uniting all the Federal forces in the Laguna district, but was forced to evacuate San Pedro on April 13.

"Davis, who left April 6 with the permission of Gen. K. De More, was arrested and held in the barracks at Hipolito until the Federal retreat reached that place. He endured great hardships. Nutter and Splitstone made the retreat largely on foot.

"The whole party reached Saltillo on April 20. During the demonstration on the 21st Davis and Nutter were arrested on the street and confined in the penitentiary with Vice Consul J. R. Silliman and nine other Americans.

"Splitstone was held a prisoner at a hotel, but got to Mexico City on April 25, and took up with the Government the detention of the others. Meantime Davis and Nutter were treated with great severity. They were released on April 30 and helped to get to Mexico City by British Consul McMillen of Saltillo.

"Their troubles were due entirely to Gen. Joaquin Maass, Jr., Governor of Coahuila, who accused them of being spies. Their effects were searched by the secret police and their papers confiscated. The European correspondents that accompanied the party were not annoyed in any way.

"The anti-American demonstrations in Saltillo, San Luis Potosi, and other points to the north of Mexico City were all inspired by the Federal authorities and were violent for two days, but no Americans were killed or seriously hurt in Mexico. The demonstrations ended on Friday, the 24th, and Americans are now doing business as usual."

WON'T PRESS WILSON.

British Government Refuses to Interfere with Mediators' Work.

LONDON, May 5.—Sir Edward Grey, Foreign Secretary, was invited by Sir John David Rees, Unionist, in the House of Commons this afternoon to ask the American Government "to abandon its position that the removal of Gen. Huerta is of greater moment than the restoration of peace and the protection of life and industry in Mexico."

The Foreign Secretary declined, saying that in view of the fact that mediation had been undertaken by Argentina, Brazil, and Chile it could serve no useful purpose for the British Government to make separate proposals on its own account to either Washington or Mexico City.

The Federal Governor at Tampico, the Secretary continued, had given assurances that the employes of the companies operating oil wells in that district might return, while Gen. Huerta had promised to issue orders permitting all nationalities to return and resume work, saying at the same time that he would do his best to prevent fighting in the oil district.

under Gen. Pablo Gonzales is approaching Saltillo from the east, while another strong force under Gen. Antonio Villareal is advancing from the west. With the body advancing from the north under Gen. Villa it is estimated the complete Constitutionalist army will number 25,000 men.

Preparations are being made to press the attack on Tampico and there also will be increased military activity in western Mexico toward Mexico City, where the rebel advance has been slow for some weeks on account of the illness of Gen. Alvaro Obregon.

Gen. Carranza will leave for Torreon and Monterey within the next few days.

It was learned here to-day that the railroad between Saltillo and San Luis Potosi has been cut by rebels. It is thought this will cut off the advance of any Federal reinforcements for Saltillo.

JUAREZ, Mexico, May 5.—By order of Gen. Avila, chief of arms at Juarez, the duty on flour entering Mexico has been suspended for eight days. This action was taken to relieve the distress among the poor of the State of Chihuahua, who were thrown out of work when American and foreign mining properties were closed down.

VILLA SPURNS FEDERAL PLEA.

Denounces Maass, Who Urges Union of Forces to Fight Us.

TORREON, Mexico, May 4, via El Paso, Texas, May 5.—The answer of Gen. Francisco Villa to a request from Gen. Maass, who commands the Saltillo Federal garrison, that Villa join the Federals in avenging the American occupation of Vera Cruz, was delivered to the Federal messengers to-day.

Gen. Maass's letter to Villa was as follows:

Saltillo, April 28.

To Gen. Francisco Villa:

I have received instructions to notify the revolutionary chiefs that American intervention in Mexico is an accomplished fact. The United States of the North, have committed a grave offense against Mexico by disembarking troops in Vera Cruz on April 21, and by taking similar action at Salina Cruz two days later. This act alone constitutes the intention of war, and this is the supreme moment to call on the patriotism of all Mexicans to present a united front and forget our difference in the intense love of a country of which we are possessed. We can consider the enemy only as a foreigner, who in the most unjust and ignoble manner has stepped upon the holy soil of our fatherland.

It is well known that the North Americans, following the hypocritical and undignified conduct which they have used in all cases of intervention, have declared that they will not fight against the revolutionists, but only against the Government, but it is clearly to be seen that this conduct is for no other purpose than to keep us divided and make easier their conquests. As Mexican patriots we should not permit foreign nations to mix in our internal affairs.

We, therefore, call upon our brothers to rally to the common cause for the defense of the national integrity. You could not more nobly yield your present position than for the purpose of rallying to the cause of the whole of Mexico, that we may all march together against the invading Yankees. I have such faith in your patriotism that I do not doubt that the forces of your command will rally to fight the invasion of the Americans.

I reiterate to you assurances of my distinguished consideration.

J. MAASS,
General in Chief of the Division of the Bravo.

In reply to Gen. Maass, Gen. Villa sent this letter:

In answer to your letter of April 28, in which in accordance with your instructions you invite me to march with you against the foreign invaders of our country, I would say that I understand your actions fully and also the present diabolical machinations. I know that as an accomplice you took part in the infidelity and treason of February, 1913, (Madero's death.) This is perfectly well understood, and you should know that we cannot pardon it, and also know that it will be the cause of your ruin.

I therefore give you this answer only because your official request and my answer are historical documents, and I owe to posterity an explanation of my conduct.

I know that the Cientificos, by various processes, have up to this time sought to bring about North American intervention in Mexico. It is known without doubt that the coming of the Americans was desired and provoked by you. The manner in which you have excited internal troubles and then called upon all Mexicans to help fight the external troubles is clear to all the world.

Gen. Huerta and you did not show much wisdom when you were converted into instruments of the Cientificos and brought about the assassination of President Madero, Vice President Pino Suarez, and some other liberal Democrats, because you did not realize that the blood of the heroes, who started the Democratic movement in 1910, would cause a civil war, which would lead to your ruin.

Now you desire to provoke a foreign war to save yourselves from the disaster coming from the civil conflict. You show even less wisdom when you pile up mountains of machinations and lies which will crumble about your ears.

You have sought to make this union between yourselves and the Constitutionalists, who are under arms, and with the pretext of a foreign war you seek to arm many Mexicans whose sympathies are not with you, but whose patriotism you expect to exploit, without reflecting that you are about to arm a people who in justice would chastise your crimes, when they discover you are an assassin of Democracy. These same people you seek to win over by starting a war against a foreign nation to serve your personal interests and those of your party.

It will soon be proved that the Satanic declarations which you traitors to the Fatherland have made in stating that we have formed a union with the North Americans is a stupid assertion which will cost you your existence and bring to your families an eternal shame.

The Constitutionalists have the desire to do all possible compatible with the national dignity to avoid a foreign war, but if we are not able to avoid it, we will face two enemies, the powerful stranger and the depraved compatriots.

For constitution and reform,

FRANCISCO VILLA,
General in Chief.

COMPARES WARRING FORCES

Huerta's Troops Unreliable, He Says—Constitutionalists Fight for an Idea.

PARIS, Wednesday, May 6.—This morning's Matin publishes the following dispatch from its foreign editor, Jules Hedeman, who is observing the Mexican crisis from Washington:

"Telegrams from Vera Cruz state that the revolutionary General, Zapata, who is operating in the southern part of Mexico, intended to attack the capital to-day. [Tuesday.] This news may be dismissed as impossible. The forces which Zapata commands, numbering roughly 20,000 men, according to the revolutionary estimates, are far too badly equipped to enable them to attack with any chance of success Mexico, the principal fortress of Huerta.

"Gen Zapata will no doubt be the first of the revolutionary Generals to get near the capital. He will be able to worry Huerta's men in the suburbs. But he will have to await the arrival of the other Carranzista Generals, coming from the north and northwest, before penetrating or attacking the city.

"In order to follow in a more comprehensible way the events in Mexico, it is necessary to give some explanation.

"No comparison is possible between military operations in Mexico with those in Europe—for instance, with those that lately upset the Balkans or with those that occur at present in Africa. Huerta's army, like that of the revolutionaries, is not the kind of army to which we are accustomed in Europe. His forces are more or less bands of men scarcely drilled, hardly instructed, poorly equipped, with little or no artillery. They do not engage in battles such as we in Europe are accustomed to. They fight as the Boers did during the Transvaal War.

Rebels Fight for an Idea.

"But in the present case Carranza's forces fight for an idea, while those of Huerta fight because they are more or less forced to. The revolutionists, who are completely masters of the northern half of the country, hold in addition positions in several parts of the southern half of Mexico. They are well received by the population, and it is easy for them to find recruits among them.

"It is different for Huerta, who is obliged, in order to fill his ranks, to have recourse to all sorts of expedients. His General, Maass, in command at Vera Cruz, said a few days ago to the representative of The New York World that he was unable to oppose the landing of American troops in Vera Cruz because he had only 1,000 men with him, of whom there were only about fifty upon whom he could rely, while the others were prisoners whom he had got from the fortress of Vera Cruz.

"At the present moment the revolutionists operate roughly what may be called four armies—one in the northeast, one i nthe northwest, one in the centre about Saltillo and somewhat further south, and the fourth at the south of the capital. The first three armies are descending toward Mexico City, trying to get hold of the ports of Mazatlan and Tampico. Meanwhile the southern army is coming up north. It is said that the number of men in these armies is between 10,000 and 12,000 men each. It is maintained also that the troops still faithful to Huerta are numerically less important.

"A telegram from Mexico says that after the next battle, which will take place around Saltillo, the revolutionists will have exhausted their ammunition, and will be unable to continue their march for some time.

Admit Lack of Ammunition.

"In a conversation that I had to-day with Señor Zubaran, Carranza's representative in Washington, who left Chihuahua something like a week ago, and with Señor Villareal, a member of Carranza's Provisional Government, I asked these two men if it were true that their ammunition would give out shortly.

"'We've always been short,' they said, 'but we've always had enough.'

"'The envoys of the "A B C" powers having withdrawn their invitation to Carranza to be represented at the mediation conferences because you refuse to suspend hostilities, what are you going to do?' I then asked.

"'They will mediate without us. How could it be thought for a moment that we would suspend hostilities and arrest the triumphant march of the revolution?' they answered.

"'When do you believe you will be in Mexico City?'

"'It is impossible to say; maybe within a few days; it may take months.'

"'If you are successful in the coming engagement at Saltillo, do you believe you will have much further resistance on the road to Mexico?'

"'We won't have any strong resistance at Saltillo. We will meet, perhaps, a strong one later on. But then the mass of our forces will be converging to the same point, and we shall then be superior to Huerta's troops—if, of course, Huerta is still there at the time.'

"'Do you believe in the possibility of a sudden breakdown of Huerta?'

"'That contingency has not been included in our military plan, in our aim to enter the capital and to give to our country an honest government, and our people the necessary reforms, good order, and prosperity.'"

TWO BLUEJACKETS DIE.

Solace, with 45 Wounded, Starts North.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Two more of the sailors wounded in the taking and holding of Vera Cruz died on the hospital ship Solace at anchor off that port to-day. Both of them were bluejackets from the battleship Utah. They were:

HENRY PULLIAM, fireman, first class; born Feb. 6, 1882; home address, Pulaski, Va.; next of kin, G. W. Pulliam, father, Pulaski, Va.; enlisted Feb. 2, 1911, at Indianapolis; assigned to the battleship Utah since Aug. 31, 1911.

CLARENCE REX HARSHBARGER, seaman; born March 31, 1892; home address, 160 Centre Street, Waverly, N. Y.; next of kin, C. O. Harshbarger, father, 160 Centre Street, Waverly, N. Y.; enlisted Jan. 21, 1911, at Waverly.

Immediately after the death of these men and before Admiral Badger's message was received, announcement was made that the hospital ship Solace had been directed to return to this country.

As soon as the wounded have been disposed of by the Solace the hospital ship will hurry back to Vera Cruz, so as to be available for the care of other sick or any who may be wounded in any shore fighting at Vera Cruz or vicinity.

THE GERM-KILLING THROAT TABLET

The crowded street-car's twice-breathed air—

IF in the very streets, open and wide-swept, we cannot help inhaling myriads of germs, how much more danger must there be in the crowds such as we mingle with in stuffy street-cars and other crowded places?

Crowds mean germ dangers. The throat is the germs' easiest route into the system. Throat protection, therefore, is of vital importance. And science has supplied a trustworthy means of protection in FORMAMINT, the germ-killing throat tablet.

It is a little tablet—handy to have with you at all times—pleasant in taste. Sucked like candy, it frees in the saliva an efficient yet harmless germicide and so disinfects every nook and corner of the mouth and throat. A tablet taken occasionally not only soothes away irritation but insures that throat "cleanliness" so necessary to health. Endorsed by over 10,000 physicians. 50 tablets for 50 cents—at all druggists.

Enrico Caruso, The world's greatest tenor, writes: "I have found Formamint Tablets very pleasant to the taste and beneficial to the throat."

Dr. Wm. Lee Howard, the well-known medical author, writes: "I have no hesitation in stating that in Formamint we have a remedy that is invaluable in keeping the mouth and air passages free from germ infection."

Times, alone, gained in April

In April, 1914, The New York Times published 22,355 agate lines more advertising than in April, 1913. It is THE ONLY New York morning newspaper which published a greater volume of advertisements, daily or Sunday, in April, 1914, than in April, 1913.

The New York Times is the only New York morning newspaper which published a greater volume of advertisements in the first four months of this year than in the first four months of last year.

The average daily and Sunday circulation of The New York Times for the half year ended April 1, 1914, was 246,118; exceeding the COMBINED average daily and Sunday circulation of The Herald, The Sun, and The Tribune.

TELLS OF DUNGEON AND INSULTED FLAG

HELD A CAPTIVE FOR WEEKS

Our Consulates Sacked and Ruined—No Safety for Foreigners Unless Mexicans Are Punished.

Paul Davis, the corespondent of The Brooklyn Eagle, who went to Mexico at the invitation of President Huerta, and whose fate after the fall of Torreon was in doubt for several weeks, sends the following dispatch to his newspaper:

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, May 5.—I have just reached Vera Cruz after a series of experiences almost every one of which gave me good reason to fear that my time was up and that I would never be able to grasp a friendly hand or gaze again upon the flag of my country floating from a pole.

I have seen that flag subjected to the grossest insult, and those who claimed its protection threatened with death and treated with the greatest cruelty.

I have passed through the country and have seen the American Consulates sacked, and the safes containing the State documents and department codes rifled of their contents. The Consuls themselves were imprisoned and suffered tortures with the death threats of the Mexican officials hanging over them constantly.

To sum the whole matter up, the Mexicans have sown a crop that will mean a bitter harvest for them in the not far distant future. The news from the remote interior is just beginning to filter through from refugees now streaming into Vera Cruz from all directions. Each one brings a story more gruesome than the other, and horror piles on horror until it makes the average American's blood boil to think that our forces must sit idle while such outrages are going on.

I myself witnessed the first repulse of the column sent to relieve Torreon, and anticipating the complete rout of the Federal forces, I secured a pass from the commanding General and left for Mexico City.

Held Captive in a Guardhouse.

On April 6 I was taken from a train at Hipolito, a water tank town in the middle of the wildest desert this side of Sahara. I was detained there in a guardhouse for fifteen days, until the shattered Federal forces passed through in their mad flight to Saltillo.

The picture of that defeated and dejected mob—for it seemed like nothing else to me—is almost beyond description. Think of ten thousand panic-stricken soldiers, many of them badly wounded, and all of them tired to the point of exhaustion, hobbling along, suffering agony at every step, their sufferings aggravated by the pangs of thirst that could not be quenched.

In the despairing crowd were many women, some of them bearing evidence that they had been wounded, and some of them carrying young babies in their arms. There was not the slightest sign of organization; every man and woman seemed to be struggling on blindly in the hope of reaching some haven where their sufferings might, for a time at least, be alleviated.

The Federal officers I spoke to were extremely bitter against the Americans, some of them even claiming that in the rebel army there was a regiment of United States artillerymen who manned the guns that had played such havoc in their ranks.

Twelve Thrown Into Dungeons.

I reached Saltillo April 21, and then Gov. Maass, in response to the demands of an excited mob, gave an order to arrest all the Americans in the place, including the Consul and his Secretary, claiming that he did this to protect them. These, with ten others, including myself, were all taken to the penitentiary, placed in underground dungeons, and had no food for twenty hours.

There was not a stick of furniture in any of the cells, and we had to sleep on the stone floors that reeked with dampness, and were unspeakably filthy.

News of our plight reached the British Consul, who went to the Governor and obtained permission to send food and blankets to us. We conferred over the delicate situation, and it was decided to leave matters as they were, as the British Consul feared that a dozen Americans he had sheltered at the British consulate would also be arrested and thrown in with us.

I can safely say that food never tasted better than that which was sent by the representatives of Great Britain and the comfort we got from those good old English blankets will cling to us all our lives, as a sweet and pleasant memory.

Consul Silliman repeatedly asked for a hearing, but got no satisfaction, and hour after hour passed, during no second of which we were certain of our lives.

I must put in a good word for the Superintendent of the penitentiary. He was inclined to make our hard lot as easy as he could, and though he was under orders to keep us in close confinement, he took a big risk and placed us in what are called open-air cells. On Sunday we had the very extraordinary privilege of stretching our legs in the prison yard.

Consulates Rifled and Demolished.

On this Sunday one of the outrages I have mentioned took place, when the Secretary of the Consul was taken by officials to the American Consulate, and under threat of immediate execution was made to open the safe, from which everything was removed, including the most private papers and documents belonging to the United States Government.

On Thursday I managed to get a note to the Governor, in which I claimed that I should be released, as I had come to Mexico at the invitation of Huerta, and that, moreover, I was desperately ill. I was released that night.

On Friday I reached San Luis Potosi and found that the British Consul at that place had saved our Consul by taking him to the British Consulate and refusing to give him up to the Governor.

The hysterical mobs in this place also demolished the American Consulate, taking especial delight in tearing the American flag to tatters and committing indecencies in this connection that will not bear telling.

Seventy-five of us Americans were packed, sardine fashion, in the British Consulate for ten days. We were uncomfortable, but safe. At the end of the ten days we were shipped to Mexico City on a special train, which got through in spite of stoning by mobs, whose cry was, "Death to the Gringoes!"

The temper of the mobs throughout the country is at fever heat against everything American, but no deaths have so far resulted as far as I can learn from their activities. This shows that at heart the Mexicans are afraid. Mercy is a trait that has no part in the average Mexican's make-up.

I found things quiet in Mexico City. It is generally thought that the demonstrations by mobs there were a last frantic effort on the part of the Huerta Government to arouse a sentiment of support for the Huerta régime.

There are several Americans still in prison at Saltillo, but they are in no present danger.

Urging Huerta to Resign.

The Government is proceeding with great caution, as the officials seem to fear that a change may come at any moment. There are only two men now in Huerta's Cabinet who are supporting him. The rest, it is reported, are doing everything to get him to resign.

It has been reported several times since Thursday that he was about to retire, but he continues to hang on. Huerta's worst enemy must admire his remarkable grit. Up to a few days ago people fawned on him, and the masses shivered at his very frown. Now, however, he passes to and from his auto and in and out of cafés without the sycophants who formerly surrounded him. He usually eats alone now.

The Presidency fell into his lap like a ripe apple from a tree and he has played the game to the limit. He has overlooked no trick that seemed to be for his own advantage. He has remarkable backbone and there is not one drop of "quitter" blood in his body. A weaker man would have been assassinated long ago, or at least put in jail, but Huerta's personality has kept him in power and will continue to do so to the last ditch.

He has taken extreme measures against the possible invasion of Mexico City, and has placed no less than six carlods of dynamite in the citadels. He has also planned to plant mines all about the city. He will fight to the death, but Blanquet, as during the Madero revolution, holds the key to the situation. The Twenty-ninth Regiment and the Palace Guards—the pick of the army—move at his beck and call.

In every city in Mexico there is a handful of Americans who refuse to leave, hoping from day to day that Huerta will be eliminated, and that the coalition of the Federals and rebels will follow.

All Americans agree that if the insults to American citizens are not punished the country will become uninhabitable for foreign residents. The army is straining to advance and reclaim American property at the cry of the Government that the native land of the Mexican is being invaded, and this cry has helped in securing recruits in the smaller cities. In the capital every one seems apathetic, the citizens being calloused to all sorts of political strategies.

FLED FROM THE OIL FIELDS.

Pollack Says British Ship Helped Many American Refugees.

Rudolph Pollack, manager of development of the Cortez Oil Corporation, which has oil fields near Tampico, who was one of the American refugees carried to Galveston by the battleship Connecticut, told last night at the Vanderbilt of his rescue, with 135 other Americans, by a tugboat flying the British flag, and their trip in a British oil steamer past the Mexican warships in the harbor of Tampico.

Mr. Pollack arrived yesterday with his wife from Galveston. Mrs. Pollack reached Galveston on the Ward liner Esperanza without having heard from her husband, who was seventy-five miles from Tampico when she left.

For six months Mr. Pollack had been in the oil fields. He is a petroleum engineer by profession. The Cortez Corporation is an American corporation and has offices at 27 William Street.

"We were in full operation in the oil fields on April 21, when all communication was suddenly cut off," Mr. Pollack said. "We suspected some trouble, but did not know what were the latest developments at Tampico. The Aguila and Huastoca companies, whose fields are in the same district, shut down, and on April 23 I decided that it would be well for us to do likewise.

"All the American workers, most of them drillers, about 100 in all, started for Tampico along the Panuco River. In a lagoon we came upon a launch. We heard that the Mexicans were killing all Americans. On the way we picked up a number of American ranchers.

"Although we heard reports of the violent anti-American demonstrations at Tampico, we had no trouble out in the country. The natives are of the lower order and understand very little of what is going on. There is, however, an undercurrent of anti-American feeling among these people, and a strong leader would be able to get them started. They are for the main part not in sympathy with Huerta or Carranza or any faction.

"Before we got to Tampico we were hailed by a tugboat flying the British flag. Its Captain would not permit us to land. We were placed on the English tank steamer El Zorro and kept overnight. The next day, which was April 24, the El Zorro ran by all the Mexican gunboats without interference and we boarded the Connecticut. There were 460 refugees on the Connecticut. I heard there of the demonstration by Mexicans at the Southern Hotel in Tampico. The hotel occupants, of whom my wife was one, had fled.

"Mrs. Pollock said that it was a miracle that every one in the Southern Hotel was not killed. A number of Texan ranchers were stationed in the hotel windows for sharpshooting, but the mob was violent and it was only the German Commander who checked the invaders."

Mr. Pollock said that he was to meet other oil men at the Rocky Mountain Club to-morrow night and discuss the situation in the oil fields. Plans must be made and carried out, he said, or property worth millions of dollars would be destroyed. If the oil wells were permitted to flow, he said, the Panuco River would be covered with oil and the Mexicans probably would set fire to it and wipe out the whole district.

REFUGEES ADOPT A YELL.

It Says That "Teddy" Is All Right and Hisses Bryan.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, May 5.—Reports from the quarantine station to-night are that the Ward liner Monterey, which will be released to-morrow, will be held here for use as a troopship in case of emergency. The Monterey brought 623 refugees from Mexico.

These refugees have been intensely bitter against the Administration and its method of conducting affairs in Mexico. When the ship arrived the men and women refugees, who in many instances had been compelled to leave all they possessed, lined the rails and cheered for Theodore Roosevelt. Hisses and catcalls and a chorus of "To hell with Bryan" further expressed their sentiments.

The refugees plan to repeat their demonstration upon landing here to-morrow. The men of the party have formed an organization and have adopted a yell which runs about like this: "He's all right." "Who's all right?" "Our Teddy, he's all right." "What's the matter with Bryan?" A hiss follows at this point.

SENATE DISCUSSES VILLA.

Resolution of Inquiry on Report That President Will Recognize Him.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—A latent feeling of discontent at the apparent friendliness existing between the United States and the Mexican rebels, Villa in particular, broke out in the Senate this morning, and was only stopped by the apparent determination of the Democrats not to be led into a general discussion.

Mr. Lippett of Rhode Island started the conversation by introducing a resolution asking the President for the truth of a report that he was considering the recognition of Villa as provisional President of Mexico.

Some time later the subject was revived when Mr. Lodge of Massachusetts, the ranking Republican of the Committee on Foreign Relations, read to the Senate a brief biography of Francisco Villa that appeared in The Daily Telegraph of London on April 15. The biography recounts in detail an appalling number of murders and still worse outrages alleged to have been perpetrated by Villa in person. Many of the charges set forth in The Daily Telegraph's account have already been vouched for by Senator Fall of New Mexico.

It has been reported for some time that the State Department was preparing a biography of Villa that would set him before the public in a better light than that now shining upon him. Mr. Lodge referred to the State Department's work with a little smile and added:

"I submit these detailed facts, with names and places and persons, to assist the department in its editorial labors."

The discussion ended there.

PRESIDENT COMING; CITY TO HONOR DEAD

MAYOR TO NAME CITIZENS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—President Wilson decided to-day to attend the ceremonies at the New York Navy Yard over the remains of the sailors and marines who were killed in the fighting at Vera Cruz.

Secretary Daniels announced that the President would leave here on Sunday night and that he would make the only address at the ceremonies, which will be held in the navy yard on Monday morning, May 11. Admiral Dewey, President of the General Board of the navy, has been invited to accompany Secretary Daniels to New York for the ceremonies, but it is probable that the Admiral will not be able to go on account of his health.

Secretary Daniels has also invited Lindley M. Garrison, the Secretary of War; Franklin D. Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy; Henry P. Breckinridge, the Assistant Secretary of War; Admiral Bradley A. Fiske, Aid for Operations; Admiral Victor Blue, Chief of the Bureau of Navigation, and other high staff officers of the navy in Washington to accompany him to New York for the ceremonies.

Late this afternoon Secretary Daniels issued this announcement regarding the plans for the occasion:

> Tentative plans were made to-day by the Navy Department for the memorial services which will be held at the Brooklyn Navy Yard on Monday morning next in honor of those who died as a result of wounds received at the occupation of Vera Cruz.
>
> As the burial service was held by the Chaplain of the fleet before the departure of the cruiser Montana, and as the bodies will be taken from the navy yard to the homes of the relatives for the final interment services, the ceremonies at the Brooklyn yard will be entirely by way of a public recognition on the part of the Government of the services these men have rendered their country.

Plans of the President.

President Wilson will leave Washington on Sunday night by train and will make the only address. The Secretary of the Navy and his staff will proceed from Hampton Roads in the naval yacht Mayflower and meet the Montana off the Capes, acting as escort of honor to New York Harbor. The Secretary has invited Admiral Dewey and the Secretary of War to accompany him.

Somewhere in the harbor, at a point not yet determined, the battleship Wyoming and cruiser Tennessee, now at the New York Navy Yard, will meet the Montana and Mayflower and return with them.

Capt. Gleaves has notified the department that the Mayor of New York has requested that the bodies of the men be landed at the Battery and transported on caissons furnished by the city from the Battery to the City Hall and from the City Hall across the Brooklyn Bridge to the Navy Yard. Just what will be done in regard to the Mayor's invitation will not definitely be determined until Thursday or Friday, when the arrangements will be completed.

It is expected the landing will be made about 10 o'clock on Monday morning. After the ceremonies at the navy yard the Montana will proceed with the bodies of the three New England men to Boston. The other bodies will be taken from the navy yard by train to their homes.

The three New England men who lost their lives in the Vera Cruz fighting were Walter L. Watson, who is to be buried at Orleans, Mass.; Daniel A. Haggerty, who is to be buried at Cambridge, Mass., and Rufus E. Percy, who is to be buried at Concord, N. H. All the relatives of the dead sailors and marines have been informed of all the arrangements for the arrival of the Montana at New York next Monday, and in each case the Government offered burial in the National Cemetery at Arlington, Va., with full military honors.

Secretary Daniels said to-day that he wished the fact emphasized that the ceremonies at the New York Navy Yard were not to be considered as funeral ceremonies, but as memorial exercises. The bodies are to be shipped to the points where their relatives wish to have them interred, and the funerals will be held at the latter places.

Mayor to Name Committee.

Mayor Mitchel will to-day appoint a committee of one hundred to represent this city in the memorial ceremonies for the sailors and marines who fell in the Vera Cruz fighting when the Montana arrives here on Monday. The Aldermen also decided to co-operate with the Mayor's committee in the services.

Theodore Rousseau, secretary to the Mayor, held a conference with Capt. Albert Gleaves, Commandant of the Brooklyn Navy Yard, and outlined the plans of the city for the reception of the dead. He asked that permission be given to land the bodies in Manhattan rather than in Brooklyn, as was originally planned. Capt. Gleaves telegraphed the request to Secretary Daniels and later he notified Mr. Rousseau at the City Hall that the Secretary was glad to have the city co-operate, but he asked that no detailed plans be announced until Friday.

Mayor Mitchel sent a message to the Board of Aldermen in the afternoon suggesting that the city participate in honoring the men killed in the encounter. He told the board that he had suggested to the commandant of the navy yard that there be a formal reception of the bodies and that they be escorted by the city authorities and others from the Battery to the Brooklyn Navy Yard by way of the City Hall.

"It is suggested," the Mayor wrote, "that it will be appropriate to receive the bodies formally at the City Hall with brief ceremonial. To this end the City Hall should be draped, and other arrangements in and about the plaza should be made. The cost of these arrangements, it is estimated, will approximate $2,500.

"I am about to appoint a citizens' committee of arrangements, and I urge that your honorable board appoint a committee to represent it and to co-operate with the citizens' committee in the direction of the ceremonies. I also respectfully suggest that your honorable board take the necessary action toward the appropriation of the required funds in accordance with Section 38 of the Charter."

Immediately after the reading of the Mayor's message Alderman Henry H. Curran offered this resolution, which was adopted:

> Resolved, That all the members of the Board of Aldermen are hereby appointed as a Committee of the Whole to act in co-operation with other representatives of the City Government for the fitting public reception of the bodies of the United States sailors and marines who so bravely and devotedly laid down their lives for their country at Vera Cruz.

Alderman Frank L. Dowling then offered a resolution that all city business be stopped for one hour after the arrival of the bodies at the Battery "as a further mark of deference to the memories of the deceased." This was adopted, and the necessary funds were voted.

Tentative Arrangements.

The tentative plan is to have a large detail of foot and mounted police at a landing place at the Battery to act with the Reception Committees. The bodies will be brought ashore on a naval tug and placed upon caissons. The escort will include the naval militia, a band, and details of sailors and marines. After the bodies will come the carriages containing the President, the Secretary of the Navy, and other officials. The detail of marines will carry the bodies from the tug to the caissons. There will be in the line the men of the Montana, the men from the navy yard, officers, mourners, and the committees of citizens.

The line of march will be up Broadway to the City Hall, over the City Hall Plaza to Park Row, and thence up either Centre Street or Park Row to Canal St. The route will be over Canal Street and Manhattan Bridge to the navy yard in Brooklyn.

No orders were issued yesterday, according to Col. William G. Haan, Chief of Staff of the Department of the East, for the army to participate in the reception of the dead. There is no standard salute for the homecoming of the dead, he said, and the salute which will be fired upon the arrival of the Montana will be fixed, it is believed, by an order from Washington. The War Department will probably decide whether the salute will be fired from one of the forts at the Narrows or by the saluting battery on Governors Island. The salute is usually fired by one of the forts down the bay. If it is left to the Department of the East, the salute will probably be fired by the battery on Governors Island. A salute fired there, the officers say, will be more effective than a salute fired almost out of sound of the city.

O'SHAUGHNESSY WAS CUT OFF.

Acute Situation When Huerta Stopped All Cable Communication.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, May 5.—Nelson O'Shaughnessy, former American Chargé d'Affaires at Mexico City, said to-day that the Huerta Government flatly refused him permission to use the cable during the two days he was not heard from. Mr. O'Shaughnessy arrived this morning on the gunboat Yankton, and left to-night for Washington. He acknowledged that he received messages from President Wilson and Secretary Bryan asking him to hurry to the capital.

"I had rather a hard time getting out of Mexico," Mr. O'Shaughnessy said. "On April 22 and 23, when the State Department expressed anxiety about my safety, I was high and dry in Mexico City, but the Huerta Government denied me the use of the cable. The attack upon the residence of Consul General Shanklin, however, threatened to be a very serious affair. The mob of young Mexicans went so far as to tear down the escutcheon and trample upon it.

"I cannot answer your questions about what I think of the situation in Mexico. I have promised not to do that, and as for what I think of Huerta, I can only say that my dealings with him were largely of a business nature, asking him to settle questions arising, and for that reason I am not prepared to express my opinion. I will admit that the situation is acute. During the two days Huerta held back my cables the situation was critical, I'll admit."

REFUGEE CALLS IT CRIME.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 5.—The story of how 150 Americans, men, women, and children, took refuge in the Southern and Imperial Hotels in Tampico and, as he asserted, were saved from death at the hands of a mob of 600 Mexicans on April 21 only by the interference of the German cruiser Dresden, after the American warships had been withdrawn, was told by John Penrose, an official of the National Oil Companyof this city, a refugee who arrived here to-day.

At the height of the crisis and through somebody's stupidity, Mr. Penrose said, the Dolphin, Chester, and Des Moines raised anchor and sailed out to sea withdrawing American protection from Tampico. The departure of these vessels was little short of an administrative and naval crime. On the Americans who were left behind it had the effect of a funeral procession.

Howling mobs, armed with clubs, stones, and pistols, immediately congregated all over the city, parading the streets and crying for gringo blood. Americans rushed to their homes. Englishmen and Germans appealed to their Consuls and were taken aboard their cruisers and merchant ships.

BARS ALL REAL MUNITIONS.

Embargo Not Modified, but Rectified, Says Garrison.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Secretary Garrison denied to-night that there had been any modification of the embargo recently re-established against the shipment of arms, ammunition, and other munitions of war across the Mexican border, but said there had been a rectification.

"The embargo was intended to apply to those things which might be used in harming people," he said. "It was intended to apply to guns, bullets, dynamite, and such things, but not to flour, clothes, shoes, and such articles. There has been a rectification permitting the latter character of articles to cross the border, but no modification of the embargo against the shipment across the border of real munitions."

Frank Counsel Submit Others Rebutting Prosecution—Woman Denies Conley Owned to Murder.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., May 5.—There were strong indications to-day that Detective William J. Burns will be detained under heavy bond as a material witness before the Grand Jury in its investigation of bribery charges made by the prosecution in the Frank case against the defense, whose method of obtaining affidavits to exonerate Frank of the murder of Mary Phagan and to convict the negro, Jim Conley, of the crime have been called into question. Mr. Burns is at present in Oklahoma City, where he is testifying in a Government land case.

His lieutenant, Dan S. Lehon, Superintendent of the Southern division of the Burns service, was ordered held by Judge Hill yesterday and put under a bond of $1,000, which was given at once.

Solicitor Dorsey, asked if any further arrests had been proposed, stated that no more were likely until the return of Mr. Burns, when action would, in all probability, be taken against him to force his appearance before the Grand Jury.

Mr. Dorsey rested his case shortly after noon to-day at the resumed hearing of the defense's motion for a new trial for Frank, and the defense began submitting its rebuttal testimony. Numerous affidavits were introduced to show the genuineness of disputed affidavits and evidence attacked by the State in its counter showing.

Nellie Wood, the young girl witness accused by L. P. Eubanks on the stand yesterday, asked Solicitor Dorsey to let her speak in her own defense, and the request was granted by Judge Hill. Examined as a witness to-day, she said that she had been engaged to be married, and that Eubanks's "scandalous story had practically ruined her." She reiterated that she left the National Pencil Factory because Frank insulted her, and she asked to be excused from reciting details of the alleged offense.

Poison Plot Against Conley?

Charges of a poison plot which had Jim Conley as its intended victim were made by Annie Maud Carter, the negress who made an affidavit for the defense, alleging that Conley had confessed the Phagan murder to her.

The Carter woman, who was recently in jail for robbery, swore in an affidavit made public to-day that considerable liberty was allowed to her at the jail, and that one day while walking past Frank's cell block one of Frank's friends came to her and asked her if she wanted to get rich "right quick." She said that the man asked here if she ever visited Jim Conley's cell. She said she answered that she was going there then. Thereupon, according to the affiant, the friend of Frank said, in effect:

"Take this vial and be mighty careful of it. Don't get any of it on you. It is dangerous. Just put a drop in the food that is given Conley."

The woman said she replied that she did not want to have anything to do with killing anybody, and that Frank's friend said that she should not care anything about one negro less, especially who had put the Phagan crime on Frank.

She said she did not know this man's name, but that he had black hair and wore his hat pulled down over his eyes. She said she had seen him in company with a man by the name of Pappenheimert, and that he had come to Frank's cell with the Kline boys.

The affiant also repudiated the letters reputed to have been written to her by Jim Conley. She said Conley had written her, but that there was nothing of vulgarity in his letters as appeared in the notes submitted by the defense as written by Conley.

She said that Deputy Gilleland had offered her $2 to go into Conley's cell and get from him his whole story of the crime and to see if he would admit to any deeper complicity than that to which he had already testified at the trial. She declared that she went into Conley's cell, but that the negro told her he had spoken the truth on the stand and that he knew Frank killed the girl. She denied that she learned that Conley was abnormal.

The affidavit of Aaron Allen, colored, told of the alleged efforts on the part of Detective Burns and his agents in Chicago to get him (Allen) to swear he had heard Conley confess to the murder of Mary Phagan. He told a sensational story about being left alone in a room of the Burns Agency in Chicago with a great pile of money in silver and greenbacks spread out on the table, which he swore he never touched.

Affidavits were also read by the Solicitor from Charles A. Isom, who said he was employed by the Burns agency to go to Chicago and get a statement from Allen.

Frank's Wife as Burns Aid.

The father and mother of Monteen Stover swore that agents for Frank's attorneys had tried to get their daughter to repudiate the evidence she gave against Frank at the trial. They swore that Mrs. Frank and Rabbi Marx came to their home and arranged for an interview between Monteen and Burns; that Burns came out that afternoon, accompanied by Rabbi Marx and Mrs. Frank; that Burns sought to interview Monteen about her visit to the pencil factory on the day of the murder; that she replied to him by suggesting that if he wanted to obtain testimony he could get it by going to the Solicitor; that Burns appeared very angry; that he turned to Mrs. Frank and remarked, "You are up against it; you will have to bear the thorns."

Mr. Dorsey also introduced affidavits from George Epps and about a dozen others, all alleging attempts to bribe and intimidation by agents of the defense.

The defense at once began reading a large number of affidavits in vigorous denial of the prosecution's charge that bribery had been used in the effort to clear the prisoner convicted of the murder of Mary Phagan.

In the affidavit of James I. Innis, a banker and handwriting expert of Chicago, the defense brought forward its strongest evidence that the letters written to Annie Maud Carter and credited to Jim Conley are in the negro's handwriting.

C. W. Burke, Burns investigator, admitted the use of certain subterfuges in gaining the affidavits of some witnesses for the reason that he believed he would be unable to get at the truth otherwise. He denied offering C. Burtus Dalton a $100 bribe for the repudiation of his testimony on the stand, or that he promised Dalton a job on the railroad and to get him a pass from Jacksonville to Atlanta. Dalton, he said, made his affidavit of his own free will, without receiving any undue suggestion as to its statements.

Witnesses to Carter Affidavit.

Swearing that Annie Maud Carter was under no coercion and told of her own accord the story of Jim Conley confessing to her the murder of Mary Phagan, six witnesses signed an affidavit relating that they had heard the woman tell the story and witnessed her swear to its truthfulness in the office of Herbert and Leonard Haas. The affiants were J. Knight, the notary; Rabbi David Marx, Isaac Haas, Isaac Schoen, B. Wilbur, and Otto Schwab.

An explanation of the withdrawal of the affidavit of Samuel A. Pardee, a strong alibi witness for the defense, was offered in an affidavit signed by Frank H. Nealy, who said that Pardee had told him that he had been bothered beyond endurance by Pat Campbell, John Starnes, and other city detectives, who continually sought to make him change his testimony. Later Nealy said that he met Pardee, and that Pardee told him that he was going to the Solicitor's office. The withdrawal of the affidavit followed.

An affidavit signed by Austin G. Denison, a Notary of New York, related that he had taken the affidavit of Miss Ruth Robinson in his room at the Winecoff Hotel, an affidavit which Miss Robinson subsequently denied as a forgery. He said that she swore to it in the presence of Burke, who, however, was not present while Miss Robinson was dictating the statement to him.

J. O. Knight, a notary public, swore to an affadivit to the effect that he took Jimmie Mayfield's testimony, and that the affiant vouched for the truth of the affidavit later repudiated. He swears that Dan Lehon, C. W. Burke, and Herbert Schiff were present when it was made.

B. Wildauer testified in an affidavit that on Friday, May 1, he met J. C. Duffy on Marietta Street and showed him the affidavit in which Duffy recanted his testimony, and that Duffy declared it was totally true. He says that Herber J. Haas was with him at the time and heard Duffy vouch for the truth of the document.

While testimony was being heard relative to the McKnight phase of the case, Attorney Rosser made a veiled accusation that McKnight had been paid to retract his repudiation of his evidence which he recently did upon coming to Police Headquarters and appealing for protection. McKnight is still locked up voluntarily at headquarters.

Rabbi David Marx made the following denial of the affidavit of Mary Rich, alleging that he, Mrs. Frank, Burke, and Lehon attempted to persuade her to give false testimony.

"Her statement is a deliberate falsehood. At the request of Mrs. Frank I accompanied her to the place where Mary Rich has her stand. The purpose of this call was not to intimidate or coerce the woman nor to pursuade her to anything that was not right or proper. It was to ascertain if the story which had been widely circulated that she had sold Jim Conley a lunch near the National Pencil Factory's alley on the afternoon of Memorial Day last year was true, and if true, whether she would make affidavit to this fact. The woman was urged to tell only the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

"She declared that Jim Conley had bought a 20-cent lunch a little before 2:30 o'clock on the afternoon of that day, and at the place where she has her stand, which is near said alley. She said that she knew the time because a gentleman going toward the Terminal Station with a grip in his hand told her the time and that Conley had just left her stand. She further stated that she would sign nothing because the publicity which had been given her had injured her business, and she had sworn not to sign anything, but that she would tell the truth in court. At no time was she asked, nor was it suggested to her by any one in the party, to do anything except tell the truth. She refused to make the affidavit asked for, but insisted that it was the truth, and because it was true she said it then and would always say it. Mrs. Frank told her that her affidavit might be of service, but she said: 'I have sworn not to sign anything, but if called into court I will say just what I have said to you.'

"I understand that she certified to this very thing she told us before the Commissioner appointed by the court to take her deposition."

New Evidence by Defense.

At the resumption of the hearing to-morrow the defense will introduce some new evidence bearing on the Epps, Isom, and Allen affidavits introduced by Mr. Dorsey to-day, and will then close its case. As Solicitor Dorsey has said that he will, in all likelihood, have no further evidence, arguments on the retrial motion will begin to-morrow.

Two of the men named in affidavits read by the solicitor gave out interviews to-day denying flatly the charges made against them. Arthur Thurman, lawyer for the preacher, Ragsdale, said that the latter was "lying in every particular" where he had involved Thurman in obtaining the "confession" affidavits and in paying the two sums of money—$200 and $100—for them.

George Wrenn was the other witness to enter a denial of the charges made against him in the affidavits submitted by the Solicitor. Wrenn said that he never had been in Conley's cell to persuade the negro to take the blame for the crime so that Frank might be freed or represented to Conley that he might have to stay in jail only about a year any way, and after that would have a lot of money. He also said that the affidavits of Fred Perkinson and Frank Reese, negro convicts, were false where they charged him with forming a conspiracy by which they would represent that Conley had confessed the murder to them.

MAN SHOT, DYING IN CAR.

Murtha Was Only Passenger When Discovered.

Frank Murtha, 28 years old, an iron worker, of 563 Prospect Place, Brooklyn, was reported dying in the Brooklyn Methodist Episcopal Hospital early this morning from four bullet wounds in his body. The police of the Fifth Avenue Station were unable to learn who had shot the man or where the assault had occurred.

A man who described himself as Frank McCormick of 901 St. John's Place, Brooklyn, and said he was a member of the Fire Department Salvage Corps, was found by Policeman Higgins of the Fifth Avenue Station, assisting Murtha into a drug store at Third Avenue and Sixteenth Street, Brooklyn, shortly after midnight this morning. When questioned by the policeman, McCormick said that he had boarded a Third Avenue car at Thirty-fourth Street and soon after had noticed Murtha, the only other occupant of the car, swaying in his seat.

McCormick said he asked Murtha what was the matter with him, and Murtha replied that he had been shot. McCormick then helped the wounded man from the car, he told the police, and was taking him to the drug store when the policeman saw him. By the time Higgins came into the case the car was out of sight. After giving his name and address Murtha lapsed into unconsciousness. McCormick was questioned for several hours at the Fifth Avenue Police Station, but the police could not shake his story.

By Wireless to the Editor of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

S. S. FRANCONIA, via Sable Island, May 5.—Those rescued from the Columbian's boat arrived on board the Franconia too exhausted to give full details of their escape. They are now asleep, and particulars of their experiences will not be available until morning.

MILLER, Commander.

FRANCONIA GIVES UP HUNT.

Two Other Vessels to Continue Search for Columbian Boats.

A wireless message received at the Cunard Line offices in this city from Capt. D. S. Miller of the Franconia last night reported that he had given up searching for the Columbian's missing boat and was steaming for Boston. It was timed at 7 o'clock when the Franconia reported that she was 465 miles off the Boston Lightship. The dispatch read:

> Expect to arrive at Boston lightship at midnight Wednesday. Searched, but could not trace other boats. Steamers Manhattan and Haverford steering for position to search.

It was assumed by the Cunard agents last night that Capt. Miller had communicated with the two vessels mentioned and asked them to take up the search. The Haverford is one of the American Line steamers and left Philadelphia for Liverpool on May 2, and the Manhattan of the National Steamship Company of London left New York for Antwerp on May 2 under charter to the Phoenix Line.

The Columbian was a cargo vessel of 5,086 gross tonnage, 442 feet long, 45 feet beam, and 31 feet depth of hold. She was built by Harland & Wolff at Belfast in 1890 and was under charter to the Phoenix Line for this voyage. The crew was shipped in Antwerp, which accounts for the fact that the names are mostly Russian or Scandinavian. The vessel sailed from Antwerp on April 23. Her last report sent out by wireless was on Sunday at 10 A. M., when she was 810 miles east of Sandy Hook.

A. Maclay Pentz, one of the partners in the firm of Sanderson & Son, 22 State Street, agents of the Phoenix Line, said last night that the Columbian was commanded by Capt. McDonald and had a crew of about fifty men, so far as he knew. She carried a miscellaneous cargo, which probably consisted of rags, iron, and general merchandise. He estimated it at $200,000 to $300,000.

When asked if he could account for the explosion reported in the message of the Captain of the Franconia, Mr. Pentz answered that he could not, as he did not know of any chemicals or high explosives in her cargo. It might have been caused by the breaking in of the bulkheads, he added.

The Seydlitz, Capt. Hagenmeyer, was one of the steamships that took part in the rescue of the passengers and crew of the burning Uranium liner Volturno on Oct. 10 last.

PICK UP 6 FISHERS AT SEA.

Frenchmen Adrift Saved Just in Time by Gloucester Schooner.

LIVERPOOL, N. S., May 5.—The Gloucester fishing schooner Jorgina, Capt. Rose, arrived here to-day and reports having picked up six Frenchmen adrift in dories in a gale of wind off the French fishing vessel La Normande of St. Pierre on Bank Quero. The Captain says that in a short time longer these men would have perished. They were sent to the French Consul at Halifax.

Greater Variety and Better Values

May White Sale

Two days of busy service—and hardly an impression on the vast stocks of white garments gathered for the Sale of White.

It is a flowing river of merchandise—new stocks in from the ware-rooms, thousands of garments going forth to satisfied purchasers. And prices are lower than ever before—as Loeser customers expect.

Qualities are quite as high as ever before—perhaps a bit higher. Even at the lowest prices are well made, dainty garments, prettily if simply trimmed.

Fine Millinery

Third to Half Under Former Prices

Surprising, for it is most unusual to find such handsome Hats at such little prices. Many French Hats are included.

Continuation of our annual spring dispersal of Salon Millinery. Many light Hats suitable for wear throughout the summer. Others trimmed with the richest ribbons, with costly feather novelties, with ostrich plumes, burnt ostrich, numidia, flowers, etc.

$15 to $23.50 Hats are now $10; the $25 to $30 Hats are $15; and the $35 to $45 Hats are $25.

A most unusual opportunity.

$1.50 and $2 Summer Silks, $1 and $1.50

Foulards and both black and printed crepe de chine. They will serve for cool summer dresses and will stand hard wear. Beautifully printed in color designs, not a commonplace pattern among them.

The printed crepe de chines include some French novelties that arrived too late to be included, at $3.50 a yard.

BECKER AGAIN ON TRIAL TO-DAY

Chauffeur Cohen, Expected to be Defense's Mainstay, Turns State's Evidence.

WILL BE STAR WITNESS

WHITMAN WILL TRY CASE

Rose, Schepps, and Vallon Ready to Repeat Testimony—300 Talesmen Called.

Harry H. Cohen, the chauffeur who hauled Jack Rose, "Bridgie" Weber, and Sam Schepps about town hundreds of times before the murder of Herman Rosenthal, and was regarded as the defense's mainstay in the new trial of ex-Lieut. Charles Becker, which will begin before Justice Seabury in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court at 10:30 o'clock this morning, sauntered into the office of Assistant District Attorney Frederick J. Groehl yesterday afternoon and made himself comfortable. He had been there many times before, it seemed. The reason he was there was because he had turned State's evidence. Instead of appearing for Becker, as had been generally expected, he will be one of the most important witnesses against the accused man.

Cohen, better known as "Moe Levy," will probably be the centre of the first legal fight in the new trial. It is expected that he will take the stand just as soon as the necessary technical evidence is out of the way. He will tell about the now famous Harlem conference, where the Rosenthal murder plot is alleged to have been planned. He will appear on the witness stand as a non-accomplice, as a witness absolutely disinterested in the Rosenthal case, against whom no indictments or charges are pending. He may take the place of the discredited Schepps as the star corroborating witness for the prosecution, or, if Schepps again takes the stand, he will aid materially to clear Schepps of the incredibility which the Court of Appeals assigned to him.

The Harlem conference is alleged to have been held at night, at Seventh Avenue and 124th Street. Rose first spoke of it, and Webber corroborated Rose. Then Schepps told the same story as corroborating Rose and Webber. Becker called the conference, according to Rose and Webber, and was present. Becker is alleged to have won Webber's co-operation in the murder plot at this conference and to have criticised the other conspirators for not hurrying the murder of Rosenthal.

Cohen Makes Affidavit.

Schepps, in his testimony, said that he and Webber had been brought to the conference by a chauffeur whose nickname was "Moe Levy." The defense could not get the real name of this chauffeur from Schepps. After the trial was over, however, Joseph A. Shay, then attorney for Becker, found Cohen, and he swore in an affidavit that he did not take Schepps and Webber to any conference at 124th Street and Seventh Avenue. Cohen also swore that Assistant District Attorney J. Robert Rubin, now Second Deputy Police Commissioner, had questioned him before the first trial and that he had told Mr. Rubin the same thing. This affidavit was incorporated in the application for a new trial which Becker made.

The general impression which Schepps made, coupled with the Cohen affidavit, led the Court of Appeals, particularly Justice Miller, to denounce Schepps and his story of the conference. It was pointed out as significant that the District Attorney had not called the chauffeur whom the informer named in his testimony. Justice Miller placed great importance on this Harlem conference as being the main link in the case involving Becker. In the Justice's opinion Schepps might have named "Moe Levy" as the chauffeur because he knew that "Moe Levy" could not be found, or, if found, that he would not stand by him in what he said. In Justice Miller's opinion the Becker conviction was reversible on the single ground that there was no ample proof of any Harlem conference.

It behooved the District Attorney, therefore, to patch up his fences. This he has now done.

"How is it that this man Cohen, who swore in an affidavit that he never hauled Schepps and Webber to Seventh Avenue and 124th Street, should now turn State's evidence?" one of the assistants to District Attorney Whitman was asked yesterday.

"I can't answer that now," he replied.

It was said on good authority, however, that Cohen will now testify that he did take Schepps and Webber to the conference corner, and that he will back up Schepps in every detail. The District Attorney, it was said, would plunge right into this conference story and attempt to nail the plot to Becker at the very start. Webber, it was also explained, had added information concerning this conference further tending to injure Becker.

Shay Surprised at New Turn.

Joseph A. Shay was called on the telephone last night in Far Rockaway and told of the latest developments. Mr. Shay could not understand how Cohen had come to be a witness for the prosecution.

"Of course, I am not connected with Becker's case now, and know nothing about this latest move," said Mr. Shay. "If I were connected with the case I would certainly investigate the story. I searched for the chauffeur whom Schepps called 'Moe Levy,' and I found him after the trial. He came to me with a number of his friends and made out an affidavit which was submitted as a part of the application for a new trial. There were five witnesses present when the affidavit was signed, and three of them were strangers to me. I considered the affidavit very strong and was glad to see that the Court of Appeals also considered it so.

"Cohen impressed me as a man of more than average intelligence. He made a very good impression, spoke well, and seemed refined. He admitted that he knew all the informers against Becker, and that he had taken them out in his automobile many times, but he swore that he had never taken any of them to 124th Street and Seventh Avenue. He did say that he carried two of them up Seventh Avenue on July 18, 1912, but that had nothing to do with the case, for the alleged Harlem conference, according to Rose and Webber, took place in the latter part of June, 1912.

"Assistant District Attorney Rubin, in an affidavit which was submitted to the court to offset Cohen's affidavit, admitted that both Cohen and Isidor Schoenhaus, Cohen's partner in the taxicab business, had come to him. But Mr. Rubin said that both of the chauffeurs had told him that they did not recall carrying any of the informers to Seventh Avenue and 124th Street."

The circumstances behind the change of front by Cohen, it is believed, will be aired when Cohen takes the witness stand. It is expected that he will tell a sensational story.

Bernard H. Sandler, attorney for Rose, Schepps, and Harry Vallon, said yesterday that his clients would be within call to-day, and that all were ready to testify, and to repeat their former stories. Mr. Sandler is also attorney for Harry Pollok, the fight promoter, another of Mr. Whitman's witnesses. Pollok is on his way to New York from Los Angeles. At the office of Mr. Whitman it was said that all was in readiness for the trial. Sixty-two subpoenas have been sent out by the State. The defense, it is expected, will have more than that number of witnesses.

District Attorney Whitman will assume personal charge of the trial from the very beginning. He will examine the witnesses, a tedious job in itself which may take the rest of the week. There are 300 talesmen from which to select the jury, but more talesmen will be furnished if necessary. The general impression prevails that many talesmen will object to sitting on the murder case on the ground that the responsibility is too great. It will be pointed out to them in all probability that the ultimate responsibility in case of conviction will rest not on the jury, but on the Court of Appeals. Martin T. Manton of Cockran & Manton will represent Becker.

Special permits have been issued for newspaper men, who will report the trial. There will be no room in the courtroom for the general public while the jury is being drawn. There are not enough seats for the 300 talesmen. After the jury has been drawn a few rows of seats will be open to the public, it is understood. The trial sessions will begin at 10:30 A. M. and extend to 5:30 P. M., with a hour intermission for luncheon.

There will be sessions on Saturday mornings, but there will be no night sessions. One of the objections made by the Court of Appeals to the first trial was the speed with which it was conducted. The Court made a long series of objections to the method of procedure adopted by Justice Goff, in fact. Justice Seabury has made it clear that he will not permit any of the errors which were made in the first trial to be repeated if he can help it. It is expected that the trial will last at least a month.

MOOSE WAIT FOR COLONEL.

Leaders in Conference All Oppose Duell's Boom for Whitman.

The suggestion that Col. Roosevelt run for Governor this Fall on either a straight Progressive ticket or on a ticket backed by Progressives and independent Republicans and Democrats was thoroughly discussed at a conference held on Monday night at the home of Theodore Douglas Robinson, Chairman of the Progressive State Committee, at 750 Park Avenue. At the conference, besides Mr. Robinson, were George W. Perkins, Francis W. Bird, Chairman of the Progressive County Committee, who has just returned from Florida; Chauncey J. Hamlin, the Erie County Progressive leader; Frederick M. Davenport, and William H. Hotchkiss, former State Chairman.

The whole general plan of the Progressives this Fall was gone over. Every one at the conference was opposed to the suggestion put forth by Charles H. Duell, Jr., to nominate District Attorney Whitman for Governor on both the Progressive and Republican tickets by petition and to have him choose his running mates. On the other hand, several were in favor of having the Colonel head an independent movement to be composed of Progressives and independent Democrats and Republicans.

The whole question seemed to hinge on whether the Colonel would consent to be a candidate under any conditions. It was agreed that as soon as the Colonel arrives, the matter would be put up to him, and Progressive leaders from all over the State would be asked to urge him to enter the field.

PICKET CHIEF SEEKS TO CALL ON OIL MEN

ANNOUNCES VISITS TO-DAY

Marie Ganz's Case Again Postponed, but the Charge Is Changed to Disorderly Conduct.

For the second time since he began his free silent picket movement in front of the Standard Oil offices at 26 Broadway, Upton Sinclair will attempt today to make a visit inside the building. Accompanied by Mrs. Sinclair he will endeavor to call at the offices of William Rockefeller, and in case he is informed that William Rockefeller is out he will attempt to call on Percy Rockefeller, his son.

Sinclair wrote letters last night to William Rockefeller and Percy Rockefeller. He notified them of his plan to call, gave a full pledge as to the peaceable character of his intentions, and asked permission to present "a great many facts" concerning the Colorado strike.

He suppressed all activities of his free silence band that he might have a chance to carry out his programme for "switching the social chill from John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to his uncle" without competition among the mourners. One plan, held in abeyance, was to keep a hearse standing at the Standard Oil Building.

The mourners marched in spite of a rain that drenched them. Sinclair walked in front of 26 Broadway for two hours with Mrs. Sinclair. The headquarters of the band at 8 Trinity Place were used as a "drying out" station between tours of mourning duty. On the walls appeared mysterious symbols similar to those found in front of the doors of the two Rockefeller houses in West Fifty-fourth Street and on the sidewalk in front of Calvary Baptist Church in West Fifty-seventh Street. Secretary Shay of the Free Silence Committee said a man unknown to the Sinclair pickets entered, sketched the black circle with the cross in it, and then went out without saying a word.

Marie Ganz, who was arrested for threatening "to shoot John D. Rockefeller, Jr., like a dog," tried to have her case passed over to some other Magistrate than Magistrate Herbert, in the Tombs Court, who had granted adjournments twice. An amended complaint against her was brought in charging her with disorderly conduct instead of threatening to commit murder. If the original charge had been pressed it was found that John D. Rockefeller, Jr., could have been summoned as a witness, and the case would have had to go to Special Sessions.

In deep disgust Harold Spielberg withdrew as lawyer for Miss Ganz. A postponement was then asked for to obtain new counsel. Magistrate Herbert, who was about to leave the Tombs Court, granted an adjournment until to-day, but ordered the defendant to appear before him in the court at 300 Mulberry Street, prepared to go on with the case.

About 300 I. W. W. members who had followed Miss Ganz to the door of the courtroom grumbled against the decision. The I. W. W. members will not be allowed in the courtroom to-day.

ROOSEVELT TELLS OF DISCOVERIES

and attend a luncheon to be given in their honor by the Governor of the State in his palace.

The agents of the Booth Line received a cable yesterday from the company's office in Para informing them that a cable had been received from the head office in Liverpool authorizing the Aidan to be sent as an extra ship to New York for the convenience of Col. Theodore Roosevelt and his party. The steamer will call at Barbados on May 12 and will reach New York on May 19.

In view of his early arrival a member of the Roosevelt family reserved accommodation yesterday, provisionally, on the Vaterland May 26, the France on the 27th, and the Olympic on the 30th for him to select from to cross over to Europe to attend the wedding of his son Kermit in Madrid.

According to news received yesterday by Frank M. Chapman, Curator of Ornithology at the American Museum of Natural History, from Leo M. Miller of the Roosevelt expedition, who forwarded two letters from Brazil. Messrs. Cherry and Miller hoped to return with more than 2,400 specimens of South American birds and mammals. It is presumed that Cherry and Miller joined Col. Roosevelt when he sailed homeward bound from Brazil.

The first letter was dated at Calama, and the second at Manaos. The two letters follow:

"Calama, Amazonas, Brazil, S. A.,
"March 27, 1914.

"Dear Mr. Chapman: I am happy to report that I have completed my part of the expedition, the Gy-Parana party having reached this place on the 22d instant. We had a most interesting trip, though a little 'inconvenient' at times.

"Instead of going straight to Manaos I decided to stay here and collect, for some little time, as Col. Roosevelt has not been heard from to date.

"Calama is a beautiful little place on the Madeira. The steamers between the falls and Manaos all stop here. It takes four days to Manaos. I am stopping with Dr. Carlos Miguel Asensi of Asensi & Co. They are splendid people, and I really regret that you are not here to enjoy their hospitality and the splendid collecting.

"We have had a good deal of rain, but I usually get out at least a little while each day. The mammal collection now nears the 400 mark, and probably contains over 100 species, including, I believe, some good material.

"Expect to leave here April 5 and reach Manaos April 9. As I have had no mail in seven months, am rather eager to get there on that account."

"Manaos, Amazonas, Brazil,
"April 11, 1914.

"Dear Mr. Chapman: Our party reached Manaos yesterday on the S. S. Tiorteloza, after having spent two weeks at Calama on the Madeira, where I added many species to both the bird and mammal collections.

"The bird collection should exceed 2,000, and I hope to bring the mammals up to 400. As I wrote before, no delays were made for collecting, as we had to travel as fast as possible. With regards and best wishes, very sincerely,
"LEO M. MILLER."

HAMLIN NON-PARTISAN PLAN.

Change in Method of Choosing Delegates Urged on Gov. Glynn.

The plan urged some time ago by Chauncey J. Hamlin of Buffalo to hold a non-partisan Constitutional Convention, at which Democratic, Republican and Progressive delegates would have equal representation, was discussed at the Progressive conference of leaders last Monday night. There will be twenty delegates to the convention from each Senatorial district and fifteen delegates at large, and the plan is to have an equal representation from all the parties.

The first step to carry out this plan of a non-partisan convention was made yesterday when a number of Republicans, Progressives and Democrats sent a letter to Gov. Glynn asking him to send a special message to the Legislature now in special session urging the members to consider the problem of how best "to secure the election of delegates to such convention solely upon the basis of their individual merit and irrespective of their individual party affiliations."

Among the signers were Otto T. Bannard, Oscar S. Straus, Clarence J. Shearn, Frederick M. Davenport, John Lord O'Brien, Frank Polk, Horace S. Wilkinson, John B. Rose, Alfred Coxe, Jr., Dudley Field Malone, Darwin R. James, Jr., Adelbert Moot, George B. Burd, W. L. Ransom, A. J. Elias, Henry DeForest Baldwin, Oscar F. Georgi, Chauncey J. Hamlin, John K. Sague, Seth Low, Charles B. Sears, Montgomery Hare, William Burnett Wright, Loran L. Lewis, Jr., Josiah L. Newcomb and Henry P. Keith.

STATE MAY FORCE FOES TO ARBITRATE

Bill for Compulsory Settlement of All Strike Introduced in Colorado Legislature.

TO ASK MINERS TO DISARM

Appeals in Various Languages Will Be Made at Mass Meetings To-day—More U. S. Troops Arrive.

Special to The New York Times.

DENVER, May 5.—The opposing factions in the State Legislature, in special session to deal with the Colorado strike situation, averted a clash to-day by the early adjournment of both houses until to-morrow. The introduction of four bills and several resolutions, all pertaining to subjects outlined in the call of Gov. Ammons for the special session, constituted the day's work.

The administration Democrats, the Progressives, the progressive Democrats, and the progressive Republicans all were caucusing to-night. Thus far not the slightest opposition has been offered to any matter before either House or Senate, but it is known that trouble will be started soon, probably at the opening of the session to-morrow.

The bills introduced to-day provide for a State constabulary, for the prevention of the sale of firearms, for empowering the Governor to prevent the sale of liquor in the strike zone, and for a constitutional amendment for the enactment of a compulsory arbitration law. The last-named bill may be accepted by the anti-Administration men, who nominally represent the strikers. If it contains features to which they object they will try to amend it or put through a substitute.

With a strict compulsory arbitration law, it is argued, Colorado could readily settle all her strike controversies and could prevent any repetition of the present war in the coal fields. The progressive elements charge that the corporations are in control of the Legislature. Therefore they openly question the sincerity of the Administration members who profess to desire a compulsory arbitration law.

Senator Harvey E. Garman, a progressive Democrat, offered a resolution for an investigation of State leases of 21,876 acres of land to the coal companies. This was followed by a resolution from the Administration side for an investigation of the laws in regard to the compulsory arbitration plan. Both resolutions, as well as the four bills, were referred to committees.

A bill which will be fought strenuously by the anti-Administration members probably will be introduced to-morrow. It provides for an issue of $800,000 in bonds by the State to pay the militiamen who were assigned to strike duty in the coal fields.

The progressive factions will demand that before any money is paid for this purpose a committee shall investigate to determine what men were in the hire of the operators, and that pay be denied to these men by the State. That the measure will pass, however, seems certain, as the old-line Democrats and their allies, the "regular" Republicans, constitute a majority in each house.

The question of a resolution to impeach Gov. Ammons is still in abeyance. It was said to-night that whether it was to be introduced at all would depend largely upon the developments of the next day or so. That such a measure would fail is conceded by the Governor's opponents.

WILL APPEAL TO STRIKERS.

Plan Disarmament Mass Meetings for To-day—Regulars Reinforced.

TRINIDAD, Col., May 5.—The question of delivering the arms of striking coal miners to the United States regulars will be put up to the men themselves, according to an announcement made by union officials here to-night. The announcement came at the end of a conference between William Diamond and Robert G. Bolton, strike leaders, and Col. James Lockett and Major W. A. Holbrook. Diamond said the union leaders would urge the strikers to comply with the proclamation of the Secretary of War and turn their guns over to the army officers.

"It must, however, be understood that the guns do not belong to the union; they belong to the men themselves," he added. "If we should order the strikers to bring their guns to headquarters and turn them over to us we would not get 10 per cent. of them. We will explain the situation to the men and use our influence with them to secure obedience to the proclamation. That is as far as we can go."

The union leaders announced that a mass meeting would be held at the San Rafael tent colony at 10 o'clock to-morrow and another at Starkville at 2:30 in the afternoon. These meetings will be attended by union officers and by Major Holbrook and other officers of the army. The demand of the Secretary of War for the surrender of arms will be explained to the strikers in their various languages, and they will be urged to deliver up their guns. Diamond said he thoght a formal vote would not be taken, but that each man would be left to make his own decision.

Major Holbrook said after the conference that the union officers had agreed to use their influence to persuade the strikers to comply with the requirements of the Government. Col. Lockett declined to say what measures he would take if the men failed to turn in the guns. Major Holbrook announced that Col. Lockett would proceed with the work of disarmament "as rapidly as conditions justify."

Preliminary distribution of troops in the Southern district was announced tonight by Col. Lockett. The first squadron, Eleventh Cavalry, was encamped at Ludlow, under command of Major M. W. Rowell. Major Rowell is assigned to control a large district, including Forbes on the South and extending as far North as Rugby. He will station men at Ludlow, Aguilar, and other central points.

The Walsenburg district for the present will remain in charge of Capt. C. C. Smith of the Fifth Cavalary. Two troops of the Second Squadron of the Eleventh, which arrived at Trinidad late to-day, were sent to Monsen, in the Walsenburg district. The others of the Second Squadron were encamped at Trinidad under command of Capt. Rochendack.

The third squardon was delayed by washouts, and is not expected to arrive until to-morrow. It is under command of Major Robert L. Howes. The third Major of the Eleventh, D. R. C. Cabell, arrived to-day from the War College, where he has been assigned, and will take an active command.

B. A. Matteson, assistant general manager of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, who has returned to Trinidad after visiting the Huerfano County field, estimated the total damage done by strikers to the mines in Southern Colorado in the last two weeks as at least $500,000.

THESE MINERS ORDERED BACK

West Virginia Strike Premature—Board to Consider Colorado War.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 5.—Coal miners of the Kanawha district of West Virginia were ordered to-day to return to work and continue the operation of the mines until either a new contract was signed or negotiations with the operators were severed. This action was taken by the International Executive Board of the United Mine Workers of America in session here after it had heard a committee from the West Virginia field. William O. Green, Secretary-Treasurer, said that most of the miners already had returned to work on the advice of the international officers. The men had walked out as a result of a misunderstanding in their contract with the operators.

The board also decided to-day that a committee should be appointed to draft the policy which the board should pursue in the Colorado strike.

REJECT ROCKEFELLER AID.

Amendment Accepted in Senate—Ashurst Denounces Carnegie Also.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—After considerable discussion Chairman Gore of the Senate Committee on Agriculture accepted to-day an amendment to the Agricultural Appropriation bill forbidding the Government to receive assistance in its farm demonstration work from any of the Rockefeller Foundations. The amendment was so modified by Mr. Vardaman of Mississippi that aid could be accepted from local interests directly concerned in the betterment work, although outside assistance would be banned.

"John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has attempted to debauch an American Commonwealth, and the blood of women and children is on the hands of his brutal employes," said Mr. Ashurst of Arizona, a radical Democrat. "Carnegie indirectly caused the streets of Homestead to run red with blood. Instead of approving their action by the acceptance of their money, Congress should pass resolutions condemning them in the strongest terms. Carnegie and Rockefeller both not only exploit the American people in the most shameless way, but they treat their own working people in a most brutal and inhuman fashion."

MUSEUM'S LECTURE PLAN.

Natural History Courses to be Given for School Children.

Prof. Henry Fairfield Osborn of the American Museum of Natural History presided on Monday at the May meeting of the Board of Trustees, at which several subjects pertinent to the welfare and development of the museum were discussed.

The constitution was amended to designate formally the original incorporators as founders, and it was further amended to create a new class of members to be known as associate founders. The contribution of $25,000 makes a person eligible for this class of membership. The following were elected associate founders: Archer M. Huntington, Percy R. Pyne, William Rockefeller, Charles Lanier, Cleveland H. Dodge, Arthur Curtiss James, and Ogden Mills.

The Trustees approved of the general plan for the extension of the museum's educational work by the establishment of local centres in various parts of the city for lectures to school children, and appointed a committee to consult with President Thomas W. Churchill and Superintendent William H. Maxwell in regard to the practicability of carrying out this plan. The Trustees accepted the offer of the Metropolitan Museum of Art to deposit with the American Museum its Peruvian and Mexican antiquities. The ethnological collections have been further enriched by a superb collection of pottery and textiles from Nasca, Peru, which was recently procured from Dr. Eduard Gaffron of Berlin. This culture had not previously been represented in the museum's collection and many of the specimens are of great rarity and beauty.

The Trustees also authorized the President to communicate with the Chinese Government indorsing the movement of the Asiatic Institute for the preservation of the antiquities of China.

BULL MOOSE LABOR LEAGUE.

Coroner Healy Presides at First Executive Meeting.

The Executive Committee of the Workingmen's Progressive Party League met for the first time yesterday at 211 East Forty-fifth Street. Timothy Healy, President of the International Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen, President of the league, presided. Fourteen of the seventeen members of the committee were present. The object of the league is "to secure labor representation in the political campaign next Fall." Theodore Douglas Robinson, Chairman of the Progressive Party State Committee, was present and assured the league of his interest in the movement.

It was decided to hold a public meeting soon and to communicate with the leading labor men in Buffalo, Rochester, and Syracuse, who will be asked to form similar leagues.

The officers of the league are: Timothy Healy, President; A. Harkins, Vice President; F. S. Tomlin, Secretary, and Joseph F. Morrissey, Treasurer. On the Executive Committee are James P. Holland, Arnold B. MacStay, and Benjamin E. Moore among others. The league has a membership of more than 5,000 and was formed three months ago.

R. BELMONT TO PAY WIFE $100 A MONTH

COURT ASSAILS DEFENDANT

His "Career of Idleness" and Extravagance Condemned—He Once Gave $20,000 to the Plaintiff.

Justice Greenbaum of the Supreme Court, to whom was submitted the question of the amount of alimony that should be paid to Ethel Lorraine Belmont, wife of Raymond Belmont, filed his decision yesterday. He said that $100 a month was enough for the deserted wife, but he gave her permission to apply for an increase whenever she could show that her husband's financial situation had improved.

Mrs. Belmont was Ethel Lindner until she became a show girl, when she took the stage name of Ethel Lorraine. She comes of humble parents, while Mr. Belmont is a son of August Belmont, the financier. After the young man had known her several years he tried to break their friendship by paying her $20,000 on March 26, 1912. In return for this money she signed an agreement releasing him from all future responsibility concerning her. They separated then, but he married her the following November in Jersey City.

Justice Greenbaum devoted three days to hearing Edmund L. Mooney, attorney for Mrs. Belmont, and De Lancey Nicoll and John D. Lindsay, attorneys for Mr. Belmont, wring testimony from witnesses. August Belmont was the chief witness for his son. Mrs. Belmont fought her own battle alone as a witness. It was shown that Raymond Belmont had an estate worth $143,284.89 on Jan. 14, 1910, when he reached his majority. From that date until Dec. 31, 1912, he had spent $77,905.47. During this entire period Mrs. Belmont testified that she was constantly in Mr. Belmont's company. That she was a participant in the expenditure of this money, and had received a cash payment of $20,000 were supposed to be the two points that caused Justice Greenbaum to allow her such a small annual sum for alimony.

It was shown in court that while Mr. Belmont still received more than $1,800 a year from the remainder of his estate his father had claims against it that would reduce the income to only $600 a year if they were enforced. It was also shown that for a time Mr. Belmont was employed as a clerk in the firm of August Belmont & Co. at an annual salary of $900.

"The amount of alimony," said the Justice, "must be based upon existing conditions with the assumed earning capacity of $900 and an income of about $2,000."

The court bore heavily upon the idle and extravagant life of the defendant.

"His career of idleness, stimulated by the plaintiff, has not been conducive to a healthy preparation for the serious problems of life," the decision read.

After reviewing the facts in the case Justice Greenbaum said:

"It is evident that an award of alimony may not be based upon the assumption that a generous parent, and possessed of large means, may be expected to continue his voluntary bounties upon his son. There is no obligation upon the parent to contribute to his son's support after his majority, and no power is vested in this court to cause the parent to bestow his benefactions upon his son."

BARNEY ESTATE, $1,105,059.

Nearly $200,000 Added to It by the Judgment Against A. M. Hoyt.

The net estate of Charles Tracy Barney, who committed suicide on Nov. 14, 1907, during the panic and shortly after his enforced retirement from the Presidency of the Knickerbocker Trust Company, has been increased from $909,439 to $1,105,059, according to a supplementary appraisal filed yesterday in the Surrogates' Court.

The assets added to the estate are for $200,000 in payment of a judgment received on Jan. 9 from Alfred M. Hoyt, Mr. Barney's partner in a realty deal in the sale of land at Broadway and Eighty-sixth and Eighty-seventh Streets. The net value of these additional assets is $195,620.

McKAY IN BUSINESS NOW.

Ex-Police Commissioner with Engineering Corporation.

The Directors of the J. G. White Engineering Corporation, 43 Exchange Place, engineers and contractors, of which Gano Dunn is President, announced yesterday that Douglas I. McKay, until recently the Police Commissioner of New York, had been retained as first assistant to the President.

Mr. McKay will give special attention to the development of the engineering concern here and in other cities. He was selected because of his organizing abilities. He is a graduate of West Point, and has a general engineering education.

GEN. DURYEA VICTIM OF A MANIAC SON

WAS COMPOSED IN COURT

"Impulse Came Over Me," His Only Explanation of Murder—Has Been In Several Sanitariums.

Chester Burnell Duryea, who, as told in late editions of yesterday morning's New York Times, shot to death early yesterday morning in their Bay Ridge home his octogenarian father, Gen. Hiram Duryea, famous as the commander of a regiment of Zouaves in the civil war, last night was taken from the Raymond Street Jail in Brooklyn to Bellevue Hospital, a violent maniac. He was confined in a straight jacket and removed in a hospital ambulance after he had been throwing himself against the walls of a padded cell in the Brooklyn jail until it became evident he would have to be taken away for his own safety.

At 7:30 o'clock a call came from the Raymond Street Jail to Bellevue asking that an ambulance be sent to remove a patient for the psychopathic ward. Dr. Wellington responded to the call, and at the jail he found Duryea in a padded cell, throwing himself against the walls and shouting. The jail authorities told the doctor that Duryea had first been imprisoned in an ordinary cell, but that it was feared he would kill himself in his frenzy, in spite of the fact that a policeman stood guard in front of the cell every moment. He was then removed to a padded cell, but his violence did not abate, and at last the jail authorities decided he should have the better care that was afforded by a hospital equipped to handle violently insane patients.

Duryea fought against being taken from the padded cell, but he was overpowered, and with a confining strap his wrists were strapped to his sides. Patrolman Langwell, who had been on guard over him at the jail, went with his prisoner to Bellevue. Duryea calmed down in the ambulance, and by the time the hospital was reached was fairly quiet.

When Clerk Kane at Bellevue asked him the formal question for his records: "Who is your best friend?" he replied, "My father."

"Don't you know your father is dead?" asked Dr. Wellington.

"Oh!" he exclaimed, in apparent surprise. Then he laughed and mumbled some other names, but no one could make out what he was saying. He was taken to the prison ward and strapped to a cot. This ward, according to the authorities, is the only place where he could be kept, as he is a prisoner and must be kept under police surveillance. Policemen do not stay on duty in the psychopathic ward.

Coroner's Physician Gerard Kasper yesterday afternoon made a post-mortem examination of the body of Gen. Duryea. He reported that there were four bullet wounds, two in the chest, one in the neck, and a fourth in the right arm. No satisfactory account of the shooting has been obtained by the police, and it is not known definitely how many shots were fired, the only evidence being that seven exploded cartridges were found in the two heavy revolvers with which the son said he did the shooting. There was nothing to show that all seven had been discharged on the occasion of the murder, however.

Dr. Kasper was asked whether the location of the wounds cast any light on the question of whether the old man had been shot again after he had fallen helpless. The physician said they did not, except that the fact that the right arm had been shattered might indicate that he had raised it in an involuntary attempt to shield himself.

Coroner Senior said last night that he had not determined definitely the time of the inquest, but that it would probably be held next Tuesday evening.

Before Duryea's outbreak last night it was made evident to the satisfaction of the Brooklyn police and others who came in contact with the case that the prisoner was insane when he committed the crime.

This conclusion was reached both by a study of his actions following the shooting and during his arraignment in court and by incidents of his past life. He has been in several sanitariums, and it was said by a relative who came to his aid in court that the family had considered him mentally irresponsible for some time.

He was brought to the Fifth Avenue Police Court in the forenoon to face arraignment on a charge of homicide. During the whole time that he was there he maintained an attitude of composure toward his position, seeming to be interested only in an impersonal sort of way in the fact that he was charged with having shot his 81-year-old father down and pumped bullets into his body while he lay helpless.

Those in the court room were entirely unprepared for the sight of the man who had done such a deed. He was tall and slight of frame, soft in voice, and almost timid in manner, and his clothing was fastidiously arranged, even after his hours in a police cell. In spite of his general calm there were the signs by which the police recognize the demented, the constant workings of the fingers and hands, nails digging into the palms, the twitching of the head and movements of the mouth and jaw, and the periods of aimless concentrated staring.

Just before he was arraigned before the Magistrate, Chester Duryea told the detectives who were guarding him that he had killed his father because he had received a message from Washington that he was to do it. When asked if it had been his intention to shoot himself also, he replied that he had planned that, but after he had shot his father an impulse came to him to desist, that he had done enough.

While he was in court a man who said he was Louis Duryea, a cousin of the slayer, came in and said that after reading of the shooting in the morning papers he had come to help his cousin. It was he who said that Chester Duryea had been considered mentally unbalanced for several years.

"What form did his insanity take?" asked Magistrate Reynolds.

"Oh," replied the cousin, "it had no definite direction; he was simply eccentric, that's all."

The hearing was brief. When asked by the Magistrate if he desired counsel, the prisoner replied that if he should need a lawyer he thought E. Clarkson Seward would take the case. The Magistrate informed him that Robert H. Elder had telephoned him that he had been asked to look into the case.

"I understand," said Duryea, with a slight bow and the somewhat exaggerated politeness of manner he had used all through the hearing.

After this he was allowed to consult with Louis Duryea for a few minutes. The Magistrate then announced that he would hold him without bail for examination on Thursday morning. He was removed to Raymond Street Jail, where he will await the second hearing.

Duryea's manner in court was a good deal like that in which he received Detectives Roach and Henne when they arrived post haste from the Fort Hamilton Police Station, after Duryea had telephoned there at 1 A. M. following the shooting. At this time he was elaborately polite and insisted on showing the detectives all over the house. It was in contrast to his behavior a few hours later, when he raved violently in his cell in the police station.

All the evidence, both from the servants in the house and from relatives, seemed to indicate that Duryea had been on the best terms with his father. One of the servants told of having heard him go to his father's room as late as 10:30 o'clock on Monday evening and ask him if there was anything he could do for him. He himself told the detectives that his father and he understood each other perfectly.

"I don't know why I shot my father," he said; "it was an impulse which came over me. If my father were here now he could explain it."

The younger Duryea is 43 years old. He is a chemist by profession and had worked at the Duryea starch concern. It is said that lately he has been giving a great deal of attention to experimenting on a new process of making starch, and that he had also become absorbed in the study of astronomy. In the library of the house in which he spent most of the evening preceding the shooting, there were found many pages of manuscript of a book he was writing on markmanship. It is also said that he has written a book on chemical subjects. He was known as a crack revolver shot at the Crescent Athletic Club, and he exhibited to the detectives who arrested him a pistol range and a collection of firearms in the cellar of the house.

He was graduated from Columbia University and was received in society with cordiality. Following his divorce, brought by his wife in 1902, a male nurse who had charge of him attempted to have him confined as violently insane in 1909, but an ambulance surgeon who examined him refused to have him confined. His cousin said he had been in several sanitariums, and the servants in the Bay Ridge home say they had noticed him getting more morose and violent lately and had been warned not to "cross" him.

DEPEW BIRTHDAY DINNER.

Ex-Senator's 80th Anniversary Celebrated at Delmonico's.

Ex-Senator Chauncey M. Depew was the guest of honor last night at a dinner given in Delmonico's by thirty-five of his old friends in commemoration of his eightieth birthday. His hosts of last night had invited him to this dinner at a similar dinner given to him on his seventy-fifth birthday, and the invitation was accepted at the time.

Mr. Depew sat at the head of a table decorated with flowers. On his right was Harold S. Vanderbilt, and on his left William K. Vanderbilt, Jr. The table centrepiece was a reproduction in miniature of the old Depew homestead at Peekskill. A big birthday cake was inscribed with his name in fac simile of his signature, with the dates 1834-1914.

Alfred H. Smith, President of the New York Central Railroad, presided. Most of those at the dinner felicitated Mr. Depew, and spoke of his long and useful career. Mr. Depew in a brief speech in reply said he had not lived 80 years in vain if he had gained the affection and esteem of such friends.

Besides those named Mr. Depew's hosts were W. W. Atterbury, Daniel M. Brady, Howard Carroll, John D. Crimmins, P. E. Crowley, Charles F. Daly, Horace C. Du Val, Samuel W. Fairchild, Edgar Freeman, Albert H. Harris, Guy E. Hustis, James H. Hustis, Howard L. Ingersoll, Francis La Bau, Leonor F. Loree, Edward E. McCall, William McElroy, Thomas Nelson, Jr., William H. Newman, Morgan J. O'Brien, Charles C. Paulding, Ira A. Place, Edward G. Riggs, Clinton L. Rossiter, Edward L. Rossiter, William P. Rudd, William H. Truesdale, Frederick D. Underwood, H. H. Vreeland, F. C. Wagner, and W. Seward Webb. United States Senator James A. O'Gorman was unable to be present.

FIGHT OVER $5,000 PLACES.

Hearing on Exemption of Estimate Board Secretaries.

There will be a hearing at 10 o'clock this morning before the Municipal Civil Service Commission in the Municipal Building on the plan to put in the exempt class the six places of secretaries to the Board of Estimate committees recently established at the request of Mayor Mitchel. The offices are Secretary to the Committee on City Plan, at $5,000; to the Committee on Social Welfare, at $5,000; to the Committee on Port and Terminal Facilities, at $5,000; to the Committee on Education, at $4,000; to the Committee on Markets, at $4,000, and to the Committee on Revision of City Charter, at $4,000.

President McAneny of the Board of Aldermen, on behalf of the Committee on Organization of the Board of Estimate, sent a letter to the Civil Service Commission yesterday, in which he said that the duties of the Secretaries are not to be clerical, and that each will be the working head of the committee to which he is assigned. Each Secretary, he said, must have expert knowledge of a particular kind. The Aldermen have already given the plan their approval.

The Civil Service Reform Association is opposed to the new positions being put in the exempt class, and Samuel H. Ordway, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the association, will appear against it at the hearing.

BURY SICKLES IN ARLINGTON

Major Gen. Daniel E. Sickles will not be buried at Gettysburg, but in Arlington National Cemetery, according to a statement made yesterday by his attorney, Daniel P. Hays.

In April, 1910, Gen. Sickles visited Arlington with the late Major A. J. Zabriskie, at that time Secretary of the New York Monuments Commission, and expressed a desire to be buried there. Major Zabriskie made a note of this and informed his son, who told Mr. Hays. Confirmation is given in a note which Gen. Sickles left for Mr. Hays, in which he expressed a preference for Arlington.

The funeral services will take place on Friday morning at 11 o'clock, in St. Patrick's Cathedral. Mgr. Lavelle will officiate. The body will be escorted to the Cathedral from the residence at 23 Fifth Avenue by the Twelfth Regiment, New York National Guard, of which Gen. Sickles was once a member, two troops of cavalry, and the First Battery, Field Artillery.

Members of Phil Kearny Post, G. A. R., will also be in the escort, and other Grand Army men will be in line. Regular troops from Governors Island may also be in the guard of honor.

WIRELESS PLANT STOLEN.

Thief Gets Y. M. C. A. Receiver, but Leaves $2,500 Tuner Behind.

A wireless outfit recently installed by the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company was stolen from the laboratory of the East Side Y. M. C. A. at 153 East Eighty-sixth Street, some time between Saturday night and Monday morning. The lock had not been tampered with and there were no marks of violence at any of the openings, so it is presumed the robbery was committed by some one who had a key to the laboratory.

The equipment stolen was the most modern type of commercial receiving apparatus and was valued by the Marconi Company at $500. The laboratory was found in a state of considerable disorder on Monday morning; the wiring had been ripped up and the walls mutilated, and there were traces of an attempt to make away with a tuning device of the latest model, worth from $2,500 to $3,000. It is supposed that the robbers were frightened away, as the tuning apparatus was merely bolted to a table and could have been removed with a few minutes' more work.

HONORS OF HEROES FOR 23 POLICEMEN

VAGRANT'S SAVIOR SECOND

New Honor Legion Men Will Be Publicly Proclaimed After Parade on May 16.

The committee appointed by Police Commissioner Woods to investigate acts of bravery in the department in 1913 has awarded an honorable mention, the department medal and the Rhinelander medal for valor to Patrolman James E. Steele of the West Thirty-seventh Street Station.

On May 31 there was a gang fight early in the morning at Thirty-eighth Street and Seventh Avenue. A prize-fighter, "Jumbo Wells," alias Charles Hubbard, fired two shots at Policeman William F. Kuntz. Steele, thinking that Kuntz was wounded, drew his revolver and went into the fight. He shot Hubbard in the back, captured another gunfighter and took both to the police station.

For his part in the affair Kuntz will receive mention, a department medal and the Isaac Bell medal for bravery.

The Peter F. Meyer medal, honorable mention and a department medal will be the reward of Policeman Joseph Ryan of the East Eighty-eighth Street Station.

In December, 1913, Ryan rescued Andrew Codak, a vagrant, who fell off a pier at the foot of East Eighty-sixth Street.

Policeman John Hallahan of the Central Office Squad is to receive the automobile cup medal, a department medal, and honorable mention. Although he is crippled, Hallahan jumped the tracks of the Subway at the Grand Central Station in December, 1913, and rescued a man who had fallen from the platform in front of a train.

Policeman William J. Kenna of the Rapelyea Street Police Station won the Brooklyn Citizen medal, honorable mention, and a deparatment medal. On Oct. 28 Kenna was off duty and in a barber shop when he saw Policeman George C. Schlesinger pursuing two Italians. The men were exchanging shots as they ran. Joining in the pursuit Kenna, though twice shot at, captured one of the fugitives. Schlesinger got the other.

Honorable mention and a department medal are awarded to Schlesinger in connection with the same incident.

These will receive honorable mention:

AMBROSE W. JAYNE, Jr., Rapelyea Street Station, Brooklyn.

RUDOLPH TESINY, Mulberry Street Station.

J. W. MILLER and JOSEPH GRIFFIN, Elizabeth Street Station.

WILLIAM J. DALY, Oak Street Station.

PATRICK CULLINAN, Greenwich Street Station.

CHARLES H. KUHNEMUND, Rapelyea Street Station.

MATTHEW F. CONNELLY, Sheepshead Bay Station.

FRANCIS HOGAN, East Twenty-second Street Station.

MORRIS MELZAK, Elizabeth Street Station.

GEORGE S. COOK, Macdougal Street Station.

MALACHY McGARRY, Madison Street Station.

These twenty-three members will be members of the honor legion of the Police Department and will be decorated after the police parade on May 16.

CONCERT FOR POLICE FUND.

Citizens Move to Aid Needy Families of Men Dying for Duty.

There will be a concert on Tuesday evening at the Waldorf for the benefit of the Honor Legion of the Police Department, under the direction of the Citizens' Committee, of which William A. Marble, President of the Merchants' Association, is the honorary Chairman and Philip Rhinelander Secretary and Treasurer.

The committee includes Andrew Carnegie, President McAneny of the Board of Alderman, Isaac Guggenheim, Vincent Astor, Cardinal Farley, Controller Prendergast, Adjt. Gen. Henry De Witt Hamilton, and former Mayor Kline.

At present there is only a few hundred dollars in the treasury of the Honor Legion Fund. The murder of Policeman Michael J. Kiley while attempting to arrest the slayer of a Greek restaurant keeper in Brooklyn caused Mayor Mitchel to speak of the need of contributions to the fund.

Dock Commissioner R. A. C. Smith started the fund by sending a check for $1,000 to Commissioner McKay for the purpose of temporarily assisting the families of policemen killed in line of duty.

RENEWS SQUARE DEAL PLEDGE.

Will Do More for a Policeman Than for His Friend, Says Woods.

Police Commissioner Woods became a member of the Police Honor Legion at the monthly meeting last night, and again promised the men a "square deal." The Commissioner was cheered, and the 700 members of the legion promised support.

The Commissioner was accompanied to the meeting by Dock Commissioner R. A. C. Smith, Peter F. Meyer, Philip Rhinelander, and Theodore Rosseau, Mayor Mitchel's secretary. President John W. Frazer spoke a few words in greeting.

Few persons, he said, seemed to realize the importance of the work Commissioner Woods did as Deputy Commissioner in a former administration in putting the Detective Bureau on a high plane. As to making Mr. Woods a member of the legion, he said the Commissioner won his spurs when he seized and disarmed the man who tried to kill Mayor Mitchel at the City Hall. Inspector Schmittberger gave the Commissioner the button of the legion.

In his address Commissioner Woods said the city had never called in vain upon its police force, and added:

"If I had not believed that the majority of the members of the force were with me I should not have accepted the appointment as Commissioner. When I assumed office I issued an order that any member of the force might address himself to me. I meant by that that the Commissioner is going to deal directly with the force. Your friends are not going to help you or your enemies harm you. I will do more for any member of the force than I will for his friend."

NIXON LET OFF WITH FINE.

Victim Now Will Sue Former Yale Student for Damages, It Is Said.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 5.—Lewis Nixon's son, Stanhope, escaped a jail sentence to-day on the charge of striking down with an iron bolt Edward H. Evrit of this city, by reasons of conditions that allow café and hotel proprietors to sell to minors until they are intoxicated.

Judge Edward O'Meara of the Police Court found young Nixon guilty of the assault and fined him $200 and costs of the trial, which will be several hundred dollars more. His counsel, David Fitzgerald, appealed the case to the Court of Common Pleas, but it is not believed that it will be retried. Nixon's parents, who were in the courtroom, declined to comment on the decision.

The young man went on the stand in his own behalf and was a frank witness. He said on the night in question he had been drinking with other students, and his mind was a blank as to what had occurred. He declared that his alleged statement to detectives was in no sense a confession. He could not deny that he made the assault, he said, because he could not remember anything that had happened.

His undergraduate companions also testified to their befuddled condition the night of the assault, and evidence that they procured liquor freely at cafés and hotels was undisputed.

Mr. Fitzgerald has formulated a carefully prepared alibi for the accused, and presented a mass of evidence tending to throw the blame upon a young man who found Evrit after he had been attacked. This alibi was wholly discredited by Judge O'Meara.

Mr. Evrit, the victim of the assault, is chief engineer for the Southern New England Telephone Company and is a prominent clubman. Evidence proved that he was accosted by Nixon for a match about 2:15 o'clock one morning last October, and that he ignored the request. He testified that he saw two students who had made the request following him, turned, and was struck down without recognizing them. It was said on authority to-night that a suit for damages would be brought against young Nixon because of the assault.

DENIAL BY MRS. McCLAUGHRY

Both She and R. W. Tully Call Report of Engagement Untrue.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 5.—Mrs. Anita Baldwin McClaughry denied today the report of her engagement to Richard Walter Tully, the playwright. Mrs. McClaughry said she had met Mr. Tully only a few times. She also says she will never marry again.

Mr. Tully yesterday telegraphed this denial to his friend David H. Wallace of this city:

"The report is absolutely untrue, and it is unfortunate that Mrs. McClaughry should be compelled to suffer mention in such a relation simply because she wrote the incidental music of my play. I have seen Mrs. McClaughry but once since my return to California, and that was for the purpose of consulting her as to the publication of the present music, and of arranging that she undertake the music of the operatic version of 'Omar,' which will be produced after the tours of the drama as a play have ended. Any story of a personal relation other than this is unfair to both Mrs. McClaughry and myself, and is absolutely false."

GILL CO. STILL FIGHTS UNION

Will Seek Permanent Injunction Despite Judge Hough's Decision.

The Gill Engraving Company is not likely to appeal from the decision of Judge Hough, refusing a temporary injunction against the Photo Engravers' Union, but it intends to press its suit against the union and hopes to get a permanent injunction. Walter Gordon Merritt, the Gill Company's counsel, said yesterday that he found much encouragement in Judge Hough's opinion.

Mr. Merritt explained that there was much difference between the considerations justifying temporary and permanent injunctions. The former was granted or withheld according to the circumstances before the court, and the fact that Judge Hough did not consider that the facts warranted a temporary injunction did not mean that an application for a permanent injunction backed up with evidence would be refused.

Mr. Merritt, when asked if it was intended to press criminal proceedings against the union, declined to discuss the matter.

MORE FRAUD SOUGHT IN CONVENTION VOTE

Mr. Whitman Investigates Two More Election Districts in Which None Dissented.

INDICTED CLERK TO LEND AID

Bohl Will Tell Story to Grand Jury — Recanvass Expected to Wipe Out Majority.

District Attorney Whitman took steps yesterday to broaden the scope of the investigation he is making into charges of fraud in the vote on the question of a Constitutional Convention. Disclosures were made so rapidly that there was every reason to believe a recanvass of the votes cast on April 7 would overthrow the result.

Two more election districts in the Twelfth Assembly District are now under investigation. These are the Fifth and the Seventh. In both of these districts, according to figures the District Attorney has obtained, there was a unanimous vote for the convention. In the Fifth there were 150 votes cast, and in the Seventh there were 202.

The Sixth and Nineteenth Election Districts of the Twelfth Assembly District also were unanimous for the convention. The Sixth has been under investigation and six indictments have been filed. It is said that probably a thorough investigation of all the districts will show from 50 to 75 per cent. of the votes cast were fraudulent.

The Grand Jury will meet again on Friday to take up additional indictments. It is understood Louis Bohl, Republican poll clerk in the Sixth District, who was indicted last week, will go before the Grand Jury and give the names of two outsiders, who are said to have stood at the polls and read off names from the list, while the Inspectors voted them. He told the District Attorney there were not more than thirty honest votes cast in the district.

"I didn't forge any of the signatures in the book," Bohl said. "As no votes came in, the Inspectors simply said that 'So and so votes yes.'"

Daniel W. Brosnan, a Democratic Inspector, and George Wasen, a Republican Inspector, who were among those indicted last week, were arraigned before Judge Malone and pleaded not guilty. They were released in $1,000 bail each. All six of the indicted men are now out on bail. At the request of the District Attorney's office all the cases were transferred from General Sessions to the Criminal Term of the Supreme Court.

The investigation into a single Assembly district, it was said at the District Attorney's office, would involve the examination of several hundred witnesses. It was asserted that the greater part of the cases of fraud were prima facie.

The vote of the Twelfth Assembly District on the Constitutional Convention, which Mr. Whitman will use as a guide in his inquiry, follows:

Election District.	Total vote.	For.	Against.
First	95	83	9
Second	53	45	7
Third	58	49	9
Fourth	110	109	1
Fifth	150	150	0
Sixth	300	300	0
Seventh	202	202	0
Eighth	104	102	2
Ninth	146	131	14
Tenth	135	123	10
Eleventh	140	131	2
Twelfth	96	91	3
Thirteenth	143	141	2
Fourteenth	150	147	3
Fifteenth	94	88	3
Sixteenth	202	178	17
Seventeenth	167	161	6
Eighteenth	164	150	10
Twentieth	83	78	5
Twenty-first	92	91	1
Total	2,839	2,705	104

The discrepancy in the totals is accounted for by thirty defective ballots which were thrown out.

If the investigators can show that 50 per cent. of the votes in the Twelfth Assembly District, which is Charles F. Murphy's home district, were fraudulently cast, it is probable that the election will be rendered invalid, inasmuch as the convention proposition, according to the official returns, was carried by only 1,353 votes.

BLOCKS OF STOCK MISSING.

Lost or Stolen from Richard Irvin & Co. of 20 Exchange Place.

The firm of Richard Irvin & Co., dealers in unlisted securities at 20 Exchange Place, announced in Wall Street yesterday that 1,463 shares of stock had been lost or stolen from its possession between Nov. 17, 1913, and May 4. The list includes 1,000 shares of the Predilecta Mining Company, all of which were in the name of Nicholas Betjman in 10 certificates of 100 shares each, and blocks of Nitro Powder Company shares in the name of Richard Irvin, and of Adamite Abrasive Company shares owned by Mr. Irvin, E. P. Snider, and M. A. Snider.

At the Irvin offices at 50 Broad Street no information could be obtained as to the manner in which the securities had disappeared. It was said that the shares were exceedingly inactive and no estimate of their value was given. The Predilecta Mining Company is a Mexican concern.

Dresden Pieces from Well-Known Collection at London Auction.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 5.—The sale of the well-known collection of Dresden porcelain of H. J. King of this city was begun at Christie's to-day. The greater part was formerly in the Massy-Mainwaring collection, which was exhibited at the Bethnal Green Museum.

A set of four vases, thirteen inches high, of rococo design, emblematic of the Four Seasons, painted with small panels of landscapes and figures, went for $1,415.

Another group — Froehlich and Schmiedel—realized $2,360.

The seasons, a set of four emblematic figures, sold for $945.

FROM BROWNING TO BALLOT.

Mrs. Hale Tells of Woman's Progress Through War and Home.

"When I first came to this country," said Mrs. Beatrice Forbes-Robertson Hale at the President's Day celebration of the Equal Suffrage League, at the Hotel Astor yesterday afternoon, "the women in the clubs were talking about Browning and Chinese pottery. The next time I came they were studying the conditions of the Spanish-American war, and a third time it was household problems, and the disposal of garbage.

"Now, the women can't begin the study of household problems without running straight into municipal politics. One woman has tried to settle household problems without reference to politics, and she has done her work well. You know whom I mean, Mrs. Julian Heath, of the Housewives' League, but only the other day Mrs. Heath said: 'I've come to the conclusion we can't reduce the cost of living and have better conditions until we have the vote.'"

Mrs. Hale said that the anti-suffragists were going along the same path as the suffragists, the path of progress, only they had not gone as far.

"They believe in everything that we do except the vote. They do as we do now; they have buttons and banners and officers, and when they have had a parade they will have done everything that we do. The antis belong, I believe, almost always to the privileged class, and they are afraid of democracy. The anti-suffragists in England believe in municipal suffrage. The anti-suffragists here do not, but they believe in Dr. Katharine Bement Davis in office because she is there. As soon as suffrage comes they will believe in that."

Mrs. Stanley McCormack talked of suffrage from a national point of view, and said that when the women were voting in eighteen or nineteen States suffrage would be a matter of practical politics. Miss Juliette Arden spoke. Miss Mary Garrett Hay, the President, presided.

$500 FOR A RARE CHAMPLAIN

The sale of the valuable library of Lucius L. Hubbard of Houghton, Mich., was begun by the Merwin Company yesterday. It is one of the most comprehensive and well rounded out assemblages of rare books about America offered at auction in recent years. The day's two sessions realized $4,921.55.

The highest price was $500, paid for a copy of the excessively rare original edition of the first four voyages of Samuel de Champlain in America, small quarto, Paris, 1613. It is in binding by Pratt and is complete with all the maps and plates, but having the large map in fac simile. There is a slight stain on each of two margins, and there are three small tears in plates, but skillfully repaired.

E. H. Wendell gave $320 for a copy of the rare first octavo edition of John J. Audubon's "Birds of America," New York, 1840-44. Dodd & Livingston obtained for $90 Girolamo Benzoni's "Historia del Mondo Nuovo," small octavo, Venice, 1565, the earliest book of travels in America.

F. W. Morris paid $95 for the rare original edition of "The History and Present State of Virginia," by Robert Beverley, London, 1705. "The Authentic Memoirs of William Augustus Bowles, Esquire, Ambassador from the United Nations of Creeks and Cherokees to the Court of London," 16mo., London, 1791, went to George D. Smith for $125. This is one of the rarest of works relating to the American aborigines. The author was the son of a British schoolmaster. He ran away from home and joined the British Army at Philadelphia. Later, being dismissed from the British service, he entered that of the Creeks and married one of their women. He attracted much attention to himself in England, whither he went to enlist the interposition of the Crown in favor of the Creek Nation of Indians.

A beautifully bound copy of the original edition of Nathaniel Byfield's "Account of the Late Revolution in New England," small quarto, London, 1689, was knocked down to Mr. Morris for $100. The same bidder obtained for $140 John Calef's "Siege of Penobscot by the Rebels," a scarce work published in London in 1781. Mr. Morris also paid $103 for George Catlin's "North American Indians," royal octavo, London, 1866, a fine copy, with the plates beautifully colored.

J. O. Wright gave $332 for a copy of the rare Paris, 1627, edition of Champlain's "Voyages," in binding by Pratt. The Paris, 1632, edition of the same work went to Lathrop C. Harper for $60.

Two more sessions will be held to-day.

How Fast Does Your Ice Melt?

This question, not the first cost, determines the real expense of your refrigerator. There are two definite reasons to account for the fact that the holds ice consumption to the minimum. The Syphon System of rapidly circulating air, and an insulation that provides the highest standard of heat resistance ever attained, combine to hold the temperature in a Bohn Refrigerator at 40°. Ice melts very slowly at this low temperature.

The walls of this Refrigerator have, in addition to the outer and inner cases and Porcelain Enamel lining, 7 heat-resisting layers, including two of Flaxlinum, the exclusive Bohn insulating material. The Syphon System not only holds the temperature down, but keeps the air dry. These are some of the reasons why the Bohn Syphon is installed in practically every dining or refrigerator car in use to-day. The car builders know.

Model No. 43¼, Style C, size 36½x20½x56 inches, ice capacity 150 pounds, price $56, is an exceptional value. Our very large line of Refrigerators meets every requirement of both size and price. Call or write for illustrated catalog.

GIMBEL BROTHERS Announce

For Today, the Anniversary of the E. A. NEWELL Sale,

A Sale of MEN'S SUMMER APPAREL

With Splendid Savings at the Very Opening of the Season

In closing out the NEWELL stocks last year, we established what was probably a high record for volume of distribution in Men's Furnishings.

Successful merchandising requires that such records be made only to be surpassed next time.

To beat last year's extraordinary figures required extraordinary preparation this year. This has been successfully accomplished through the heartiest sort of co-operation between manufacturers and ourselves.

Not only have we excelled the high character and desirability of much of the NEWELL merchandise in today's offerings, but the economies are in many cases even greater than those of that Sale.

Everything is new, desirable, up-to-the-minute—a great deal of it made up specially to our order. Lots are in many cases limited.

The Sale will continue all this week, and into next—but BEING EARLY is the safest way to secure the pick of the goods.

Quantities are enormous—we provided, for instance—

FIND GRAVE ABUSES IN STATE ASYLUMS

PATIENTS MERE BOARDERS

State Examiners Find Hospital Workers in Control of Machine Politicians.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 5.—Grave irregularities in the conduct of the State Hospitals for the Insane are about to be disclosed as the result of an investigation conducted by examiners of the Department of Efficiency and Economy. The abuses, it is said, involve several Republican politicians whose names will not be divulged until the investigation is completed.

There are in all about 11,000 employes at the fourteen insane asylums supported by the State, or about 800 at each institution. The investigators of the Department of Efficiency and Economy have found that while these employes are supposed to be under civil service regulations, apparently little attention has been paid to these regulations in their appointment and grading.

Under a law that was passed while B. B. Odell, Jr., was Governor, a sort of local autonomy as to employes was conferred on each of these institutions. This system, it is said, is responsible for many of the abuses that have crept into the service. Under this law the Superintendent, the matron, and the steward of each institution form a sort of civil service board which control employment matters in the particular institution with which they are associated. This improvised board reports to the State Civil Service Commission which, in effect, is compelled to act merely as a rubber stamp with reference to the recommendations made, unless it appears on the face of things that something is wrong with the findings.

These local boards conduct the examination of applicants for employment and certify the results to the State Civil Service Commission. In consequence, it is said, the investigation has shown discrimination in favor of friends and relatives of local officials. It is said that evidence has been obtained showing that applicants for employment in some instances received copies in advance of the questions to be asked at the examination and that the answers to the questions even were provided. Other applicants who did not possess the necessary "pull" were compelled to work out the answers for themselves, and as a result, in a majority of cases, the unworthy or unqualified were appointed, while better equipped applicants failed.

According to one State official conversant with the disclosures about to be made, it has been shown that payrolls were padded with the names of useless employes.

At one hospital, it is said, the examiners found on the pay rolls a "sewing instructor" receiving a salary of $1,000 a year.

The examiners say that at some of the institutions painters were employed after the Civil Service examination prescribed for such institutions, who knew nothing about painting. In many instances men who were employed in that capacity appeared on other payrolls as plumbers or pipe fitters.

In nearly every institution in which an investigation has been conducted an active and aggressive political machine has been found among the employes. It is charged for instance, that the machine politicians found the 800 employes at the Central Islip institution of value in practically every election and with their aid, in elections were able to swing the vote as they wished in both the assembly districts of Suffolk County.

The total annual appropriation for these State Hospitals is a about $8,000,000. Of this amount about $4,000,000 is required for the payrolls and for the maintenance of employes while the other half of the appropriation is for the maintenance of 31,000 patients.

"As a matter of fact," one official said here to-day, "some of these institutions, while they are supposed to be curative, are conducted merely as boarding houses for the State's insane wards. The proportion of persons cured of mental affliction is so small as to be a neglible quantity. Few ever are discharged, because it is to the advantage of those in charge to maintain constantly a large number of inmates. Salaries are graded according to the number of inmates."

The salaries of superintendents are from $3,000 to $4,500 a year, with liberal maintenance. It is estimated that from a financial standpoint the place of superintendent at one of the institutions under the supervision of the State Hospital Commission is worth as much as the Governorship. At one of the institutions the superintendent occupies a cottage which cost the State $50,000. Five or six servants who receive from $40 to $60 a month each are employed. Motor cars with chauffeurs, and in some instances motor boats, are perquisites of superintendents.

The medical officers of the institutions receive from $1,200 to $2,000 each, while the maximum pay of stewards is $2,500.

Dr. M. B. Heyman, Assistant Superintendent of the Central Islip State Hospital, said last night over the telephone that there was no sewing instructor there who received $1,000 a year.

"No one on the payroll, with the exception of members of the medical staff and the chief engineer, gets $1,000 a year," Dr. Heyman said. "We do have a sewing instructor for the women patients, of whom there are 2,173 at the present time, but she receives only $45 a month. We have a man on the payroll, at $50 a month, who teaches in the tailoring shop.

"There are several persons on the payroll who might be classed as instructors, but who really only have charge of the different shops. Occupation is indispensable in an institution of this kind. All of the foremost authorities agree on that. Counting men and women, there are 4,877 patients here now."

FREES SNUG HARBOR TRUST.

Court of Appeals Sanctions Improvement of Great Property.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 5.—The Court of Appeals in a decision handed down today widened the powers of the Trustees of Sailors' Snug Harbor and gave them authority to employ the personal property in their possession in making needed general improvemnts. The opinion of the Court was written by Judge Hogan, who said:

"The will of Robert Richard Randall was executed and admitted to probate over one hundred years ago. Under its provisions the Sailors' Snug Harbor on Staten Island was instituted, and the underlying question here is whether under the will a valid and enforceable trust was created and whether the property became vested in the Trustees and their successors so that they can lawfully employ the personal property in their possession in purchasing improvements erected by their lessees upon the leasehold properties at the expiration of the leases, or in purchasing outstanding leases, and leasehold estates of their properties, or in the erection of buildings for investment purposes.

"The court holds that a valid and enforceable trust was created and that the property became vested in the trustees and their successors and the Supreme Court is authorized to make a decree directing the trustees in the administration of the trust in such manner as will more effectually accomplish the intention of the testator."

This decision of the Court of Appeals was awaited with great interest by lawyers who held that it was likely to furnish an important ruling on the law affecting charitable bequests, and by real estate men, who thought it would affect the future of a large tract in the heart of the city's business district, retarded in its development by the fact that it was the property of a charitable trust.

Sailors' Snug Harbor was founded by the will of Robert Richard Randall, who died on June 5, 1801. After leaving certain legacies to the children of his brother, he directed that all his real estate, consisting of the Minto farm of about sixteen acres in the Fifteenth Ward, and four lots in the First Ward, with $723 in 3 per cent. and $6,430 in 6 per cent. stocks, should be devoted to the foundation of an asylum and hospital for aged mariners. So modest did he consider this bequest that he directed his trustees to permit the fund to accumulate until it could provide for the maintenance of fifty inmates before the institution was started.

The Minto Farm in course of time was cut up into blocks between Fourth and Fifth Avenues, Waverley Place and East Tenth Street. Bought by Mr. Randall in 1790 for $12,500, it is now estimated to be worth nearly $20,000,000. But there has been a difficulty about its management. Charitable trustees have been prohibited from entering upon the same vigorous management as private owners, and the district has stagnated in consequence of these limitations.

The decision of Judge Hogan has now modified the rules under which the trustees can act so that they may apply the personal property in their possession to the general improvement of the real estate. It has conferred on them a wide discretion to take whatever action they may see fit to carry out the intention of the original will.

MASONS' GRAND LODGE.

Justice Freifeld Slated for Election as State Grand Master.

The one hundred and thirty-third communication of the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of the State of New York was opened yesterday afternoon in Masonic Hall, at Sixth Avenue and Twenty-fourth Street. During the afternoon session the reports of the officers were read, and Grand Master Charles Smith of Oneonta delivered an address.

"Great activity has characterized all the lodges, and a delightful degree of harmony is everywhere manifested by all the brethren," he said. "Extensive journeyings have enabled me to visit every portion of the State to meet the brethren in their own lodge rooms, and I have been greatly impressed and stimulated in the prosecution of the work to which I have devoted my time by the spirit of genuine fraternity which prevails in the craft, and by the encouragement given to me by the thousands whom it has been my privilege to take by the hand.

"I have, indeed, found that our craft is animated by the paramount desire of who can best work and best agree. And yet in this sweet song of harmony there is a minor chord of sadness. A startling number whom I met when my journeyings began have crossed the Great Divide. The first thought of the General Assembly should be given to the memory of our departed brethren."

The convention will continue for three days. To-morrow officers will be elected. Municipal Court Justice George Freifeld of Brooklyn is slated to succeed Mr. Smith as Grand Master.

HER SECOND SCHOOL FIRE.

Girl Who Wanted to See Drill Admits Earlier Attempt.

Lillian Cohen, the 13-year-old pupil at Public School 170 in 111th Street, near Lenox Avenue, who confessed on Monday that she started a fire in a classroom to see the fire drill, was before Judge Hoyt in the Children's Court yesterday on a charge of juvenile delinquency. She was put in custody of Dr. Schlapp, and will be held at Randall's Island for observation.

Assistant Fire Marshall Montgomery Wade testified that he found matches in the girl's desk. She told him she had tried to fire the school once before, and that she had been a steady patron of moving picture theatres.

REPUBLICANS SCOUT TALK OF COMPROMISE

Assembly Won't Put Department Dispute Up to Next Legislature, Says Hinman.

DEMOCRATS MIGHT CONSENT

Frawley Willing "to Let Assembly Down Easy" — Present Session Threatens to End in Deadlock.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 5.—Senate and Assembly, convened in extraordinary session, are still deadlocked over appropriations. Any hope that the Legislature might bring its labors to a close this week, as recommended by Gov. Glynn in his message, has vanished.

Both houses met this forenoon, took a recess, met again in the afternoon, and then adjourned until 11 o'clock to-morrow morning, without accomplishing anything. The hours during which both houses stood in recess were occupied by the Republican Assemblymen in holding a secret conference at which the situation was thoroughly discussed. Many speeches were made reaffirming the attitude of the Assembly at the regular session in insisting upon the abolition of the Department of Efficiency and Economy and the Fire Marshal's bureau, both presided over by Tammany men. When the Senate quit for the day the Democratic leaders, who dominated that body, were just as determined as at any previous time that the two departments should be provided for in the annual Appropriation bill.

The day's developments furnished a basis for conflicting views. Some believe that in the end a compromise will be reached. Others that no financial bills will be passed at the present session, and that Gov. Glynn will call the lawmakers together again later in the year in order to provide the necessary appropriations for the State government.

So far no appropriation bill has been introduced. H. J. Hinman, majority leader of the Assembly, announced after the Republican conference that the Assembly bill probably would be introduced to-morrow.

"The bill will aggregate a sum about $500,000 less than the Appropriation bill passed at the regular session," he said. "The exact total cannot be stated definitely until after the final computations have been made. We have decreased the appropriations of a number of departments, but have increased some of them, notably in the case of the Banking Department for the maintenance of the special bureau for the regulation of private bankers. We have added something, too, to the original appropriation for the Labor Department. This is to provide for the new public employment bureaus."

At Work on Democratic Bill.

Senator James J. Frawley, Chairman of the Finance Committee, with the aid of Deputy State Controller Harris, was at work all day on the Democratic Appropriation bill which is to be introduced after the provisions of the Assembly bill become known. To originate fiscal legislation of this character in the Senate is in defiance of all precedent, but Lieut. Gov. Wagner, who is acting as Senate leader in the absence of John F. Murtaugh, said to-night that there was nothing in the constitution or the statutes to prevent the Senate from taking the initiative, though as a matter of expediency it had always been left to the Ways and Means Committee of the Assembly to do so.

Whereas the Assembly bill will contain an appropriation of $40,000 for the Sullivan graft investigating committee, created by the Assembly, the Senate Finance Committee bill will make no provision for that committee.

"In my opinion," said Senator Frawley, "a legislative committee such as the Sullivan Committee would be powerless to do anything that would result in effecting economies in the State administration. The proper way would be to send experts from the Controller's office into the various State departments to investigate and then to suggest to the Legislature means of putting an end to waste, extravagance and inefficiency."

Lieut. Gov. Wagner, speaking for the Democratic majority in the upper House, said that the Senate would not yield an inch to the demand of the Republican Assembly for the abolition of the two departments which the Tammany element is so determined to have retained.

Might Accept Compromise.

"An important principle is involved," said Mr. Wagner. "The Senate took its stand on that proposition firmly at the regular session. How could we yield now without confessing that we were in error before? There will be no backdown, but, to let the Assembly down easy, I believe we might be willing to leave the settlement of the future of these two departments to next year's Legislature, if the Assembly will concur in the appropriation of sufficient money to keep the two departments going until February, when the new Legislature will be well under way. That is a fair basis of compromise, and one that would not involve the sacrifice of the principle for which the Senate has been contending."

"I am opposed to any such compromise," said Mr. Hinman. "I am certain that Speaker Sweet would be, too, No action was taken on the matter at the conference, but it is safe to say that there would not be sufficient votes in the Assembly for any such makeshift to put it through."

Gov. Glynn has not yet made public the details of the Appropriation bill he has had prepared.

"I will hold my hand until the Assembly has played its four aces," he said when asked to divulge his plan.

It is likely that the Senate and Assembly will be able to agree on a plan of submitting to a referendum the question of whether a bond issue of $30,000,000 shall be authorized for permanent improvement at the various State institutions. A bill carrying out this suggestion of the Governor's message is being prepared for introduction before the end of the week.

URGE NON-PARTISAN BODY.

Appeal to Gov. Glynn in Regard to Constitutional Convention.

ALBANY, May 5.—A score of widely known Democrats, Republicans and Progressives, to-day addressed a communication to Gov. Glynn asking him to send a message to the Legislature requesting it to amend the laws so as to assure the selection of non-partisan delegates to the constitutional convention.

Among the signers were Oscar S. Straus, Otto T. Bannard, Frederick M. Davenport, and John K. Sague.

Mother Sends Girl to Bedford.

Annie Sander, the eighteen-year-old daughter of Charles Sander, a refrigerator manufacturer, who lives at 218 Union Avenue, Williamsburg, was committed to the Bedford Reformatory by Magistrate Folwell in the Manhattan Avenue Court yesterday after her mother had accused her of stealing more than $3,000 in various amounts. Mrs. Sander said the girl had taken up with bad company.

PLANS FOR QUEEN'S VISIT.

Agent of Eleanora of Bulgaria Discusses Postponement of Trip.

William Caspar, special representative for the visit of the Queen of Bulgaria to the United States, said yesterday there was little to add to the news published that Queen Eleanora had postponed her trip.

"Her Majesty doubtless felt that in the uncertainty of the Mexican situation it would be wise to postpone her trip until the Fall," said Mr. Caspar at the Ritz-Carlton. "I have instructions to make arrangements for her trip at that time. The Queen has been gratified to learn of the numerous invitations that have been extended her and for the interest shown in the trip she contemplated, and I hope to be able to make out an itinerary which will be very similar to that which I had tentatively prepared."

Whose Little Boy Is This?

Agents of the Brooklyn Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children were searching yesterday for the parents of a three-year-old boy, who was found two weeks ago at Bergen and Smith Streets, and taken to the society's building at 105 Schermerhorn Street. The child was dressed in a black velvet suit and brown sweater, and wore a striped golf cap and black shoes and stockings. He was unable to tell his name. The officials of the society believe that the child is the son of well-to-do parents. The police have received no complaint about the loss of a boy answering his description.

The original of one of the greatest battle pictures ever painted hangs in the gallery of the Metropolitan Museum devoted to the Vanderbilt collection. It throws a side-light on the story of the Franco-Prussian War which supplements the pen-pictures of the most dramatic historians. The scene is outside of Paris. A village stronghold is held by the French and assailed by a division of the Prussian Guards. The brick and timber houses of the narrow winding streets have been riddled with shot and shell and left in burning heaps. A handful of French officers and men with the village church as a fortress continue to resist the onslaught. This the central scene which A. de Neuville, the artist, chooses for his masterpiece. The picture is full of heroism and action and the horrors of war. This great war painting is being reproduced in rotogravure for next Sunday's New York Times. The copy is sure to be immediately and immensely popular. Orders should be placed with newsdealers at once.

THE NEW YORK TIMES NEXT SUNDAY

Villard Denounces Southern Politicians and Looks to North for Solution of Problem.

SEES SOUTH TOO DIVIDED

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, May 5.—Condemnation of "negro-baiting politicians" in the South and a protest against an assumption credited to the North that Senator Vardaman, Gov. Blease and other politicians represented the point of view of the "real South" on the race question, marked to-day's proceedings of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in conference here.

The chief address was made by Oswald Garrison Villard, President of The New York Evening Post, who said he believed the solution of the problem rested with what Southerners termed "interlopers from the North."

In a forceful address Miss Adelene N. Moffatt of Nashville, Tenn., said that the apparent harshness with which the negro was treated in the South was due, not to prejudice, but to general nervousness, which Northerners failed to understand. Balance and sobriety, she asserted, were among the war losses of the South, due principally to the fact that the younger generation had to be brought up largely by women who were suffering under a nervous strain, and who missed the tolerance and breadth with which masculine protection would have provided.

"We of the North boldly venture to believe that we can solve this great race problem," said Mr. Villard. "We believe this because of the unanswerable argument of a titanic historical achievement on our side. It was the North which solved the slavery problem in the face of a practically united Southern public sentiment. The wisdom of the anti-slavery minority in the North, which, with the aid of military necessity, compelled Lincoln to his Emancipation Proclamation, has since been justified of all men.

"In the question of caring for the negro the South is divided within itself. Within its own ranks there are malcontents and rebels against the dominating public sentiment, the sentiment that is voiced to-day by political demagogues risen to eminence on the backs of the negro, and by means of wicked appeals to the unreason and to the baser passions of a largely illiterate or uninformed electorate. It is in these violent anti-negro Southern Senators and Congressmen that we see our chief enemies, as we behold in those within the other Southern camp a chief hope, a chief inspiration, a certain promise that the conscience and justice of the South, together with that of the North, will eventually solve this terrible problem aright.

"As for the negro-baiting politicians, I for one lose no opportunity to assail them with all the powers at my command. They are the most reactionary of our public men yet in power at Washington, by reason of the Democratic doctrines of the leader of the party which dominates our public life they are voicing with revolting hypocrisy the theories of the 'New Freedom.' There is no more amazing spectacle in our public life than the eagerness with which they mouth the now familiar slogan that 'the people shall rule.' There are none others the country over as determined that all the people shall not rule, but only a fraction thereof. They are to-day before God and the nation the chief apostles of reaction—the Vardamans, Tillmans, Hoke Smiths, and all the rest of the negro-baiting crowd, who have risen by defaming and oppressing the negro as they went.

"I have still another indictment against these so-called leaders, and it is one of the most serious which can be brought against any man claiming statesmanship. They are never constructive and always destructive."

Condemning the proposal of rural segregation now being agitated in North Carolina, on the ground that it was necessary to make life tolerable for the whites and safe for white women, Mr. Villard continued:

"British colonial experts like Sir Sydney Olivier would declare that the true remedies are the uplifting of the black race by giving them real and not sham education; by establishing swift and infallible justice with mixed juries; by the upholding of law through a competent constabulary, like that in Jamaica, which has made an assault on a white woman unheard of, though there are but 15,000 whites residing among the 780,000 blacks; by the establishment of good roads, and a general following of the policy of rural life regeneration outlined by the Rural Life Commission. White rural life in the South cannot be made to flower amid a degraded and squalid black peasantry; history teaches that. Lasting advancement of one race can be conditioned only upon the advancement of the other.

"When the negro fails to rise, certain Southerners cheerfully assert that this proves the negro incapable of advancing and half-brother to an ox. You same Southerners deprive the negro child of all schooling, as 5,000 are deprived in Atlanta, turn him adrift to roam in slum streets, and then if he grows up an animal you say the responsibility is his, that that proves him a beast, and his race is inherently criminal. Never was there a more brazen assertion that a people cannot rise in the scale of civilization and a more determined effort to prevent their rising. Never did men so frequently boast their redical superiority, and then, as if in doubt about it, do everything to handicap their black competitors so that they shall not compete on equal terms.

"But a far pleasanter task is before me than to expose the false Southern political leaders of to-day. I wish to record to-night the great gratitude of this association to certain brave men and women of the New South from whom, I for one, obtain daily inspiration and lasting encouragement. It is an inspiring and ever-growing roll of freed spirits that dare openly to call down upon themselves the criticism of those blinded with prejudice, and the anger of the ignorant white mob which fears negro economic competition and ever seeks an opportunity to browbeat or to cheat the negro or to wreak its cruel passions in the negro's blood."

Among the friends of the negro Mr. Villard named were Prof. Sophronisba Breckinridge, formerly of Kentucky and now of Chicago; Desha Breckinridge of Lexington, Ky.; Dr. James H. Dillard, a leader in Southern education; P. P. Claxton, United States Commissioner of Education; Dr. W. D. Weatherford of Tennessee, Prof. William M. Huntley of the University of Virginia, E. C. Branson, President of the Athens (Ga.) State Normal School; Prof. Joshua Morse of the University of South Carolina, and a number of Southern newspapers.

Mary Donnelly as an I.W.W. Antidote

Miss Mary Donnelly will preside at a meeting at the Union Square Cottage at noon to-day to show honor to the flag as an antidote for the activities of the I. W. W., Socialists, and others in the same quarter. The business men and women of the Fourteenth Assembly District are going to give Miss Donnelly a flag, with instructions to carry it with honor, which she says she will do. The flag will then be saluted by twenty-one salvos of applause. Mrs. Helen Secor Tonjes and Miss Wenona Marlin will speak.

PAPER GOOD AS ITS EDITOR.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 5.—"The newspaper does not rise above its editor," said Chester S. Lord, formerly managing editor of The New York Sun, in a public address here this afternoon before the University Press Club.

"The editor indicates the paper's policy and the paper is just what he makes it. If the editor stands for honesty and integrity his paper will be an expression of high ideals."

Advising prospective newspaper men, Mr. Lord said:

"To be successful you must have widespread information, but if in addition to this you will master a specialty or two you will find yourself at great advantage over your fellow-workers, for in the newspaper office the man who knows the most about a given topic is the man called on to write about that topic."

Among the specialties he ranked politics first, saying:

"Conspicuously above all newspaper specialties let me put politics, and next to politics, in my opinion, comes finance. In a sense they go together, for have we not seen that politics has to be financed, and that finance is at the mercy of politics? Each in itself is most important, and together they control the world. Of politics there is no end; never has been, never will be."

As to the value of the newspaper to-day Mr. Lord said: "The reading of newspapers has come to be an absolute essential in the daily routine of every intelligent person. The things taught by the newspaper are the things of the moment."

To Choose New Bishop To-day.

TRENTON, N. J., May 5.—The annual convention of the Episcopal Diocese of New Jersey opened to-day in St. Michael's Church with a memorial service for the late Bishop John Scarborough. The convention will end to-morrow with the election of a new Bishop. Among those mentioned for the place are Bishop Sheldon Griswold, missionary Bishop to Salina, Neb., and Bishop Charles Rent, stationed in the Philippines.

TWO BATTLESHIPS FAVORED BY HOUSE

NEXT YEAR'S BILL SIMILAR

Naval Affairs Committee Chairman Gives Notice That Two More Battleships Will Be Asked For.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—After a week of bitter oratorical contest, the "small navy" forces were routed by the "big navy" contingent in the House to-day and the Administration's two-battleship programme was saved with votes to spare.

The first test of strength came on a motion by Representative Buchanan of Illinois to reduce from two to one the number of battleships provided in the Naval Appropriation bill. This was defeated 148 to 91. Then a proposal by Representative Witherspoon of Mississippi to eliminate entirely the battleship provision was lost by a vote of 162 to 41.

Another effort may be made to knock out one of the battleships when the bill reaches the stage when a record vote can be taken, which may be on Thursday. It had been the intention of the "small navy" leaders to offer a motion to recommit for the purpose of eliminating the battleships, but now, in view of the large vote against them after the skirmish of to-day, this plan may be abandoned.

Chairman Padgett of the Naval Affairs Committee, when the vote had been taken, gave notice that next year's Naval bill, like the present one, would contain a provision for two battleships, thus indicating the establishment of a two-battleship-a-year programme. The next Naval bill, because this Congress will come to an end on that date, must be passed by March 4, 1915.

New York Congressmen fought for a provision which would direct the building of at least one of the two battleships at the Brooklyn Navy Yard. This proposition was pending when the House concluded its consideration of the business for the day.

"I am in favor of maintaining the personnel of the shipyards equipped to build a battleship," exclaimed Chairman Padgett, who opposed the suggestion of the New Yorkers. "I am opposed to a change in the wording of the present bill which authorizes the Secretary of the Navy to have built two new battleships under the best terms he can obtain.

"We want these battleships built without unnecessary delay. There is but one navy yard, that at Brooklyn, now equipped to build a battleship. There has been laid but recently at that yard the keel of a new battleship. I have letters from the Navy Department asserting that this ship will not be off the ways before July, 1915. A restriction that one battleship must be built at a navy yard will delay construction of one of these ships that we are now authorizing."

Quoting testimony given by Secretary of the Navy Daniels while that official recently was a witness before the Naval Affairs Committee to show that an armor plate monopoly has "the Government by the throat," Representative Victor Murdock of Kansas demanded to know "what is the matter with the Attorney General of the United States?"

"Here," said the Progressive leader, "is a straight-out violation of the law; here is a combination in restraint of trade; here is a witness of high integrity, who testifies that this is a monopoly. Why does the Attorney General sit silent and permit this Government to suffer this wrong?"

He said the Secretary of the Navy and the Attorney General sat side by side at the same counsel table, and there was no reason, in his mind, why Mr. McReynolds should not be in possession of the evidence so close at hand.

PANAMA POWDER EXPLOSION KILLS 7

DUE TO A BRUSH FIRE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PANAMA, May 5.—The Panama Government's powder magazine on the outskirts of this city, near the Canal Zone, exploded with terrific force at 3:15 A. M. to-day.

Seven policemen and firemen were killed by the explosion, and a score of others were injured, some mortally.

The whole city was shaken. Windows were shattered and houses in the neighborhood of the explosion were damaged. The magazine was, of course, destroyed.

The accident occurred while firemen were attempting to extinguish a brush fire in fields surrounding the magazine.

The explosion caused great excitement, the first idea being that the canal locks had been blown up. There was no damage in the Canal Zone.

All the business houses here were closed to-day as a mark of mourning for the victims of the disaster.

PANAMA, May 5.—Most of the dead and injured as a result of this morning's explosion are firemen who had been summoned to combat the brush fire. A man and a woman who were watching the blaze from a distance were torn to pieces.

In addition to obliterating the magazine, the explosion caused considerable property damage in the neighborhood.

The Panama magazine which was blown up was the "polveria"—powder house—of the Panama Government, a concrete structure about forty feet square situated on the Sabanas Road, near the junction of the Corozal Road, about a mile from the Panama Railroad station. It was built about twenty-five years ago. For several years a quantity of nitro-glycerine had been stored there, and wealthy Panamans who owned country estates near by had frequently made efforts to have the building moved or torn down. There had been many brush fires near by, which always caused uneasiness.

The magazine was at the foot of Perry Hill, a stronghold of the Panaman revolutionists in 1902. Near by are the new bullring, a new butter factory, and a large casino which is just nearing completion. Half a mile away are the grounds of the National Exposition, where many buildings are in course of construction.

FOR EARLY CANAL CARGO.

Steamship Dakotan at Cristobal—Sugar to be Put on Barges.

COLON, May 5.—The steamer Dakotan of the Hawaiian-American Line arrived to-day at Cristobal to take on board a cargo of sugar from steamers of the same line now lying at Balboa, on the Pacific side. The sugar was to be transported across the Isthmus to Tehuantepec, but owing to the closing of that route this could not be done. It is before long to be taken through the Panama Canal in barges.

The Isthmian steamship agents called a meeting to-day to discuss the situation, and the Superintendent of the Panama Railroad attended it. He assured the agents that the railroad would not give any preferential treatment to any new line, and promised that it would handle all cargoes crossing the Isthmus with the utmost expedition.

Impel and Compel
there's a difference

In some buildings a tenant is compelled to take what the building has to offer.

Leases now being made from May 1, 1915. The building, however, is due to be completed 2 or 3 months ahead of that date.

How Good Is YOUR Refrigerator?

In order that you may decide for yourself, let us ask you these three questions:

Is it SANITARY?

Does it have linings that are crackless and easily cleaned? Is it free from ledges and corners that collect dirt? Does the melted ice drain off entirely?

Is it EFFICIENT?

Does it keep food in perfect condition? Does food remain free from other food odors?

Is It ECONOMICAL?

For every refrigerator in our stock we can say "yes" to all these questions, and if you must say "no" to any of them you owe it to yourself to come in here and let us show you a GOOD refrigerator to exactly meet your requirements. These prominent makes are represented:

TRANSATLANTIC CABLE DISPATCHES TO THE TIMES

SUGGESTION HEALING SAME AS BY FAITH

MANY CURES RECORDED

But None in Cases of Organic Disease—Irresponsible Treatment Is Deprecated.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 5.—Spiritual faith and mental healing are dealt with in a report published to-day by a committee consisting of ten representatives of the Church of England and ten medical men under the Chairmanship of the Dean of Westminster.

The conclusions of the committee include the following:

The committee desire to express their belief in the efficacy of prayer. They reverently believe, however, that the Divine power is exercised in conformity with and through the operation of natural laws.

Spiritual ministration should be recognized equally with medical ministration, as carrying God's blessing to the sick.

Health, bodily and mental, is capable of being influenced for good by spiritual means.

The physical results of what is called faith or spiritual healing do not prove on investigation to be different from those of mental healing or suggestion.

The committee recognize that suggestion is more effectively exercised by some persons than by others, and this fact seems to explain the gifts of a special character claimed by various healers.

While religious influences do not essentially differ in operation from non-religious appeals to the mind, yet the former may often be the most potent form of suggestion.

The committee are forced to the conclusion that faith or spiritual healing, like all treatment by suggestion, can be expected to be permanently effective only in cases of what are called functional disorders, as distinct from organic ailments. Those who resort to healers are therefore warned that they may thereby be postponing until too late medical treatment which might serve to arrest organic disease.

The committee desire to see increased importance attached to spiritual ministrations as contributory means to recovery, but they strongly deprecate the independent treatment of disease by irresponsible and unqualified persons.

The committee sat nineteen times and took a great deal of evidence, including the testimony of witnesses, who asserted that they had performed cures by spiritual or mental healing. The cases included cancer, arthritis, angina pectoris, pneumonia, erysipelas, conjunctivitis, dipsomania, epilepsy, neuritis, disseminated sclerosis, tetanus, and neurasthenia, and other nervous disorders. In most instances no medical evidence was forthcoming to confirm any specific cure by spiritual or mental process.

In a case of partial paralysis of the muscles and arm the patient was ministered to ten times for an hour each day and said he felt considerably better as regards his nerve tone. When examined some three months after this treatment the muscles of the arm were still wasted and partially paralyzed, but he thought there was some increase of power in his hand.

LONDON, May 5.—The "Committee on Spiritual Healing, or Faith Cure," was appointed by the conference of the clerical and medical professions held in October, 1911.

The committee, which is composed of prominent clergymen and doctors, obtained answers from many sources to a carefully prepared list of questions.

The members of the committee include the Right Rev. Herbert E. Ryle, Dean of Westminister; the Very Rev. H. H. Henson, Dean of Durham; the Very Rev. William R. Inge, Dean of St. Paul's; the Rev. Christopher V. Childe; the Right Rev. Henry L. Paget, Bishop of Stephney, and Archdeacon Sinclair. Among the medical members are Sir Dyce Duckworth; Sir Richard Douglas Powell, Dr. Theodore B. Hyslop, and Sir Thomas Clifford Allbutt.

The witnesses examined by the committee differed in their definitions of spiritual and mental healing. Some regarded the former as a Divine interposition above the laws of nature, while most of them connected spiritual healing of to-day with the "gifts of healing" of the Apostolic Church, saying they thought these had long been dormant, although never wholly interrupted.

The witnesses differed widely as to whether moral excellence in the healers or the healed was essential for success. Many of them gave convincing evidence of beneficial results in functional nervous disorders and cases of alcoholism and drug taking, but not one gave satisfactory evidence of any case of organic disease cured by spiritual or faith healing alone.

RADIUM AS A BEVERAGE.

So-Called Radio-Active Siphons Soon to be Sold in London.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 5.—"Give me a radium highball" and "I want a brandy with a dash of radium water" will soon be orders heard in clubs and other places where men congregate, according to an expert who strongly disclaims any connection with the numerous quacks who have latterly been exploiting so-called radio-active preparations.

Radium water has a direct infusion of radium salts. It is kept sparkling by the infiltration of ultra-violet rays and the addition of carbonic acid gas. The new preparation is patented, and laboratories will be erected in London whence radium water will be issued to the public in siphons.

The promoters invite medical tests of their preparation, which they say will gratify the palate as well as conduce to good health.

HAS 12-BILLION INCOME.

Britain Can Afford a Billion Budget, Says Sir George Paish.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 5.—Sir George Paish, the editor of The Statist, struck a buoyant note in his discussion of Chancellor Lloyd George's budget at the National Liberal Club to-night. The country, he said, could well afford a budget of $1,050,000,000. Its income last year was $12,000,000,000.

All data indicated, he said, that it would go on growing so that in thirty years Great Britain would enjoy an annual income of $25,000,000,000, with an increase in wealth from $85,000,000,000 to more than $150,000,000,000.

Two generations ago, he said, the mass of the population was under the poverty line; two-thirds of the population had now been pulled over that line.

BRITAIN IS LIKELY TO EXHIBIT AT FAIR

Asquith, to Deputation of M.P.'s, Hints That Decision May Be Reconsidered.

366 MEMBERS REPRESENTED

Official Pavilion Suggested — Premier Says There Was No Intention to Slight This Country.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 5.—A deputation of thirty Members of Parliament of all parties, representing 366 members, a majority of the House of Commons, met the Prime Minister this afternoon in Mr. Asquith's private room in the House of Commons and urged official British participation in the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

Sir Alfred Mond, Sir Robert Balfour, Dr. Chapple, and Thomas Lough spoke for the Liberals; William Redmond for the Irish Nationalists, W. Hayes-Fisher for the Unionists, and G. N. Barnes for the Laborites. J. Allen Baker (Liberal) introduced the speakers.

In replying, Mr. Asquith, after a long, whispered conversation with Sir Edward Grey, the Foreign Secretary, and John Burns, President of the Local Government Board, whose presence was regarded as significant, said he would without unreasonable delay convey to the Cabinet the "representations of such an important deputation."

The Premier repudiated any intention on the part of Great Britain of slighting or slurring the United States, citing the fact that when asked to send warships to the opening of the Panama Canal, Great Britain immediately accepted the invitation.

The prospects are now bright for official British representation, according to W. A. M. Goode, Secretary of the British Committee of the Exposition, who was present at the meeting. Mr. Goode said to a NEW YORK TIMES correspondent:

"It looks decidedly hopeful. The Prime Minister has announced at least two or three times that the Government had decided not to participate, but as the three members of the Cabinet most concerned were present to-day, I infer that there would have been no use in submitting the matter for a fourth time to the Cabinet unless the representations made by a deputation from a majority of the House of Commons of all parties had raised doubts in the Cabinet Ministers' minds as to the correctness of the previous decision.

"Mr. Asquith's whole tone was almost deferential to the strength and number of the members of the House who had asked him to reconsider the question."

The opinion is general that the Government will reverse its previous decision.

LONDON, May 5.—The suggestion of the deputation which saw the Premier to-day was that the British Government should erect a special governmental pavilion which would serve as a rallying point for British subjects from all parts of the empire.

Sir Robert Balfour, who has just returned from California, said the desire was not so much for a big exhibit as for some sort of an official pavilion where the British flag might fly, visitors receive information regarding British exhibits in the general buildings, and courtesies be extended.

In reply Mr. Asquith said that every Government was bound to show deference to recommendations indorsed by a majority of the House of Commons. It was, however, a great mistake to suggest that the refusal of the Government had been intended as, or had the character of, a slight on the people of the United States. The contrary was shown by the readiness with which the invitation to send a fleet to the opening of the canal had been accepted. The canal opening was, after all, a greater event than the exposition.

CANADA WON'T URGE EXHIBIT.

Borden Says It Is a Matter for the British Government to Settle.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, May 5.—In the House of Commons to-day Mr. Weichel of North Waterloo asked the Government if it would urge upon the Government of Great Britain the reconsideration of its decision not to participate in the Panama-Pacific Exposition. Participation by Great Britain, he said, would be hailed with delight by all Canadians.

Premier Borden said they appreciated the observation made by Mr. Weichel. Canada had already decided to participate in the exposition and they were making thorough preparations for the Dominion to be adequately represented. They would all be glad to see the mother country represented at San Francisco. However, it was not thought desirable for Canada to urge the matter upon the Imperial Parliament, as it was purely a question for the British Government to settle.

VOTE WOULD INJURE WOMEN, SAYS CURZON

He Declares It Would Have a Mischievous Effect on the Relations of the Sexes.

HOUSE OF LORDS DEBATE

Selborne in Favor of Giving Parliamentary Franchise to Women Who Now Have Municipal Votes.

LONDON, May 5.—Woman suffrage was the subject of a long discussion in the House of Lords to-day, when the Earl of Selborne moved the second reading of a bill giving the Parliamentary franchise to those women already possessing the vote at local government elections.

Lord Selborne said it was estimated roughly that 1,000,000 women in the British Isles would benefit by the passage of the bill. He asserted that the vast majority of women were opposed to militancy. He expressed his belief that the idea that men and women voters would divide on sex lines was a delusino, and gave it as his opinion that the demand for votes made by women who paid taxes was founded on justice.

Lord Curzon of Kedleston moved the rejection of the bill, not merely, he said, because it would introduce a great social revolution, but because it would be injurious to the interests of women. Such a measure, he argued, would have an unfortunate and mischievous effect upon the relations of the sexes and would weaken the prestige and influence of Great Britain throughout the world. He declared that of the 120,000 women voters on the registers in London only 30 per cent. voted at the last local municipal elections, while in the country only 25 per cent. of the women entitled to vote had cast their ballots.

Lord Curzon asserted that an inevitable corollary to giving the vote to women was the grant to them of the right to sit in Parliament. Militancy, he argued, was not confined to a small, ill-balanced minority, but was the work of a great organization. He concluded with the statement that the majority of women did not want the vote, and lacked the qualities and temperament to exercise political power.

Lord Newton argued that militancy was woman's blind revenge upon society for the manner in which she had been treated by the Liberal Party.

Lord Haldane said the country was approaching the time when it would have to deal with class problems in which the co-operation of women had become vital. The questions of the birth and death rates were part of these problems. Much of the want of attention to social problems had been brought about, he concluded, because women had no direct means of exercising political power.

The debate was adjourned.

Walk for health—
and pleasure, too

The doctor says, "You need exercise; walk!"

But walking can do you no good if it utterly exhausts you.

It is not the use of your muscles that tires you. The jar of your entire weight coming down thousands of times on your hard leather heels shakes and shocks your sensitive nervous system and soon wears you out.

You should wear O'Sullivan's Heels. They are easy, springy cushions of new live rubber. They check and absorb the shock and jar of pounding along on hard sidewalks and stony roads.

With O'Sullivan's Heels you can walk far with comfort and pleasure. You can come home refreshed and benefited instead of fagged out in body and mind.

O'Sullivan's Heels are invisible and last twice as long as leather. Wear them on the shoes you work in walk in and dance in.

O'Sullivan's Heels cost but 50c a pair, attached. All shoemakers and shoe dealers will attach them to your shoes when you buy them, or at any other time. If you prefer, send us 35c and a tracing of your heel, and we will mail you a pair. O'Sullivan Rubber Co., 131 Hudson St., New York City.

JOHNSON SETS DOWN YANKEE BATSMEN

Only Four New Yorkers Hit "King of Mound" Safely and He Shuts Them Out, 6 to 0.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 5.—Weather conditions here to-day were the worst possible, it having rained all night and a greater part of the morning, but Manager Griffith of the Senators insisted upon playing, and his team took the New Yorks into camp, 6 to 0.

Featuring the game was a triple play which the New York team executed in the third round. The Griffmen had scored two runs on hits by Foster, Truesdale's error, Gandil's safe drive, and Ainsmith's infield tap before the deed was done. Shanks followed with another infield hit, moving Gandil to third, while Ainsmith took second. Morgan hit a slow grounder down the third-base line, which Maisel fielded like lightning to Sweeney. Ed shot the ball to Williams, who threw to Maisel and nipped Ainsmith, who was coming up from second. Each player who took part in the play made a put-out and an assist.

McHale was on the slab for New York and was hit throughout the game, the Senators gathering ten safe swats. Walter Johnson, King of the Mound, was in great form, and sent nineteen Yanks back to the bench in order before one of them reached first base. Hartzell hit to Morgan in the seventh, which Morgan let pass through his legs. Walsh shot a single to left field immediately after the error. This was the first safe blow for New York. The next two men were easy outs, Gandil and McBride taking care of them.

In the eighth Sweeney singled and was moved along as far as third, but the punch was not forthcoming. Hartzell and Williams laid down singles in the ninth, but nobody could bring them home.

Maisel's catch of Gandil's foul fly in the fourth was the fielding feature of the game, aside from the triple play. Neither pitcher gave a base on balls. Before the New Yorks made their triple play the Senators had scored two runs on hits by Foster, Gandil, and Ainsmith.

In the seventh the Senators made two more runs on hits by Foster and Gandil and Shanks's double.

Everybody was rooting for Johnson to pull through with a no-hit-no-man-reach-first-base game, but when Morgan made his error on Hartzell, Johnson eased up, and thereafter the New Yorks made four hits. The score:

Cleveland Gets the Jump and Wins.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 5.—The fielding of Turner and Cobb, the pitching of Hagerman, and the hitting of Lajoie were the features of to-day's game, which Cleveland won from Detroit, 4 to 2.

In the sixth inning Cobb ran in back of second base and made a wonderful diving catch of Graney's pop fly. In the ninth inning, with Detroit threatening a rally, Turner started a fast double play on Moriarty's hard grounder and a moment later robbed Stanage of a hit by fast work. Coveleskie pitched splendidly after the first inning. The score:

APPEAL GRANTED IN KILLIFER CASE

Federal League Claimed That Lower Court Had Erred in Denying Injunction.

CINCINNATI, May 5.—Judge Sessions of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals announced here to-day that he had granted an appeal in the Federal Baseball League's case relative to Player Killifer, which was decided against it at Grand Rapids several weeks ago.

Judge Sessions said that the general basis for the appeal was the claim that the lower court had erred in denying an injunction.

It was also announced that the hearing would probably take place in this city some time in the Fall.

Catcher Killifer of the Philadelphia National League team signed a contract and decided to play with the Chicago Federal League Club. Later he reconsidered his action and jumped back to the Philadelphia club, and the Federal League brought suit in the United States Court at Grand Rapids in an effort to enjoin him from playing with the Philadelphia club.

In deciding the case Judge Sessions in a lengthy opinion denied the application of the Chicago Federal League Club for an injunction on the grounds that the Chicago club did not come into court "with clean hands." The reserve clause, however, was held not valid, but Killifer was allowed to return to the Philadelphia Nationals after being severely scored by Judge Sessions.

CHICAGO, May 5.—The Federal League's attorney, E. E. Gates, expects to base the appeal on the ground that Judge Sessions had sustained its every point in the request for an injunction though he had denied it, declaring that the Chicago club, failing to recognize the moral obligation between Killifer and the Philadelphia club, had come into the court with "unclean hands."

JOHNSON INJUNCTION CASE.

Hearing Involving Jumping of Pitcher to Federals Postponed.

CHICAGO, May 5.—Hearing on the motion to dissolve the injunction restraining George H. Johnson, pitcher, who jumped to the Kansas City Federals from the Cincinnati National ball club, was continued to-day until Thursday, May 14. The injunction was obtained by the Cincinnati Club, and forbade Johnson from playing with any baseball organization.

TIP TOPS' FIRST HOME GAME

The Federal League expects to have a big opening at Washington Park next Monday when the Tip Tops will make their first home appearance against the Pittsburgh Federal League Club. Secretary John M. Ward yesterday made the remarkable statement that half the seats for the opening had already been sold and that the Brooklyn office had turned down a number of applicants for seats in large blocks, as they did not want the pasteboards to fall into the hands of speculators.

The game Monday will be called at 3:30 o'clock. Beginning at 2 o'clock Shannon's Twenty-third Regiment Band will give a concert and will play between the innings. A novel feature at a baseball park will be daylight fireworks beginning shortly after 2 o'clock. There will also be a flag raising when the Stars and Stripes will be unfurled at the top of the flagpole, 200 feet high, which was the mast of the America's cup defender Reliance. President Pounds of Brooklyn has consented to throw out the first ball.

Secretary Ward said yesterday that the park was now completed with the exception of the roof on the grand stand. He said that the contractors had assured him that this would also be finished in time for the opening.

FEDERAL LEAGUE.

CHICAGO, May 5.—Buffalo won a twelve-inning game from Chicago to-day, 5 to 2. The winning runs came when Allen was safe on Tinker's fumble, Krapp walked, Hanford doubled, and Allen and Krapp scored when Wilson relayed the ball wild to center. Hanford's batting was a feature. The score:

Chicago	0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 1 0	2	8	5

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 5.—After pitching good ball during seven innings Willett weakened in the eighth and made possible Baltimore's score of five runs in that inning, giving them the game over the local team by 8 to 6. The score:

		R.	H.	E.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 5.—Cullop's pitching enabled Kansas City to defeat Pittsburgh by 3 to 2. The locals scored all their runs by bunching hits in the fourth inning. The score:

Pittsburgh	0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 1	2	4	2
Kansas City	0 0 0 3 0 0 0 0 .	3	9	1

Barrow Warns the Wards.

President Edward Barrow of the International League has sent a letter to Walter Ward of the Brooklyn Club of the Federal League warning him not to tamper with any of the players who play on the Barrow circuit. This action was taken by Barrow after he had learned that Manager Bill Bradley of the Tip Tops had been making advances to Bunny Hearne, the former Giant pitcher, who is now with the Toronto Club of the International League. Recently, while Toronto was in Baltimore, Bradley had a telephone conversation with Hearne and made him a big offer to jump to Brooklyn. Hearne refused, and Barrow is very much disturbed to think that Brooklyn would try to get signed players after the Wards had stated that they would have nothing to do with players under contract. Manager Bradley of the Brooklyn Club says that when he made the offer to Hearne he understood that he had not yet signed a Toronto contract.

Stevens to Play Rutgers Nine.

Stevens "Tech" baseball team will cross bats with Rutgers College this afternoon at Castle Point Field in Hoboken. A strong rivalry has existed between these teams for many years, and as this is their first meeting this season a lively contest is expected. "Artie" Belloff will do the honors in the box for Stevens, with Lenthe behind the bat, while Jennings and Twing will probably represent Rutgers.

Chicago Feds Release Three Men.

CHICAGO, May 5.—President Weeghman of the Chicago Federal League club announced to-day that three of his players were released unconditionally. They are Kading, McDonough, and Kavanaugh, all infielders. Kavanaugh has secured a position with the Oshkosh club of the Wisconsin-Illinois League.

Orioles Dispose of Two Pitchers.

BALTIMORE, May 5.—Manager Dunn of the Baltimore Internationals to-day disposed of two of his pitchers. William Morrisette was sent to the Raleigh Club of the Carolina League and Frank Jarman to the Wilmington (Del.) Tri-State League Club.

Columbia Will Play To-day.

The Columbia-Cornell game, which was scheduled to be played at Ithaca yesterday, was called off on account of rain. The Columbia team obtained permission from the faculty to stay over last night, and the game will be played this afternoon.

BOARD OF REVIEW CASES.

Trotting Court Clearing Docket of Disputes and Violations.

The Board of Review of the National Trotting Association, consisting of P. P. Johnson, Lexington, Ky., President; W. H. Gocher, Hartford, Conn., Secretary; P. H. Wall, Ottawa, Canada, Eastern district; H. N. Bain, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Atlantic district; R. C. Estill, Lexington, Ky., Central district; S. Walton, Falls Mills, Va., Southern district, and A. P. Sandles, Ottawa, Ohio, Western district, met yesterday at the Murray Hill Hotel in the semi-annual meeting, at which cases arising on the light-harness circuit were decided.

The board will continue its session today, when the more important cases will be tried, and several surprises are expected. The first day's business was devoted to minor violations of the rules, and of about twelve which were aired before the judges none were very exciting.

A number of old cases carried over from the December meeting opened the day's work. The most important of these was E. H. Johnson of Dover, Del. At the December meeting C. W. Simmons of Cambridge, Md., was expelled when it was proved that he had raced the mare Pauline B., 2:14¼, under the name of Sweet Annie. After the expulsion Simmons disposed of the mare to E. H. Johnson, who raced her over some small circuits, winning $435. The board ordered him suspended until the unlawful winnings of the mare were returned, after which time he will be reinstated. Johnson said he would turn over the amount to clear himself, as he did not know of any penalties inflicted on the horse he raced.

An unusual case developed from the evidence produced by F. L. Burke of Ipswich, Mass., which, when decided, had to do more with the officials at the meeting in question than with the horse. At a recent meeting at Combination Park, Mass., it was shown by the report of the officials that Fred W. and Miss DeForest, the latter owned by Burke, had gone a race in which the mare won and secured a mark of 2:14¼. This performance barred the mare from the customary time allowance, which Burke applied for release. It was shown by evidence that the race did not fill and the two horses merely went the distance for a work-out and the pleasure of the spectators. There was no purse or premium and the board was ordered to bring a case against the judges for signing false records.

The application of Charles McMahon of Montreal, Quebec, for the release of a fine of $100 which he paid under protest was denied. He was charged with "laying up" in the fourth heat at a Canadian meeting.

Two cases growing out of a meeting at Bell Vernon, Penn., took up considerable time. The last of these was unique inasmuch as the owner of the horse in question volunteered information which gave his horse a faster mark, and according to Secretary Gocher was the first time he recalled such an instance. G. S. Hornbake, Jr., started Nunda O in a race and won. The judges' report gave the time as 2:15¼. Evidence produced last December showed the time to be 2:12½, and the owner was fined $100 and a mark was placed on the horse at 2:12¼. Hornbake, Jr., was on hand yesterday with evidence which showed that the actual time of the race was 2:13¼. The mark was changed to the latter figure and the fine lifted. The judges were found to be wrong in their report.

POLO SCENE SHIFTS.

American Mounts to be Brought to Westbury, L. I., To-day for Practice.

Plans for the international team's polo practice were rather suddenly changed yesterday when Capt. Harry Payne Whitney, who is still a very active spirit in the management of the American team, though not a candidate for a place on it, ordered the ponies moved from the old Oliver stables in Lakewood, where they have been quartered, to the stables on his place at Westbury. Arrangements had been practically perfected for the team to go down to Rumson for the rest of this week and early next week for a few games on strange grounds as a good thing for both players and ponies. Yesterday's storm put a stop to that part of the programme, as the ground was so thoroughly soaked at Rumson, and the ponies, with all their paraphernalia, as well as that of the players, will leave Lakewood this morning on a special train for Roslyn, L. I. The ponies belonging to H. C. Phipps and J. S. Phipps, both of whom have been practicing with other candidates for the team, will also be taken from the George Gould stables to Westbury on the same train.

Practice for the members of the team will be held in future on the field of the Meadow Brook Steeplechase Association and the grounds on the Phipps estate at Westbury, the plans tentatively arranged yesterday calling for a considerable use of the field at the Phipps estate. Announcement of playing days will be made when the Polo Committee perfects its arrangements. Playing on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Sundays will probably be arranged for, as the men who are trying for places on the teams will like to enjoy the cross-country races which are set for Saturday of each week for a month to come at various courses on Long Island, the first of these on Mr. Whitney's estate next Saturday afternoon.

Trainer Fitzpatrick said yesterday that with the exception of three or four, the ponies in his charge were in as good condition as he could ask for, but thinks that the change back to the climate in which they will have to be played will prove beneficial.

Fordham Eleven to Play Navy.

Announcement of a football game with the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., was made at Fordham yesterday. The Maroon eleven, under the captaincy of Charles (Bud) Wymard, will make the first Southern football trip in its history to play the Middies on Nov. 7. The Bronx collegians take the date given to the Carlisle Indians last Fall, and will replace New York University on the Naval Academy's football schedule. Fordham expects to branch out into its former position in the gridiron sport next season, playing the foremost college elevens in the football world. The management is concluding arrangements for games with Syracuse, Georgetown, Vermont, and other colleges. Norman (Skip) Wymard, the former Georgetown and All-Southern tackle, will coach the Maroon football squad next Fall. Paul Lannin, Fordham's manager, has secured permission from Joseph Lannin, Boston's baseball magnate, for the Maroon squad to train at Garden City, L. I., for two weeks before college opening.

English County Cricket.

LONDON, May 5.—The county championship games commenced last Saturday with four of the counties engaged finishing their first matches this afternoon. The scores: Leicestershire, 124 and 387; Essex, 143 and 129; Northamptonshire, 207 and 287 for five wickets declared; Surrey, 157 and 263.

Changing Resolute's Rigging.

BRISTOL, R. I., May 5.—Changes in the racing rigging of the cup defense candidate Resolute will prevent further trial spins for several days. The Resolute has had three sail trials in Narragansett Bay, during which her designer, Nat Herreshoff, and the managing owner, R. W. Emmons, 2d, have made a critical study of her performances and have decided upon certain changes in her rig.

Nelson Out of Harvard-Cornell Meet

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 5.—Capt. Barron and Bingham, quarter-milers of the Harvard track team, have been chosen for the sprints against Cornell at Ithaca next Saturday in place of Nelson, who pulled a tendon yesterday.

Neponsit Gun Club Shoot.

The Neponsit Gun Club will hold its second annual shoot to-morrow at Rockaway Beach. It will be a 150-bird handicap.

Baseball News in Brief.

Bill Herring, the pitcher who trained at Marlin with the Giants, will start to-day for Springfield, Ill., where he will join the team owned by Dick Kinsella. Herring is a youngster and last season pitched for a semi-professional team in Freeport, L. I.

The National League yesterday gave its sanction for an exhibition game at Pittsburgh next Monday between the Pirates and the Chicago White Sox. It is an off day for both clubs.

Pitcher George Beck of Boston has been awarded to the Cleveland Club of the American League. Boston asked for waivers on Beck and tried to send him back to the Atlanta Club with a string attached, but Cleveland refused to waive and got him at the waiver price.

BRITISH DATES FOR DAVIS CUP MATCHES

Although no official advices have reached the members of the American Davis Cup International Committee regarding the arrangements for the matches, the schedule has been announced in British publications. The International Committee of the British Lawn Tennis Association has decided upon the dates and locations for the two matches in which the British Isles will compete. The expediency raised in some quarters in England of holding all the eliminating ties in England has been found impracticable. Australia must cross the Atlantic to play its first round tie with Canada on the neutral courts of the champion country and cannot return to England or France, even assuming that time permitted the double ocean voyage, which it does not. Accordingly, the winner of the bottom half of the draw, (England, France, and Belgium are the three countries included in it,) will come to the United States immediately after the sectional tournament is completed.

In the draw the British Isles and Belgium filled the first round, or the upper half, with France drawing a bye. In the lower section Australia and Canada were the opposing teams in the lower brackets, with Germany playing the winner in the second round. It was generally admitted that England and Australia would be found in the final round, and in order to arrange the schedule in such a way as not to conflict with the British championships the tennis authorities on the other side completed the lower section games.

The opening round of the Davis Cup series will be played at Folkestone, England, between England and Belgium on July 7, 8, and 9, the week following the English championships. The second round tie, presumably England and France, has been provisionally fixed for July 11, 13, and 14 at Wimbledon. In the event of England winning this tie the British representatives will probably sail for America on July 15 and reach New York on July 21. The final tie will take place in the first week in August and the challenge round begins on Aug. 13.

The members of the American International Committee, which consists of President Robert D. Wrenn of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association, George T. Adee, and Henry W. Slocum, are very much exercised over the absence of any definite news regarding the dates. It is expected that the committee will be called upon to decide the date and place for the Australia-Canada tie, as these two nations have not been able to agree, and according to the rules governing the Davis Cup competition, the holding nation must select the date and place for any round where the competing nations fail to agree. This will relieve the committee of considerable worry, as it will insure a match for Boston and give the West Side Club the challenge round on their new courts at Forest Hills.

NEWS OF THE ATHLETES.

Willie Kramer, cross-country "king" of the Long Island Athletic Club, is far from being a dead issue athletically as reports had him yesterday. Instead of being threatened with permanent retirement from competition because of another injury to his Achilles tendon which he strained while training for the last Olympic games, Kramer expects to be ready to compete in the distance run in the meet at Princeton on May 16.

The Metropolitan District Registration Committee may call a special meeting either this evening or Friday night to take up the charges of proselyting, lodged by the Xavier A. A. against the Millrose A. A., an organization of which the once Peerless Mel Sheppard is prime mover. This matter was first put in the hands of James E. Sullivan, who turned it over to the committee too late to be acted upon at its last meeting. There is also a possibility that the Board of Managers of the metropolitan district will have to take charge of the matter. A leading member of the Registration Board yesterday gave it as his opinion that the complaint was too broad for his committee. The rules of the A. A. U. give the Registration Committee power to deal only with individual athletes, whereas the complaint of the Xaviers is directed against the Millrose Club.

Displeased with the way T. B. Hull has been conducting amateur athletic affairs in his territory recently, the A. A. U., after requesting his resignation, which was refused, yesterday sent him notice that he had been removed from his Commissionership in New Haven. Notice was also sent to the different clubs in this district that all business such as registrations and applications for membership, and everything pertaining to the conduct of Hull's office will have to be referred to Jake Stumpf, Chairman of the Registration Committee. Officials of the Metropolitan Association have under advisement the names of several men who have agreed to take the office made vacant, and the name of the one selected will be announced in a few days.

Athletes who competed in the unsanctioned boxing bouts of the Indian Head A. C., who will apply for reinstatement through the regular channels, will receive consideration from the governing body, provided they have not participated in any other unsanctioned bouts or races in the interim.

Entry blanks were issued yesterday for the games of the Irish-American A. C. at Celtic Park May 30; New York Post Office Clerks, Celtic Park, May 24; Clan McLeod Order of Scottish Clans, Scheutzen Park, May 30, and an eight-mile scratch run to be conducted by The Hudson Dispatch on May 16. No entry fee is charged for the first two and the latter event.

Kiviat Falls and Injures Thigh.

Union Boat Club Entries Accepted.

BOSTON, May 5.—The entry of the Union Boat Club's eight-oared crew, composed of former Harvard College oarsmen, for the Grand Challenge Cup in connection with the Henley regatta, was accepted in a formal communication received from the Henley Stewards to-day. At the same time the entries of Paul Withington and Tudor Gardiner for the diamond sculls were accepted. Withington is a former Crimson oarsman. Gardiner is now a senior at Harvard, and will probably be a member of the crew that will meet Yale.

SMITH ROBBED IN BOUT.

Australian Boxing Authorities Condemn Referee's Decision.

One of the most remarkable demonstrations witnessed at a boxing contest followed the twenty-round bout between Jeff Smith and Eddie McGoorty, two Americans, at the Stadium, Sydney, Australia, on March 14, when Referee A. S. Scott declared McGoorty the winner. The decision was so unpopular and manifestly unjust that the Stadium management not only deposed the referee, but sent an official repudiation of his ruling to all countries where boxing is recognized. The latter proceeding marks a new era in boxing, and while it cannot change the referee's decision, it unofficially recognizes Smith as the winner.

The contest was twenty rounds, and announced for the middleweight championship of the world. More than 15,000 persons, including many women, were present, and fully 90 per cent. of the spectators showed their disapproval of the decision by hissing and hooting the announcement, and so pronounced was the attitude of the spectators that the referee was mobbed.

Immediately after the contest the Stadium management notified Referee Scott of its disapproval of the decision, and his removal as ring official. Harold Baker, brother of Reginald "Snowy" Baker, who was in England at the time, was appointed referee at the Stadium, and advised as to the conditions which led to his selection. In addition advices were sent to nations which recognize the sport officially condemning Referee Scott's ruling.

The incident may result in the establishment of a Boxing Commission in Australia along the lines of the New York State Athletic Commission. "Snowy" Baker, who is the principal stockholder in the Sydney Stadium, recently visited the United States, and is now in England. He inquired into the workings of the Boxing Commission in this city, and attended several of the meetings of the commission. He announced himself as favoring an international federation, which would have the authority to reverse a decision similar to that in the McGoorty-Smith bout, and protect boxers from unjust decisions. The rulings of such a federation would be recognized in all countries where boxing bouts are held, and the sport would be placed upon a firmer and more universal basis.

DIFFER ON BOXING WEIGHTS.

Nations Interested Unable to Agree on Uniform Standard.

The State Athletic Commission yesterday considered the status of the proposed international boxing union, which has been hanging fire for some time. Several months ago "Snowy" Baker, the Australian boxing promoter, was in conference with the commission, and was authorized to treat with the foreign representatives on behalf of the New York men.

The commission yesterday received Baker's report, which set out that the principal differences between the nations concerned the matter of the weight; on all other questions the conferees are not far apart, but the foreigners are insistent upon the English rather than the American standard of weights.

The attitude of the commission and of American sporting men generally is one of compromise, uniformity being the main thing. The English classes are a trifle heavier than the American, but four pounds in the paper-weight class is the widest divergence, with three additional pounds in the bantams.

It is proposed to hold an international meeting in June at Geneva, Switzerland, for the settling of all outstanding differences. This meeting would be attended by representatives from all boxing nations, with the French taking the initiative.

A license was granted to the Chenango County Athletic Club and several complaints were heard. An inspector reported that Knockout Sweeney and Tommy Maloney had refused to weigh in and be examined before their recent match at the Collar City Athletic Club in Troy. All parties were summoned before the commission for the meeting next Tuesday. Donnelly, the owner of the Olympic Athletic Club, came before the commission on a charge of having acted as a referee without a referee's card. He explained that he had found it necessary to stop a match in which one of the contestants was being badly beaten, but that he had not intended to violate the rule that the referee is in sole charge of the ring. He was merely warned.

GIBBONS WINS EASY BOUT.

Johnny Howard Makes Poor Showing at Broadway Sporting Club.

Mike Gibbons put up one of his characteristic bouts last night with Johnny Howard at the Broadway Sporting Club, Brooklyn. At no time was Gibbons in real danger and outpointed Howard with ease, but he, with the exception of one round, never forced matters and permitted Howard to do the leading.

Gibbons weighed in at 152 and Howard at 160. In the first round Howard did all the leading, with Gibbons picking his openings, and with no desire to force the issue; he was always well within himself. In the second he cut Howard's eye with a nasty jab. This brought Howard more energy, and he went at Gibbons hammer and tongs in the next round, and this was the only round that clearly belonged to him. Gibbons showed his only bit of aggression in the fourth round, when he forced Howard around the ring, nearly putting him out.

That ended the spirited portion of the contest. Gibbons never tried after that to do more than avoid blows and occasionally to land one. The crowd frequently hissed, but that did not change his tactics in the least. He used his feet with skill and dodged cleverly, but he had no intention of exerting himself to the extent of trying to put out his rival. The end of the tenth round found both men in good condition and Gibbons without a scratch.

INTERNATIONAL POLO MATCH IN DOUBT

Poor Showing of British Team Makes Attempt to Lift Cup Seem Futile.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 5.—There are indications of apprehension that the British polo challenge may be held over until next year, owing to the poor showing made by Lord Wimborne's team during the last few days.

The polo correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, who is a recognized authority, says that Lord Wimborne couldn't possibly be expected to make up his mind about his team, and couldn't adequately maintain the challenge until he has seen them play in the matches set for this week.

If, after these games are played, his conclusions are unsatisfactory, it might well be within discretion to postpone the international match, which would thereby eliminate incurring the large outlay involved by taking the challenging team across the Atlantic for no purpose, as regards England recovering the polo cup.

The Sportsman says that realizing something is wrong with the British team, Baron Wimborne has altered the order of his side for to-day's match to be played against a strong team consisting of Walter S. Buckmaster, Mr. Grenfell, Capt. Leslie St. C. Cheape, and Lord Wodehouse, whose handicap value is two goals better than that of Baron Wimborne's team. The newspaper says that if the challenging team does badly again to-day it would be wise to consider whether the trip to the United States should not be postponed for a year, as a bad failure on its part would do much harm.

The Pall Mall Gazette says that on such form as it displayed on Monday the British team does not stand a 100 to 1 chance. At present it lacks both a leader and confidence, both of which are essential to its success in America.

COLUMBIA ATHLETIC NEWS.

Coach Rice gave the 'Varsity eight a long pull on the Hudson yesterday preparatory to their final practice this afternoon before shipping their shell to Princeton for the triangular race with Pennsylvania and Princeton on Saturday. Rice sent his 'Varsity eight through its paces at a fast clip and had little to say after the row.

Negotiations are pending between Columbia and Harvard looking to the playing on May 15 of the baseball game which was postponed from April 25, according to an announcement made by Harry Fisher, graduate manager of athletics at Columbia, yesterday.

Frank Whelan, '14, was elected Captain of the Columbia cross-country team for next Fall at a meeting of the cross-country runners yesterday.

Bernie Wefers, coach of the track team, thinks he has a find in H. H. Shulte, a freshman high jumper, who "placed" in his first competition in the meet against Annapolis last week. Until a week ago Shulte was stroking the freshman crew, but he was advised to give up rowing because of a weak heart, and immediately turned his attention to high jumping. He has been clearing 5 feet 9 inches in practice, and Wefers expects him to do 6 feet.

Interscholastic athletics in New York will receive a boom next week when an all-star schoolboy track team meets the Columbia freshman track combination on Thursday afternoon. The plans for the selection of the schoolboy team called for the submission of three names by each school to the Games Committee of the Public Schools Athletic League. The committee will select three boys in each event and will pit the teams thus organized against the Columbia youngsters.

Dyson and McVeigh at New Polo.

Young Dyson, the hard-hitting lightweight of Providence, and Pete McVeigh of Washington will be the principals in the main event scheduled for ten rounds at the New Polo A. A. on Friday night. Dyson is well known at the Harlem club, where he first fought three years ago, and since has been doing his boxing hereabouts to good advantage. In his last bout he won by a knockout over Billy Bennet of Ireland in three rounds. His opponent is said to be a sparring partner of Ad Wolgast and one of the best lightweights ever turned out of the capital. A good preliminary card of six bouts has been arranged.

Gibbons to Box in Australia.

"Snowy" Baker, who recently left New York on a tour of the world, changed his plans in England and made a flying return visit to New York, leaving on Monday night for San Francisco en route for Australia. The Antipodean promoter saw Mike Gibbons while in New York, and it is likely that Mike will box in Australia. Baker proposes to build a large motordome, probably in Sydney, and to gain ideas he looked over the bowl at Brighton Beach.

Adjourned Chess Games Played.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 5.—Three adjourned games from previous rounds of the international chess tourney were concluded to-day. Marshall beat Janowski, Bernstein drew with Rubinstein, and Janowski drew with Niemzowitsch. The leading scores are: Capablanca, 6; Marshall, 5½; Alechine and Bernstein, 5 each, and Tarrasch and Lasker, 4½ each.

VANITIE READY TO LAUNCH.

The Cochran Cup Yacht May Go Overboard Next Monday.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 5.—The cup yacht Vanitie is ready for her launching, though it is highly probable that whoever breaks the traditional bottle against her bow will announce a different name from the one she bears now. The launching ways are partially in place at the Neponset yard. Next Monday's high tide comes shortly after noon, and if, at the same time the Defiance slips into the Kennebec, Designer Gardiner says "Let her go," Vanitie will drop into the water with very little ceremony. At any rate, Mr. Cochran will have a few friends in his launching party from New York, and will follow it up with a luncheon. He has been extremely secretive in regard to his launching plans, and the designer is much nettled because details regarding the Vanitie have been published.

One that won't need pressing too often—one that will stand service, yet keep its style.

Then we suggest the fine English worsteds which we import direct from the best English mills.

Plenty of pleasing patterns. Grays, gray checks, pin checks and Club checks, $28 to $40.

Other Spring suits, $18 to $45.

Cordovan leather!

Built on an English last, it makes one of the smartest oxfords we have this Spring; in deep mahogany, $7.50.

Other oxfords, black and tan, $4 to $9.

NO ENTANGLEMENTS IN MEXICO.

We can no more afford to entangle ourselves with CARRANZA and VILLA than with HUERTA himself. We must hold resolutely aloof from all compacts and agreements with both the Constitutionalists and Federalists, save only such day-to-day arrangements as may be incidental to our military operations. Whatever may be the delusions of any peace-loving mind in Washington, however great the desire to find a short and easy way out of present trouble, nothing in the nature of an alliance with any force or faction in Mexico, no understanding that involves the promise of aid and support, can be considered, much less entered into.

The belief current in El Paso, as reported in recent dispatches, that a confidential agent of the American State Department had been in conference with VILLA at Chihuahua, and that in consequence VILLA had changed his military plans and decided to push on to Tampico, was, we hope, without foundation. Confidential agents are peculiarly liable to transcend their instructions, and any assurance given by us to VILLA sufficiently important to serve as a basis for his military policy would be a blunder and a certain source of embarrassment. An alliance or anything approaching an alliance implies mutual confidence. We cannot with safety give our confidence to anybody in Mexico at present. President POLK made that mistake with SANTA ANNA. He sent a confidential agent to confer with the distinguished refugee in Havana, and an arrangement was made by which our naval commanders at Vera Cruz were to give him free entry into Mexico, while on his part he stipulated that Gen. TAYLOR, who had already won important victories for the American arms in the north of Mexico, should advance to Saltillo and be ready to give him support. He would then be in a position to make peace with the United States. POLK had supposed that SANTA ANNA would keep his word, or at least that he would be a disturbing element in Mexico, while, as Mr. RIVES points out in his history, SANTA ANNA happened to be the one man who could unite all the Mexicans against the United States. That historic instance of misplaced confidence should serve as a warning to Mr. WILSON and Secretary BRYAN against any dalliance with the Constitutionalist chiefs.

We must have a free hand in Mexico, free, that is, from any embarrassing restraints growing out of commitments with Mexican factions. When we were fighting AGUINALDO and his men in the Philippines the anti-imperialists here at home shouted themselves hoarse in protest. We had made an alliance with AGUINALDO, they said, and had no right to fight him. The story of the alliance was untrue, flagrantly untrue, as orders issued from Washington and in the field before Manila amply demonstrated. But if AGUINALDO had been our ally we could not very well have fought him, and he would have given us a great deal more trouble. Upon that point the anti-imperialists were right. Our course is no less clear in Mexico. We must at all times be free to make our decision without having to consult any faction leader in Mexico.

MAYOR MITCHEL AND THE SUFFRAGISTS.

Mayor MITCHEL is entitled to the sympathy of all his fellow-men. His speech in relation to female suffrage in Carnegie Hall was polite and encouraging. He expressed the opinion that the women will get the right to vote when enough of them really want it. What more could any reasonable man say? The onslaught upon him is quite unjustified, and we are inclined to share his opinion that the rigors of the contest for suffrage have impaired the feminine sense of courtesy. The Mayor was asked to speak at the suffrage meeting simply because he is Mayor, and he spoke kindly. He could doubtless have found much more satisfying use for the time he so cheerfully gave to the "cause." But it has long been apparent that the suffragists are never willing to admit that there are two sides to their case. All who refuse to swallow their doctrine without hesitation are numbered among the lost. Yet no great movement ever triumphed without opposition, and the only opposition Mr. MITCHEL offered, in his expression of his ideas that comparatively few women want to vote and that the right to vote will not make women any happier, is surely worthy of polite and intelligent consideration. In our opinion, these are merely statements of incontrovertible facts. Comparatively few women want to vote. Suffrage would not lessen their burdens or make them happier.

Of course, they can find men who will flatter them and tell them they are better able to govern the world than its present governors, if men can be said to usurp the whole power of government in any civilized country nowadays. If men of that kind are the only ones they want at their meetings, why do they entreat public officers to attend them? If they want to be flattered and cajoled let them stick to the familiar type of male suffragist. Few intelligent men of large responsibilities can afford to go further in the encouragement of the suffrage movement than Mayor MITCHEL did at Carnegie Hall, and he deserves gratitude, not abuse.

ADJOURN IN A WEEK.

If the Governor limits the action of the Legislature to the appropriation bills there is no public reason why the special session should last a week, or more than three or four days. Gov. GLYNN's statement that should the Legislature prolong the session by factional strife, such as was exhibited in the closing days of the regular session, he will appeal directly to the people in protest, is a good statement of principle. Speaker SWEET may be right in asserting that the Governor may not fix the date of adjournment, but he may enter the Speaker's district and the districts of other legislators and present a good argument that they are wasting the people's money if the bickering over the appropriations does not cease this week.

The fight over funds to support the offices of State Fire Marshal and of the Department of Efficiency and Economy should not have been started. The offices may be useless. They may have been created to make jobs for politicians. So long as the enabling acts are on the statute books it is the duty of the Legislature to provide for their execution. Too many laws are passed with the notion that they may become dead letters by withholding the means to make them effective. The departments should be either supported or regularly abolished by the repeal of the laws creating them.

The Governor has had introduced an Appropriation bill $1,000,000 less than the total of either of the bills passed by the Senate and Assembly in their dead-locked session. He can veto any additional appropriations. He has reduced the special bills by $6,000,000, and the pruning of the general bills will enable the State to get through the year, redeem all its pledges, and maintain its credit without imposing a direct tax. No ground can exist for disputing the Governor's plea of economy. It would be folly to dispute it, since he can veto any items of expense that he chooses.

There should be time to spare within the week for the passage of the primary reform measure supported by the National Democratic Club. The fact that the Legislature failed to heed the Governor's message urging it to provide bi-partisan watchers at the primaries next September, to make them fall on the first day of registration, to apply the signature law to them, and have sample ballots sent out to the voters in advance for a proper choice of candidates, will stand out the more clearly if a repetition of the message should be unheeded at the special session. The legislators could have little excuse for ignoring such a message this week.

THE FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM.

The nominations for the Federal Reserve Board present a case for mutual congratulations. The country has cause to rejoice in the character of the nominees, and the nominees can rejoice that the reception of their names is such as to assure them of the country's co-operation in their difficult task. There is cause to regret Mr. OLNEY's declination, but mention is made of another man trained in the Cleveland school, and trained already in the Treasury. Whether Massachusetts or another State sits at the head of the table there will be no such soreness in New York as there might be elsewhere if New York's fitness to dominate the situation had been officially recognized. The interior has no cause for jealousy, and has representatives of a quality to assure both that the interior shall not be exploited, and that the country shall not suffer by the prejudice against New York manifested in political circles. The problem is being approached in a reasonable frame of mind in each of the twelve districts whose organization is the first problem before the board.

A minimum of $4,000,000 subscriptions to the stock of the banks must be made in each of the twelve districts, and at the beginning of this month had been made in the districts of which Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond, Dallas, Chicago, St. Louis, and San Francisco are the reserve centres. Minneapolis and Kansas City and Atlanta were backward. There is no reason to doubt their qualifying, nor would there be difficulty in proceeding with a smaller number of reserve centres than the maximum. The minimum already is assured, and on the first of the month there were pending 211 applications from State and private bankers to enter the system by becoming national banks. Regarding the system as an entirety the stage of doubt is passed, and only details remain for the Federal Reserve Board to consider.

Its embarrassment will not come from the leading centres. In the East the chief complaint is that parts of New Jersey and Connecticut wish to be annexed to New York, rather than to Boston or Philadelphia, but New York, Boston, and Philadelphia are not complaining. Oklahoma banks wish to be included in the Kansas City district, rather than in Dallas's. Northern Michigan wishes to be assigned to Chicago rather than to Minneapolis, and is not assisting the subscriptions of Minneapolis. Nebraska and Wyoming banks are not supporting the Kansas City bank, because they prefer to be associated with Chicago. Atlanta's difficulties are of a similar sort. There is nothing factious in this wish to be comfortable and prosperous in new banking relations. The objections and the lukewarmness of support, such as it is, are due entirely to business considerations, and can be remedied by businesslike treatment of the appeals awaiting presentation to the Federal Board. These reserve banks will be even more difficult to support than to organize, and the ambitious cities which have coveted the costly honor may reconsider when the bills come in. The reduction of the excessive number of reserve centres from solely natural causes will be no cause either of regret or of complaint.

THE PEACE NEGOTIATIONS.

There is evidence that HUERTA's troubles in his own capital are serious and are not growing less. This makes the outlook more hopeful for a happy issue of the peace negotiations. CARRANZA's refusal to rest on his arms while the parley proceeds need give us no great concern, since the advance of the Constitutionalists toward the capital will manifestly add to HUERTA's discomforts and apprehension.

CARRANZA's abstention naturally narrows the list of subjects open for discussion by the peace negotiators. Certainly, if the envoys who have tendered the good offices of their Governments should turn the proceedings into a formal mediation with sittings, presiding officers, secretaries, and all of that, they might have trouble in deciding how to begin. The Tampico incident would necessarily be excluded. We could not accept mediation to determine whether our flag had been insulted or whether Admiral MAYO should be overruled and his orders annulled. The only part of that incident open to discussion is whether HUERTA will make the apology demanded, and that question is one for peacemakers proceeding by other means than mediation. On the conditions we laid down the first question would really seem to be the consent of HUERTA to take himself out of the way.

The negotiators, in spite of the difficulties that confront them, are making a serious effort to remove the causes of difficulty, and in that endeavor they will have the sympathy and the support of all the American people. Their work would be facilitated, not hindered, we are convinced, by a continuance of our military preparations on a scale sufficient to remove all doubt as to their meaning. The forces of Federal troops disposed along the line of the railways running to Mexico City have evidently been placed there to obstruct any advance toward the capital, rather than as a menace to Gen. FUNSTON at Vera Cruz. Nevertheless, it is not well that there should be even any speculation as to the sufficiency of the force we maintain in that seaport, and the impudent Mexican demands for a surrender of the waterworks a short distance out of Vera Cruz are a little disquieting. Certainly, we have had experience enough with our neighbors of Mexico to know that they pay a very high respect to unquestionably superior force.

TWO CLOSED SHOPS.

In Colorado the employers have wished to establish the closed shop principle against the unions. While the law commanded them not to oppose the formation of unions and not to discharge men because they belonged to a union, they have refused to hear the representatives whom the unionists empowered to present their case. That was the coal operators' "closed shop."

The unions, on the other hand, wish to close the mines against non-union workers. Strangely enough, there is no law on the statute books of Colorado forbidding and penalizing the unions for acts that deprive a free man of his right to sell his labor in a free market. The United Mine Workers have established the unionists' "closed shop" in every State but Colorado. They have invoked a civil war to establish it there. They are seeking advantage in the present special session of the Colorado Legislature to compel a settlement on the closed shop basis.

The Federal troops have stopped the insurrection. Upon their withdrawal it will break forth again unless both employers and unionists abandon their positions of extreme selfishness and make mutual concessions. They must quit fighting for closed shops. The unionists should take the word "scab" out of their vocabulary. The employers should encourage the formation of open unions in their mines that will admit the men they choose, and guarantee discipline and the orderly disposition of grievances. Such unions have been formed in New York among scores of thousands of ignorant foreign workers once subject to lawless and violent leaders. It should not be difficult to form them among the 10,000 coal miners of Colorado.

A SOCIALISTIC BUDGET.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer's budget, presented in the British Parliament Monday, carries his country still further into the depths of radicalism. How long will the British people stand LLOYD GEORGE and his theories, which are obviously at variance with the cherished British idea of fairness? To increase the national income about $50,000,000 the Chancellor proposes to increase the tax on all incomes of more than $5,000 a year and add to the supertax on large incomes so much that the tax of some Britons will exceed 62 cents in the pound. He also designs to raise the death rates so that the tax on some estates will amount to one-fifth of the total valuation. Thus the increased burdens will be placed entirely on one class, or it might be truer to say will not trouble wage earners and men of moderate salaries at all. The taxation of the very rich will be increased, but the professional men, the business men, will be most heavily oppressed. A lawyer or physician, a writer or engineer whose earned income amounts to as much as $12,500 a year, must pay to the State 32 cents for every $5, in addition to his house rates and parish taxes, which are never low. If he is lucky enough to have in addition an unearned income, however small, he must pay nearly double the income tax rates on that. To be sure, the lawyer or the physician may try to increase his fees to meet his increased taxes, but there is plenty of competition in those professions, while the untaxed class either uses the services of cheap physicians or depends on free medical aid, and it has very little use for lawyers.

Yet Mr. LLOYD GEORGE is not appreciably in the way to transform Great Britain into a paradise for wage earners. Indeed, in spite of his increased land taxes, his old age pensions, his insurance schemes, and his inclination to press the people who are thrifty as much as possible, the growth of labor disturbances during his long term of office has been enormous. He is no favorite with the Socialists and syndicalists, while he persists in his adherence to a plan of action which, as one of his conservative critics has said, will tend to produce in England "a population of greedy, irresponsible sponsgers, in place of the sturdy, self-respecting working class." In any fair system of taxation the burden is shared by all. If more money is needed to carry on the Government, the poor man should pay his penny and the fairly well-to-do man should not be compelled to pay more than his fair share of shillings. But the needs of the British Government have been largely increased by Mr. LLOYD GEORGE's socialistic measures, and it is not unlikely that a change in the Ministry will be required before long, less on account of the Home Rule agitation than because of a general demand for a return to sound economic principles.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Deliberately Endanger the Public.

When a man is permitted to make wide and public proclamation, as did an official of the Anti-Vaccination League on Monday, that smallpox is less to be feared than the consequences to be expected from the Jennerian operation, he severely strains the covenanted liberties of both himself and of the newspapers that printed his advertisement. When, besides making this demonstrably false statement, he advised parents to resist any pressure or influence that might be brought to bear on them in the matter of having their children vaccinated, he became nothing less than a public enemy.

That he was not treated as such, that he incurred no penalty except the ineffectual indignation and resentment of everybody who knows the facts in regard to what is probably the most brilliant achievement of medical science—this only shows that tolerance of fatuity and ignorance is carried so far as seriously to imperil highly important public interests.

No reasonable or enlightened person doubts or can doubt that vaccination, properly and persistently utilized, gives complete protection from the once nearly universal plague the ravages of which it, and it alone, has already reduced, in civilized countries, to such a degree that it hardly counts as a factor in the death record. Epidemics of the dreadful malady are still possible, however, in any unvaccinated community to which a case of the disease may be brought, and such importations are everywhere to be expected by such communities in these days of frequent contact of one sort or another with nations backward or careless in the observance of sanitary and hygienic laws.

The United States is in especial danger of contagion just now, and yet this is the time chosen by the anti-vaccinationists to exploit their literally pestilent heresies and to utter their mendacious warnings against dangers that do not exist! What they say about evil effects following vaccination has an element of truth so small as to be negligible, since the occasional accidents, the numbers of which they wildly exaggerate, were, except in the rarest instances, not caused by vaccination, but have simply followed it, exactly as they would have followed any other slight lesion if it had been allowed to become infected.

Incidentals Seemingly Essentials.

As a statement of the law, Judge HOUGH's explanation of his refusal to grant against the New York Photo Engravers' Union No. 1 the injunction asked by the Gill Engraving Company must be accepted, of course, as correct. It is extremely difficult, however, for the lay mind cordially to acquiesce in an argument the result of which is to declare innocent the attempted ruining of the company's business by threatening with strikes all who venture to buy the half-tone plates which are its product.

The ruining, we are told, would be an incidental, and not necessarily intended, consequence of a permissible, even distinctly authorized, action—to wit, a strike. The layman can see easily enough, indeed, that the union would be glad enough to let the engraving company go on, if only it would go on in accordance with the union's notions of propriety instead of those entertained by its owners, but as the owners are apparently determined not to do that, the difference between the incidental and the intentional shows—for the layman—a strong tendency to disappear.

The French have a proverb to the effect that he who wants an end, wants, and by implication is responsible for, the means by which it is attained. This rule is a highly plausible one, and it is seemingly applicable to the controversy under consideration. Instead of applying it, Judge HOUGH preferred, and presumably was compelled by the controlling case, to hold, that as the engraving company had a right to employ only the workmen it preferred, so the union had a right to order strikes when it pleased, and in this clash of equal rights, whatever the ensuing hardships to one side or the other or both, equity had nothing to say.

His reference to the "pious regrets for injuries committed" that have been expressed by the authorities he followed might almost be taken as hinting an underlying dissatisfaction with or criticism of his own denial of the injunction sought. That may interest, but it will not much console, the Gill Company or others in the same position, left as they are in a state of helpless and undefended subjection to attack, and, of course, the decision is a great victory for the unions—one which they will proceed energetically to utilize.

Criticism Promptly Answered.

That correspondent of ours who made snippy remarks because he saw most of the men and very few of the women in his car reading newspapers, must have known that he was inviting the criticism he received in the letter we printed on this page yesterday. He was charged, plausibly enough, with ignoring certain important factors of the situation he observed, and with drawing conclusions from inadequate data.

Probably he was guilty on both counts, yet there is no doubt that the habit of reading newspapers while traveling up and down the city is far commoner among men than among women. It would seem to be a fair deduction that the men have more interest in current events than women, but even this much is not sure, and that it shows a like difference of intelligence it would be sensible as well as courteous to deny.

Perhaps the women have a greater and wiser regard for their eyes, for we have all been told on high authority that reading in such conditions of light as cars provide is injurious to vision. Possibly the women are not less interested in the news than men, but more interested in their fellow-travelers and what they can see out of the windows.

Whatever their explanation or excuse, any lover of peace would admit its adequacy and turn to a safer subject of discussion.

COLORADO'S DECLINE.

Where Is the Progress of Which Suffrage Orators Boast?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Rarely have I sat through a suffrage meeting at which a great deal about Colorado was not said. I have again and again heard suffrage orators speak of it as a model State, in which political and social conditions are vastly superior to those of other States. I have listened while a speaker enumerated a long list of laws, all alleged to be on the statute books of Colorado, most of which I should pronounce good, provided they are wisely drawn and intelligently enforced. And always has the speaker, by the plainest inference, amounting in many cases to direct assertion, claimed all the credit for whatever is good in present-day legislation in Colorado for her women, who, it is alleged, far from being a mere passive addition to the electorate, are the most active element among the voters. I have heard one suffragist of national reputation assert that "the women of Colorado have taken her government firmly in hand and may now be said to run that great State."

But suddenly, in a most dreadful and dramatic manner, Colorado stands revealed as a State in which government has completely broken down. So inept and inefficient has she shown herself that she has been compelled to admit that she cannot enforce her own laws and to go to the humiliating length of begging for Federal aid. Now, either the information disseminated by the suffragists in regard to this State is erroneous, or the women voters are largely responsible for this sad condition of affairs.

Those of us who have turned our attention to Colorado lately, having been impelled to do so by the insistence of the suffragists, have for some time been aware that something is wrong with that State. Mind, I do not say that the "something" is woman suffrage; but I do think that, whatever it is, it would repay a little study on the part of the suffragists. Since the days when Edward O. Wolcott and Henry M. Teller gave Colorado a standing in the United States Senate out of all proportion to her general importance, there has been a steady and marked deterioration in the calibre of her public servants. Other States have purified their elections, but Colorado's remain corrupt. The movement that has resulted in the reforming and transforming of government throughout the country, though it had its inception in the West, seems not yet to have reached Colorado. She elected Guggenheim to the Senate in the same year that New Jersey dropped Dryden. The "great leaders" of whom she now boasts are men like Judge Lindsey, who, undoubtedly sincere and well meaning, are so lacking in balance and judgment that they frequently injure the excellent causes they espouse.

Dirty Telephone Mouthpieces.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is about time an agitation of some sort was started in regard to sanitation of telephone booths and particularly of telephone mouthpieces. I most heartily agree with "H. A. S." and congratulate him upon his initiative in the matter. It is a wonder some one has not complained of this condition before. I have often hesitated speaking through public, and some cases private, telephone mouthpieces, because of their disease-breeding filthiness. When I do so I make sure to cover the mouthpiece with my hand.

I am not a crank on sanitation, but it seems to me that when thousands of people breathe into the public telephone mouthpieces daily their cleanliness should be a public responsibility.

THE MAYOR'S SPEECH.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As a strong advocate of suffrage for women I regret the hasty condemnation of Mayor Mitchel's gracious speech to the Woman Suffrage Convention at Carnegie Hall on Saturday evening by Mrs. Harriot Stanton Blatch, Chairman. I have been still more surprised at remarks of suffrage leaders since that time. The Mayor was speaking as Mayor of the city. He could not and should not have committed the city to woman suffrage. What he said personally is true. The greatest argument for suffrage is the work of women in responsible positions. The mere winning of the ballot is not going to solve women's problems. The ballot is only a means to an end. The struggle for the ballot, and woman's struggle after she gets it, will be of greatest importance to her and to the country.

I fear very much that Mrs. Blatch played into the hands of those opposed to suffrage, for it has always been said that women cannot take or tolerate a moderate position on any subject. Woman suffrage in operation proves this contention to be untrue, nevertheless many people feel that it is a substantial argument in opposition.

Mrs. Blatch's attitude struck me as rather unfortunate and practically uncalled for, especially as the Mayor did not say a single word against woman suffrage.

It does afford an opportunity for the opponents of suffrage to point out that women in public positions lack self-control, and does not show that they have the wonderful tact accredited to them.

BURDETTE G. LEWIS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It was very gratifying to me, and I am sure to thousands of others among our Mayor's well-wishers, that he did not, last Saturday, permit himself to be flattered or persuaded into approving woman suffrage, thereby showing a conspicuous and most refreshing contrast to Col. Roosevelt. To my mind, this "reform against nature" would, if successful, be nothing short of a dire calamity to the country in general, and prove especially disastrous to the women themselves, who need the protection and privilege which they now enjoy, and which they could have in increased measure rather than an imaginary equality.

New York, May 4, 1914.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Isn't it a bit futile as well as ludicrous for Mrs. Blatch to rise up in answer to Mayor Mitchel's speech on the suffrage question and say that "his speech sounded as if it had been written 100 years ago"? If it is true to-day, what matters how long ago it was written?

There is wisdom and truth in what the Mayor says.

RAPID TRANSIT ABUSES.

New York's Are the Worst, but the Public Suffers Meekly.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have visited every city in the United States of more than 20,000 inhabitants, some of them many times, and everywhere found relatively better conditions of local transportation than in New York. The passenger congestion in Greater New York, through inadequate equipment, the poor method for handling the crowds, the crushing of men, women, and children, the cattle-pen arrangement of railing and ropes, all bespeak an indifference to the rights of the populace, especially so by the subways, elevated, and bridge management.

This letter is the outcome of feelings of indignation because of an episode I noted this morning. A Lexington Avenue train had dumped its load of humanity at the Brooklyn end of the Bridge, and the pushed and pushing wedges of men and women were crowding to the doors of an already overloaded train for Manhattan, when a young girl fell between the concrete platform and that of the car. She would have been severely injured if a powerfully built fellow had not been able to hold the crowd back. The Brooklyn elevated trains are crowded to a disgraceful extent two and a half hours in the morning and evening.

On a Lexington Avenue train the coldest day of last Winter I noticed on a crowded platform an old lady of 70 years or more shivering in the below zero temperature; a young girl so tightly crushed that she could not raise her hands to turn up her coat collar.

The best-natured crowds I have met in my experience as a traveler in five countries are those of New York, and the worst imposed upon by the city common carriers. The people of no other American city would stand the outrageous conditions of local travel.

ART NOTES.

E. W. Deming's Indian Paintings and Sculpture on View.

E. W. Deming's paintings and sculpture now on view at the residence of Mrs. Harriman are dedicated to Indian subjects, with two exceptions, one a composition showing Washington locating Fort Pitt, the other, Lewis and Clark leaving their Winter quarters with the Mandan Indians. Several of the paintings are illustrative of Indian legend and superstition. There is "The Spirit of Famine," a green-eyed witch with a pack of ghostly wolves and the raven as messenger, devastating the country through which she speeds. There is "The Indian Orpheus," slim Manaboza, playing his flute and calling the beasts of the forest about him, and there are the studies for the decorative panels in Arden House. In the more realistic paintings Mr. Deming misses vitality, possibly through having his decorative intention too fixedly in mind. The bronzes show a firmer grip on character and the heads of the Sioux warriors have the convincing appearance of genuine portraiture. Among the smaller bronzes "Maternity," a bear suckling her cubs, is freshest in feeling.

The exhibition will last for ten days and is under the supervision of the Knoedler Galleries.

THE WOMEN.

I am ashamed of tears!
I see courageous women of all time
Come marching down the years.

It is not happiness
Gives them the white crown of nobility—
It is their proud distress!

Ah, when a nation's fate
Waits on weak mothers and self-pitying wives,
Then we disintegrate!

Shall we not give our tears,
Refusing pity, standing proud in grief,
And scorning all our fears?

PRINCETON'S GREEK.

Those Who Take It Are Merely the Better Prepared Ones.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

After reading the letter to THE TIMES of Dean Andrew F. West on the subject of the comparative excellence of the students at Princeton who have taken Greek as compared with those without Greek, I am tempted to express regret that the cultural value of the classics has become a topic to be discussed by the statistician.

In regard to "the hard, cold facts" that "the Bachelors of Arts have a general and widely sustained lead in scholarship in Princeton," there can be no reasonable ground for dispute. When, however, Dean West from these statistics attempts to deduce evidence, which he apparently believes is sufficient, to demonstrate that the mental superiority of the classical students at Princeton is purely the result of having studied Greek, many persons will feel inclined to recall Sydney Smith's warning that facts are often more uncertain than statistics. Unfortunately, it is true at Princeton that the majority of students entering the scientific courses have come from schools in which the preparation for the study of science is far below the standard maintained in such subjects as Greek or Latin. Is there any large private school in the country where a boy may receive similar advantages in preparing to enter the scientific departments of a university as are now conferred upon those intending to take their degree in arts or literature? It should also be remembered that until quite recently the facilities for laboratory work and for receiving instruction in science were of such a limited character at Princeton that the better class of scientific students went to other universities.

The Bachelor of Arts degree at Princeton is the one which has always attracted the greater number of students, partly because age has endowed it with the highest degree of prestige, and in the second place greater facilities for study were offered to applicants for this degree than in any of the other courses. Students who desired to make a start in the world backed up by all the conventional and often fictitious values that are attached to college degrees naturally chose courses leading to the A. B. degree, and at Princeton, in contrast to nearly all other universities, in doing this they are compelled to take Greek. The fact that Greek is not generally considered to be an easy subject also tended to attract only the better class of students. In view of what seems to us to be the more direct as well as valid interpretation that may be given to Dean West's statistics, are we not justified in asking to what extent the study of Aristotle has actually influenced the development of logic at Princeton?

Instead of permitting the Philistine to drive him back to an attempted statistical demonstration of the value of Greek, would it not have been possible to have formulated some inspiring and cogent expressions of faith in the efficacy of Greek culture, together with a rational presentation of its ideals, in a form that would appeal to the Trustees and the Faculty as well as the students? By all means let us have more Greek at Princeton, for it is needed there, just as it is in every other American university; but let us be sure that the spirit of Greek philosophy is revealed to the students. The present Regius Professor of Modern History at Cambridge tells us that "free thought is still a serious hindrance and handicap to an American, even in most of the universities." If the revival of an interest in Greek will insure at Princeton, as well as at other American universities, "that freedom of discussion and speculation that was fully realized in the Greek and Roman world and then disappeared when an unforeseen force laid claims upon the human mind and suppressed freedom and imposed upon man a weary struggle to recover the freedom which he had lost," then Greek should be made compulsory for all students.

Of far greater importance than the question of the place Greek should occupy in the curriculum is Dean West's implication that something is wrong in the American college at present; and in this view we agree with him most heartily. Under the present system of organization and administration it is not improbable that "the provincial and the Philistine" may yet make a successful attack upon the collegiate type of institution.

The general tenor of Dean West's letter, as well as that of his recent article in The Educational Review, suggests a fundamental misconception in regard to the functions of the university. The general failure to distinguish between the methods of the college and of the university has become a serious obstacle to educational reform in the United States. Most of our American universities, heavily overladen with the traditions of the preparatory school, are vainly attempting to bridge the broad gap that in this country exists between college and university, intrusting the successful realization of their efforts to the sentimental interest of alumni or the whims of some Maecenas.

It is very unfortunate that many of the Trustees of our colleges are not openly in sympathy with the growing public interest in favor of an actual rather than a merely nominal transformation of the college into the university.

NEW ITALIAN PEACE TREATY.

Bryan and Confalonieri Sign an Arbitration Agreement.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Secretary Bryan and Marquis Cusani Confalonieri, Italian Ambassador, to-day signed a treaty providing that any question between the United States and Italy which cannot be settled by diplomacy shall be submitted for investigation to an international commission of five members.

The period of investigation is fixed at one year, although it may be shortened. The treaty follows in a general way the terms of a similar agreement negotiated by Secretary Bryan with The Netherlands. It is the fifteenth of the new Bryan peace treaties. No provision is made for the maintenance of the status quo of military and naval preparation during the period of investigation, as in some of the previous conventions.

UNTERMYER TO TESTIFY.

To be Heard First by Senate Committee on Anti-Trust Bill.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the Pujo Money Trust Investigating Committee, will be heard to-morrow by the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee as the first witness on the proposed Anti-Trust bill, according to an announcement made to-day by Senator Newlands, Chairman of the committee.

Mr. Untermyer is expected to devote particular attention to the provision forbidding interlocking Directorates and holding companies.

Representatives of the Chicago Association of Commerce will appear on Saturday. Former Senator Faulkner of West Virginia has arranged for railroad representatives to be heard on Monday and probably Tuesday.

FREE TOLLS MEAN SUBSIDY, SAYS STONE

For That Reason He Now Favors Repeal, as Party Can't Reverse Historic Position.

A CONSISTENT PLATFORM

Tells Senate Framers Must Have Had Subsidy Plank in Mind in Writing Tolls Clause.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Repeal of the tolls exemption clause in the Panama Canal act was advocated from a different viewpoint this afternoon when Mr. Stone of Missouri, Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, argued for the President's Repealing bill. Mr. Stone voted last year for the provision he now seeks to repeal, and that changed attitude gave added interest to his remarks. Unlike the President, Mr. Stone said that he still felt strongly convinced of the right of the United States under the Hay-Pauncefote treaty to grant favors to American coastwise shipping, but on economic grounds he thought the favor should be withheld.

Mr. Stone added that the platform declaration for "free tolls" ought to cause no Democratic embarrassment, as that merely announced the Democratic position that the United States could do with the canal whatever she pleased. That was the significance of his vote for the exemption last year, he explained. But since then the discussion had centred largely on domestic and economic aspects of the question, and he had decided that the exemption was in effect a subsidy and to that extent unjustifiable.

Challenging many arguments made in favor of exemption by Speaker Champ Clark without mentioning the latter by name, the Senator expressed astonishment at "eminent members" of the House and Senate taking the "superficial view" of the Baltimore platform's pronouncement on tolls.

"No foreign Government is now asking us to repeal this law," he continued. "True it is that in the course of the debate it has been said that the exemption violates the Hay-Pauncefote treaty. But that is being said here in Congress and in American and foreign newspapers and not by foreign Governments. No foreign Government has filed any protest against the exemption since its enactment."

Having settled the international rights in the canal, Senator Stone said Congress was now proceeding to deal with the domestic question of subsidies; that coastwise vessels already enjoyed a monopoly, and that he had heard they were in league with the transcontinental railroads. In support of this charge he said he had been informed that coastwise ships refused to convey any passengers from Norfolk to any ports south of that city, such as Charleston, Savannah, or Jacksonville.

In support of his interpretation of the platform Senator Stone read the plank against all subsidies and another plank which approved the exemption of coastwise vessels. He said that the platform writers must have had in mind the subsidy plank when they wrote the tolls plank, and did not mean to write a contradictory platform.

"Surely no Democrat will contend that the convention intended to commit the Democratic Party to the policy of ship subsidies, and certainly not to make subsidies a fixed and permanent party policy," he said. "If we cannot now safely and consistently repeal the coastwise tolls provision of the act of 1912 because of what happened three years ago, or because of this platform declaration, then we have tied our hands as with a Gordian knot, and we will be powerless to rid ourselves of it unless we cleave it with a sword. If that be true, then we have reversed our historic position on the question of subsidies and become, in a twinkling of an eye, the boldest, most arrant, and uncompromising advocates of subsidies. I utterly repudiate the notion that the Democratic Party has placed itself in any such pitiable condition."

The Senator defended the President in favoring exemption repeal, saying he was not much disturbed by the "lurid flabbergast" daily displayed in papers hostile to the Administration.

IN PANIC OVER SUFFRAGE.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Smarting under a fire of criticism because of its failure to act, the House Judiciary Committee to-day voted to put squarely up to the membership of the House itself the responsibility for future legislative steps at the present session with reference to national prohibition and woman's suffrage. Joint resolutions calling for constitutional amendments on both subjects were reported without recommendation, this unusual course having been taken by the committee after proposals both to recommend favorably and unfavorably had been defeated.

The action has produced a situation that has set Congress trembling. Should a record vote be taken, which is not unlikely, many Representatives fear their public careers will be cut short, no matter which side they espouse.

It is the first time in history that a national prohibition question has seriously confronted either body of Congress, and it is twenty-four years since a woman suffrage constitutional amendment resolution has been reported to House or Senate. The event was celebrated to-night by the suffragists, who, with bands playing and colors flying, paraded up and down Pennsylvania Avenue and through other downtown thoroughfares.

Representative H. Garland Dupre of Louisiana, a Democratic member of the Judiciary Committee, refused absolutely to subscribe to the decision reached by the majority of the committee on the two resolutions. He said he had no objection to the resolutions being reported, so that the entire membership of the House could have an opportunity to pass upon them, but he questioned the wisdom and the courage of the majority of the committee, which, according to his opinion, had shifted responsibility by declining to make any recommendations.

"As I understand the functions of committees of this House," said he, "it is their duty to investigate and report upon matters of legislation which are referred to them, these reports with their recommendations to be of the nature of guides for other members. I do not think that the committee, in adopting the course it did, has met the requirements of the House or the country."

The prospects of a vote were discussed by members to-day. Little difficulty would be encountered in keeping the resolutions from going to a vote with the House following its regular order. The resolutions are not of a privileged character and therefore cannot be called up at pleasure. They must await their turn on the calendar unless it is decided to adopt a special rule for their consideration. At the present time a bill to recodify the laws relating to the judiciary is pending in the House as the regular order of business, and this may be kept on the calendar indefinitely, or until adjournment, as a buffer against the proposed legislation.

Chairman Henry of the Rules Committee has never displayed an especially friendly spirit to either of the new proposals, and he may refuse to call his committee together for the purpose of considering a special rule.

Representative Hobson, author of the national prohibition resolution, in a statement to-night promised that no record vote would be demanded in the House unless a tendency was apparent to "smother" the measure.

A NEW FARCE SEEN AT A DISADVANTAGE

ALBERT BROWN SHINES

But Hardly Redeems the Production of a Rosenfeld Play That Deserved Better Treatment.

THE CHARM OF ISABEL, a farce in three acts, by Sydney Rosenfeld. At Maxine Elliott's Theatre.

Isabel Truesdale	Marie Nordstrom
Caroline Leighton	Isabelle Evesson
Annette	Pauline Seymour
Henri Latour	Albert Brown
Frederick Clarkson	Harry Hilliard
Ephraim Morton	Ned A. Sparks
Eliza	Florence Gerald
John Morton	Felix Krembs
Molly	Julia Varney
Peter	William Carleton

Of the various feelings stirred by the performance of a new farce which was shown to the public for the first time at Maxine Elliott's Theatre last evening the most lingering one is a mild irritation. And this irritation is due to the fact that such capacities as the play has to amuse in this season of Springtime diversions are not half realized in the present production. The producer seems to have done his part with supreme indifference.

Among other troubles, here is a bad case of miscasting. Whatever actress of our stage Sydney Rosenfeld had in mind when he wrote "The Charm of Isabel," it was certainly not Marie Nordstrom, for in the principal rôle this experienced player is dismally out of her element. Miss Nordstrom may be most easily described as a character actress of ability. That ability will be remembered by all the many theatregoers who saw her as the loving Mrs. Jimmy Gilley in "Bought and Paid For," a play, by the way, which in no small degree owed its substantial success to the wisdom and care shown in selecting just the right players for the four leading parts.

Now Miss Nordstrom was capital in the Broadhurst work, but she is hardly the actress one would select to play a most captivating young widow, who at first sight disturbs to wildness an already excited Frenchman, and who, thereafter, with her tricks and her manners, brings dreadful confusion to a previously placid New England household of stiff-backed and horsehair severity. Isabel works her havoc almost, if not quite, unconsciously. She talks for a while with a hopeless invalid, and he, after six years of surrender, decides it is high time for him to be up and about once more. She casts a few bewitching glances upon a promising young divinity probationer. Straightway his eyes brighten, and he feels he must see something of places like Paris before committing himself to the ministry. The very context of the Rosenfeld farce insists that Isabel shall be a person both petite and provoking, that she shall be possessed of a piquant and bewildering charm.

A good many years ago, about the time when Rostand's "L'Aiglon" was new to this country, a story was gravely circulated to the effect that Mme. Bernhardt would join with Miss Adams in a presentation of "Romeo and Juliet." At that a writer of verses freed his mind of some amusing stanzas on the subject of miscasting, wherein, if memory serves, he speculated on the chances of seeing May Irwin as Hamlet and wound up always with the cheery refrain:

"When Sarah's playing Romeo to Maudie's Juliet."

The present case is hardly so bad as all that, but surely the season has brought us few more conspicuous cases of the occasional recklessness which seizes those whose business it is to cast the parts for the productions along Broadway. An untraceable rumor has it that Mr. Rosenfeld had Grace George in mind when he wrote his farce, which is quite credible, although it must be said that an actress of such rare gifts deserves at all times a play of a higher quality than "The Charm of Isabel." In the same spirit, however, Mr. Rosenfeld's farce, while by no means brilliant, is bright and amusing enough to have deserved a more careful production—a better start in its fight for life. To have assigned the rôle of Isabel to Marie Nordstrom was no fairer to Mr. Rosenfeld than it was to Marie Nordstrom.

Isabel's charm, as the programme parenthetically explains, was that "she couldn't say no." When all the circumstances point clearly to the need of a firm negative, Isabel temporizes. She temporizes when an impressionable Frenchman follows her into her bedroom in a Parisian hotel. She evades further discussion by fleeing to America, where she cures an invalid with the very hopefulness born of her reluctance to phrase her answer to his suit. One suspects, however, that she never will get around to saying no to the young probationer.

All this is told at a smart pace, and in not a few stretches there is seen the handiwork of a man of long experience in the art of entertaining. But, as may be surmised, the farce revolves about the person of Isabel, and that accounts for the emphasis given to the protest against its present playing. Less need be said about the others, for, with one notable exception and a few minor ones, the remaining parts are not in skillful hands. And as for the setting, that is generally in keeping with the production.

It is careless in detail, and the room used for the second and third acts is either the one that was used in "Little Women," or amazingly like it. Altogether, "The Charm of Isabel" seems to have been flung on to the stage. According to the programme, it is presented by William A. Brady, Limited. Certainly as a production it adds to no honor score, and it is difficult to believe that it was ever intended to do so.

The one notable exception mentioned referred to the work of Albert Brown. Of this it is possible to speak with unreserved enthusiasm. He is the ardent Frenchman who, as Isabel laments, has a strong possessive case. He not only will not budge out of the Morton home in Salem. He swears he will "budge all over the house" until he finds the retreating lady of his affections. He is the same Frenchman who has popped unaccountably into so many American farces. But, for once, in a way he is genuinely and continuously funny, thanks to the brilliant performance by Mr. Brown.

Walter Damrosch Returns.

Walter Damrosch, conductor of the New York Symphony Orchestra, arrived yesterday on the Kronprinz Wilhelm with Mrs. Damrosch. The conductor had been abroad for his annual trip, looking over the musical happenings on the Continent, and hearing novelties for possible performance by his orchestra. He spent two weeks in Paris before sailing.

ROOSEVELT TO WED JUNE 11

Plans for Kermit's Marriage in Madrid to Our Envoy's Daughter.

MADRID, May 5.—The wedding of Kermit Roosevelt and Miss Belle Wyatt Willard, daughter of Col. J. E. Willard, American Ambassador to Spain, has been fixed to take place at noon on June 11 in the British Embassy Chapel here.

The ceremony is to be performed by the Rev. Dr. Samuel Watson, rector of the American Church of the Holy Trinity at Paris, assisted by the Rev. Herbert Brown of the British Chapel in Madrid.

The maid of honor is to be the bride's sister Elizabeth, and the bridesmaids will be Princess Thurn and Taxis, Katherine Page, daughter of Walter Hines Page, the American Ambasador in London; Gilone le Veneur de Tillières of Paris, and Virginia Christian of Virginia.

As this will be the first occasion in many years that a member of the family of a foreign diplomat has been married in Madrid, the wedding is arousing the greatest interest.

GIFTS FOR ELEANOR WILSON.

Five of Secretary McAdoo's Children to Attend Wedding To-morrow.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Among the several gifts received by Miss Eleanor Wilson to-day were the silver service presented by the members of the House of Representatives and a silver tray and twelve service plates from Mr. McAdoo's associates of the Cabinet. There were also a number of smaller gifts from friends. Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie are reported as having sent a complete dinner service of silver, such as they sent to Miss Jessie Wilson on the occasion of her marriage.

The intended gift from the members of the Senate had not been decided upon late this afternoon. Senator Martine of New Jersey, who heads the committee intrusted with the purchase of this present, has been making a tour of Washington jewelers with a view to selecting a bracelet or corsage ornament rather than the silver at first suggested.

The fact of no cards of invitation being issued, and the official character of the bride and bridegroom being entirely eliminated, has been a great disappointment to the Washington shopkeepers. The jewelers and silversmiths laid in special stocks, as did art dealers, curio shops and the dealers in high-class furniture, both modern and antique.

Wedded to Dr. Phineas H. Adams in Floral Bower at Her Mother's Home.

The wedding of Dr. Phineas Hillhouse Adams, a son of Mrs. Walter Wood Adams, and Miss Marguerite La Wall Janvrin, the daughter of the late Dr. Joseph E. Janvrin and Mrs. Laura La Wall Janvrin, took place quietly yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, 515 Park Avenue. The ceremony took place in a bower of marguerites and greens, the bride approaching through a ribboned aisle. Marguerites and other Spring flowers decorated the apartment, and the Rev. Samuel M. Dorance of Central Falls, N. Y., officiated.

The bride wore a white satin gown having a court train. It was draped with tulle, the bodice and short sleeves being also of tulle and pearls, and the tulle veil that fell to the end of the train was bordered in pearls and held with orange blossoms. Her bouquet was lilies of the valley and gardenias. She had no attendants, and walked with her brother, Dr. Edmund R. Janvrin, who gave her in marriage.

Dr. Adams's best man was Henry Vaughan Blaxter. There were no ushers. None except relatives and a very few intimate friends was invited to the ceremony, and the small reception following. Those asked included Mrs. Walter Wood Adams, Mrs. Hillhouse and Miss Hillhouse, Mrs. Thomas Hillhouse, Mrs. Phineas Hillhouse, Mrs. Henry W. Scott, Mrs. Henry La Wall, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bogert, Dr. William B. Anderton and Mrs. Anderton, Mr. and Mrs. George Forsyth, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Livingston Burrill, Mr. and Mrs. William Allen, Dr. Arthur Swann and Mrs. Swann, Mrs. Philip F. Nash, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Roberts, and the Misses Gladys Robbins, Clarissa Pearson, Marjorie Smylie, and Adelaide Gardner.

On their return from their honeymoon trip in a few weeks Dr. Adams and his bride will live in New York.

Married to George Smith Hendrickson at Her Home in Jamaica, L. I.

The wedding of Miss Harriet E. Kouwenhoven, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter W. Kouwenhoven, and George Smith Hendrickson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Van Siclen Hendrickson, was celebrated last evening at the home of the bride's parents, 74 Clinton Avenue, Jamaica, L. I. The Rev. Robert Kerr Wick, pastor of the First Dutch Reformed Church of Jamaica, officiated. A large reception followed the ceremony.

The bride wore a gown of white charmeuse with a Court train, draped with rose point and duchess lace and a veil of tulle. Her only ornament was a diamond plaque, the gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Harry W. Kouwenhoven was matron of honor, Miss Sarah Vanderveer was maid of honor, and the Misses Margaret Monfort and Mabel L. Ryerson were bridesmaids. Mildred Hendrickson, a sister of the bridegroom, acted as flower girl.

The matron of honor was in white lace over pale pink chiffon, and the maid of honor wore pale blue taffeta with silver lace. The bridesmaids were in pink and white, and the flower girl wore a frock of pink satin and chiffon.

Warren J. Hendrickson was best man for his brother, and the ushers were Harry W. Kouwenhoven, James V. Van Siclen, Peter Remsen, and John B. Hausman.

Many descendants of the early Dutch settlers on Long Island were among the guests. The bridegroom was graduated from Cornell, class of 1911.

WED AT FLORAL ALTAR.

Francis A. Martin and Miss Mary K. Turner Married—Attendants.

The marriage of Francis A. Martin of Plainfield, N. J., and Miss Mary Keech Turner of Charles County, Md., was held at 4 P. M. yesterday at the residence of the bride's uncle, Frank B. Keech, 12 West Fifty-second Street, which was decorated with Spring flowers, palms, and ferns. The ceremony took place at a temporary altar of white flowers, and the Rev. Mr. Southoron of Baltimore officiated.

The bride, who walked with her uncle, Mr. Keech, who gave her in marriage, wore a white satin gown draped with Duchess lace and a tulle veil held in place with orange blossoms, and carried lilies of the valley. Mrs. Frank Knowles, the matron of honor, wore a pale pink taffeta frock with a blue satin girdle. The bridesmaids, the Misses May Owens, Janetta Lee, and Caroline Martin, wore frocks of ecrue lace and pink taffeta topped by leghorn hats decorated with pink roses and blue ribbons, and carried pink flowers.

The flower girl was Miss Edith Bushnell, who was in a white frock, with touches of pink, and carried a basket of pink sweet peas.

Mr. Martin's best man was his brother, John T. Martin, and the ushers were Alan Turner, Howard Bushnell, Ralph Hallock, and Dr. Frank C. Knowles of Philadelphia. A small reception followed the ceremony.

Otis-Wardwell Wedding on May 14.

The wedding of Miss Alice Dix Wardwell, a daughter of Henry L. Wardwell, and Harold Otis, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harrison Otis, will take place on Thursday, May 14, in the Church of the Holy Communion. The Rev. Dr. Henry Mottet, rector of the church, will officiate. Miss Wardwell will have no attendants. Mr. Otis will have Lansing P. Read as his best man. There will be no ushers, and only the families will be present. The engagement was announced on Dec. 1 last.

From the cleverly arranged programme to the fall over a piece of scenery which the author took after making a curtain speech, "Leap Year Land," seen last night at Wallack's Theatre, was the most pretentious amateur performance given in New York in many years. As a matter of fact, the comic opera in two acts, which was written by Kenneth S. Webb, with the music by his brother, Roy Webb, ranked considerably above several of the musical productions which had been offered this season by professionals, and added further to the fame of the two Columbia boys as writers and producers.

The scenes of "Leap Year Land" are laid in Anglesia and Franconia, two countries on an island in the South Atlantic, where the women have always ruled. The island is surrounded by reefs, and, therefore, practically unapproachable from the outside world. When the play begins the men have formed a "Votes for Men" society, and the leaders are Reginald, Marius, Lord Victor, and Ambrose, the High Priest of the Sun. Opposed to them is Lizzie, the Mayor of the Anglesian capital, who was blown ashore in a wreck fifteen years before, but who had refused to tell about the outside world. She announces that Wilhelmina, the pretty little Queen of Anglesia, sweetly played by Alice Randolph, with Winifred, the Regent, Capt. Theodora, and Lieut. Phillipa, is returning victorious over Asta, Queen of Franconia, who has kidnapped Prince Ethelbert of Anglesia, with whom she is in love.

A storm comes up, and John Smith, played by Kenneth Webb, an American aeronaut, who has been sailing over the Mexican Army, is blown to the island. At the same time Pat Smith, a sea Captain and husband of Mayor Lizzie, is washed ashore from a wreck. John Smith falls in love with Queen Wilhelmina, who also loves him, but is mistaken for the husband of the Mayor and is driven away. In the end, of course, everything comes out all right, and the men win their right to vote and eventually rule the island.

There was a large chorus of pretty girls, and the costuming and scenic effects were excellent. The theatre was crowded with friends of the performers, and the proceeds of the performance will be given to charity.

MISS ARDEN RESIGNS.

Fire Prevention Inspector Objects to the Way the Bureau is Run.

Miss Juliette Arden, who was appointed an Inspector of the Bureau of Fire Prevention by Commissioner Adamson on Feb. 1 after she had frequently appealed by letter and in person to Mayor Gaynor and ex-Commissioner Johnson for the appointment, resigned her place last night. She wrote to both Commissioner Adamson and Mayor Mitchel, giving the reasons for her resignation.

Miss Arden was indignant last night with Commissioner Adamson, Chief Hammitt of the Bureau of Fire Prevention, and Chief Inspector Rosenbloom, her immediate superior. She charged that Commissioner Adamson was indifferent to the work of the Fire Prevention Bureau, that Chief Hammitt attempted to trick her by use of a dictograph and was rude to her, and that Chief Inspector Rosenbloom was inefficient. Miss Arden also hinted at graft in the Bureau, but she was not prepared to make any definite allegations on this subject.

Her troubles in the bureau started, she said, when she tried to place matters of importance before the Commissioner. After writing him several times, according to her story, she went to see him, but could not interest him. Later, she said, Chief Hammitt instructed her not to appeal to the Commissioner over the head of Chief Inspector Rosenbloom. It was when giving these instructions that Chief Hammitt had a dictograph concealed in his office, Miss Arden asserted.

J. D. PRINCE, JR., MISSING.

Girl Who Was His Fellow-Clerk Is Sought by Mother.

The simultaneous disappearance of John Dyneley Prince, Jr., son of ex-State Senator John D. Prince of Passaic, N. J., and Miss Beatrice Naylor, 18 years old, of 58 Weequahic Avenue, Newark, is worrying their relatives. Both resigned their positions in the Prudential Insurance Company on April 27, and neither has been at home since.

Mrs. Anna Vanderhoef, mother of the girl, has received two letters from her. One, postmarked New York, she received last Wednesday, and another, postmarked Boston, on Saturday. In one of the letters Miss Naylor begged forgiveness for her sudden departure, and asked her mother not to give credence to any stories she might hear about her.

Prince, who is 23 years old, met Miss Naylor last November. Their friendship had been noticed by the manager of the department in which they were employed, and about four days before they resigned he warned them to pay less attention to each other and more to business.

Soon after young Prince left Columbia University, where his father is Professor of Semitic Languages, he was married, and during his honeymoon in Europe became estranged from his bride and returned to this country alone.

Ex-Senator Prince is at his country home at Sterlington, Rockland County, N. Y. In reply to a query as to his son's whereabouts he said he was of the belief the young man was in Canada on a short trip.

Singers in "Scenes from Operas."

Miss Donna Easley, daughter of Ralph M. Easley, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the National Civic Federation, is to appear with other artists at the Century Lyceum on Tuesday, May 12 in "Scenes from Operas," which Mme. Anna E. Ziegler, Secretary of the National Society for the Promotion of Grand Opera in English, will offer. The singers are to appear in costume with scenic effects, and have the support of a large orchestra.

Obituary Notes.

JOSEPH JOHN FRIEL, one of the oldest pawnbrokers in Brooklyn, died yesterday at his residence, 699 Willoughby Avenue, from pneumonia. Mr. Friel was 60 years old. He started in the pawn brokerage business in Grand Street in 1870, and at his death he was the proprietor of two stores. He was a Director of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, a member of the Board of Governors of the Iroquois Democratic Club of the Fourth Assembly District and a member of the Knights of Columbus and the Church of St. John the Baptist.

"BARNEY" KNOBLOCH, for the last twenty-nine years floor manager of Stauch's Pavilion in Coney Island, and one of the best-known men at that resort, died in the Polyclinic Hospital in this city yesterday morning after an operation for cancer of the tongue. Mr. Knobloch was born 51 years ago in Austria, and was in the dry goods business before going to Stauch's. The annual ball of the Barney Knobloch Association, which was to be held to-morrow night at Stauch's Pavilion, has been postponed, and instead funeral services will be held at his home, 5 Kister Court, Coney Island.

ADDIE LANDRAM McFARLAND, 57 years old, wife of Capt. W. C. McFarland, U. S. Army, retired, died yesterday at her home, 34 Gramercy Park. Mrs. McFarland was born in Lancaster, Ky., and was the daughter of Gen. W. J. Landram. Gen. Landram was a Colonel in the Kentucky Volunteers during the Mexican War and a General in the Federal Army during the civil war. Miss Landram married in 1873, when her husband was a Lieutenant. Besides her husband she is survived by a son, Dr. W. Landram McFarland.

EX-JUDGE DILLON, NOTED LAWYER, DIES

Leading Authority on Municipal Corporations Victim of Grip in His 83d Year.

Ex-Judge John Forrest Dillon, member of the law firm of Dillon, Thomson & Clay, 115 Broadway, at one time Professor of Real Estate and Equity Jurisprudence of Columbia University, subsequently Storrs Professor at Yale, and recognized the country over as the leading authority on the subject of municipal corporations, died after a month's illness of the grip yesterday at the home of his daughter-in-law, Mrs. John M. Dillon, 1 West Seventy-second Street. Ex-Judge Dillon was in his eighty-third year, and had been in failing health for six months. However, he was able to attend to his professional duties until his final illness.

Ex-Judge Dillon was a member of the commission appointed by act of the Legislature to prepare the charter for the Greater City of New York, which went into effect Jan. 1, 1898. His achievement on which he perhaps most prided himself was the compilation of the well-known legal treatise, "Municipal Corporations," which has reached its fifth edition. That work occupied him for six years in the course of which he examined one by one thousands of the law reports, beginning with Volume I, State of Maine, and continuing in like manner through the reports of successive States to date.

The latter part of Ex-Judge Dillon's life was clouded by a tragedy of the sea, the loss of the ship Bourgogne, on July 4, 1898, in which his wife, Mrs. Anna Price Dillon, and his daughter, Mrs. Oliver, both perished. At the time of the accident Mr. Dillon was confined to his bed with a broken leg at his country home at Far Hills, N. J. Three weeks after the loss of the vessel, the Captain of a steamship that put into Philadelphia reported that he had seen hundreds of the 500 victims of the Bourgogne floating in the Atlantic. George S. Clay, partner of Mr. Dillon, with whom he had been associated for twenty-seven years, went at the instance of the latter to Halifax, chartered a steamer and for ten days made a fruitless search for the bodies of ex-Judge Dillon's wife and daughter.

John Forrest Dillon was born on Christmas Day, 1831, in Montgomery County, N. Y., the son of Thomas and Rosanna Dillon. When he was seven years old his parents removed to Iowa, settling at Davenport, where John Forrest as a youth began the education of himself. He began the study of medicine when seventeen years old, and after attending several courses of lectures was graduated with the degree of M. D. He went to Farmington, Iowa, where he soon met a young lawyer named Howe. He did not make much progress with his chosen profession, and this he confided to his friend.

"Howe, I have made a great mistake. I cannot practice medicine in this country without being able to ride a horse, and this I am utterly unable to do. I might as well admit the mistake, and turn my mind to something else. I shall read law. Tell me what is the first book that a student of the law requires."

The proper books were recommended to the young doctor by his friend Howe, and he worked at them faithfully, with the result that he won his admission to the bar of Scott County shortly thereafter, having never entered a law office or a law school. Soon after he was admitted to the bar he was elected Prosecuting Attorney of Scott County in 1852. In 1858, at the age of twenty-seven, he was elected Judge of the Seventh Judicial District Court of Iowa. Subsequently he became Justice of the Supreme Court of that State, and was Chief Justice of that court until 1869, when President Grant appointed him Judge of the United States Circuit Court for the Eighth Judicial Circuit, comprising the States of Arkansas, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Iowa, and Minnesota.

After a decade of distinguished service on the Federal bench, Mr. Dillon tendered his resignation in the Fall of 1879 in order that he might accept a professorship at Columbia University. Straightway he removed to New York. The bar of every State embraced in his circuit took prompt action through meetings, resolutions, addresses, and other testimonials to show their personal affection and appreciation of the retiring Judge.

At the time that ex-Judge Dillon came to New York his uncle, Sidney Dillon, was President of the Union Pacific Railroad, and soon after assuming the duties of a professor at Columbia ex-Judge Dillon was retained as general solicitor for that railroad. Later he became counsel for the company, and was still its legal representative when it was put into a receivership in 1893, and even until after its reorganization. In succession he became counsel for the Missouri Pacific Railroad and the Texas Pacific Railroad. He was counsel for the Goulds in the whole Gould railroad system, and until his death was counsel for the estate of Jay Gould.

Ex-Judge Dillon had argued successfully hundreds of cases affecting interests public and private in every part of the country. In the discussion of a legal question he would say: "I decided that point when I was on the bench," whereupon he would send for a volume of his Circuit Court reports and quickly turn to the particular case, establishing a precedent.

He started his first important literary undertaking, "Municipal Corporations," in the sixties, when he was a Justice of the Supreme Court.

Ex-Judge Dillon was chosen Storrs Professor at Yale in 1891, and remained in that chair until 1892. His literary work was not confined to the writing of opinions and briefs, because he had carefully prepared many notable addresses delivered before the bar associations all over the country. This collection includes:

"The Inns of Court and Westminster Hall," "Iowa's Contribution to the Constitutional Jurisprudence of the United States," "Chancellor Kent, His Career and Labors," "Law Reports and Law Reporting," "Bentham and His School of Jurisprudence," and "Our Law: Its Essential Nature, Ethical Foundations, and Relations."

In 1891 ex-Judge Dillon was elected President of the American Bar Association, his term of office expiring in 1892, and to mark his sense of the value and usefulness of that organization, as the accredited representative of the bar of the United States, he dedicated the fifth and last edition of his "Municipal Corporations" to that body.

Ex-Judge Dillon is survived by a son, Hiram P. Dillon, a lawyer of Topeka, Kan., who had been at his father's bedside for two weeks; his daughter-in-law, Mrs. John M. Dillon, and three grandchildren, John M. Dillon, Jr., Milton Sands Dillon, and Dorothy Downing Dillon.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

There was scant supply yesterday of news bearing directly on matters of import to the stock market. The trading on the Exchange was in somewhat lighter volume, and the movement of prices reflected the letting down of quotations which is so apt to follow such a substantial rise as that which has taken place during the last ten days. In no quarter was the reaction rapid, and the average net loss for the day was small. No appeal had to be made to extraneous influences to explain this moderate setback, nor was it even necessary to assume that bearish pressure was again being exerted against the market. As a matter of fact while the recent forward movement has naturally increased the disposition among certain traders to dispute any further advance market sentiment as a whole remains cheerful. It must be borne in mind, too, that the sharp upturn had been preceded by a severe decline, and on recovery which has since taken place nothing more has happened than a readjustment of the market to the conditions which prevailed prior to the time when the Mexican situation assumed acute form.

What is more significant than the day to day run of news at the moment is the changed and changing disposition of many in the banking community. Each day recently has added to the number of bankers who, looking beyond the immediate trade situation, find ground for increased hopefulness regarding the outlook. Very much significance is attached to the appointments which the President has made to the Federal Reserve Board. The full list was made public in the morning's dispatches from Washington, although the reported declination of Mr. Olney still left one place on the board to be filled. It was felt that the character of the appointments made by the President showed very clearly a recognition of the need of sympathetic handling of the broad questions of business and finance with which Government comes into direct contact.

Financial sentiment has for some time been adversely affected by manifestations of antagonism between Government and business, and this has probably been more potent than any other one influence in causing the discouragement which from time to time has found expression in financial circles. This discouragement is lessening, and this fact may be taken as symptomatic of a change which may very well prove of great ultimate importance. Such a change does not directly solve any of the problems with which business or fiance may be confronted, but it enheartens those dealing with these problems and creates a view point which increases the willingness to profit by the opportunities which may present themselves from day to day.

The Mexican situation is still being viewed calmly notwithstanding the insistence in some quarters that a peaceful solution of the problem is impossible. The financial community has all along recognized that a happy solution was difficult, but it is no more inclined now than it was at the outset of mediation to assume that efforts in the direction of a peaceful settlement of the points directly at issue are futile. There was but very casual interest in the continued competition abroad for gold. Paris on this occasion was successful in taking most of the $3,750,000 laid down in London. Even the prospect of further engagements here for shipment to France arouses but very little interest at the moment in view of the undisturbed ease of money rates. Moreover, it is recognized that if the movement is to be confined to gold bars as it has been throughout the shipments which have occurred this year the exports will be kept within very narrow limits. A new issue of Lake Shore notes which have been placed abroad was announced yesterday. One item of financing for an organization which has not heretofore appealed to the general capital market aroused interest as suggesting more disposition on the part of bankers to take up transactions of this kind.

Northern Pacific.

Holders of Northern Pacific shares grew nervous yesterday over a report, originating no one knows where, that the company's Directors have been figuring on a new stock offering to be put out at par. Financing through stock issues has been practiced by the Hill roads with a good deal of success, but Chairman Clough denied yesterday that the Northern Pacific had any plans for increasing its present respectable total. The report made Northern Pacific appear particularly weak in the morning trading, when it sold from 111½ down to 109⅝. It rallied a point before the close, but had a net loss of ⅞. It is expected that the road will do some financing as soon as conditions are favorable, but the amount mentioned has been relatively small, and the new money probably will be raised by a bond sale. The last stock offering by the Northern Pacific was a large one, $93,000,000 being taken up by shareholders in 1907.

The Value of Speculation.

Legislators and others, after a cursory study of Stock Exchange transactions, have reached the startling conclusion that if reduced to strictly investment transactions there would not be business enough to support the present organization. Friends of the Exchange cheerfully conceded it. The total volume of the buying and selling of shares held for their investment return probably is small in normal times. The buying is small at all times, but in times of threatened crisis the selling by investors becomes considerable. In that, say friends of the Exchange, lies one of the useful functions of speculation, for the purchases by traders serve to check the declines and supply an outlet for the sellers. If dealings were limited to the actual investment business a cut in an investment issue's dividend might bring in 100 selling orders and not a buying order. Under present conditions there are always buyers and sellers for anything listed on the Exchange, although the margin between the bid and offer may be large in extremely inactive issues.

When a broker was asked yesterday what effect the prohibition of speculation would have on the market he recited a recent experience. A customer gave to this broker an order to sell 300 shares of Canadian Pacific in an inactive market. There had been no sales of the issue, and the specialist quoted it 185 bid, 190 asked. The bid came from Berlin, the offer to sell from Montreal. Having plenty of time, and being desirous of getting as good a price as possible for his client, the broker started around the room to work up a little interest in Canadian Pacific. An arbitrage man raised the offer to 187, and made the asked price 189. A well known speculator narrowed the market further by quoting 188—189. Another broker thereupon bid 188⅛ and offered to sell at 188⅞. The 300 shares finally were sold at 188¼ to a man who had no idea of buying Canadian Pacific, a month before, but who was willing to take a block on which he saw an opportunity for a profit. The customer received $975 more than he would have obtained had the broker been compelled to take the only buying order that happened to be in the market when he wanted to sell.

The Test of a Rainy Day.

When the rain fell hardest in Broad Street yesterday, the Curb brokers followed their usual custom of carrying their business into the shelter of neighboring doorways, with the exception of the men handling Standard Oil stocks. Trading was so lively in oil shares and prices were inclined to turn downward so rapidly that all brokers in them stayed in the crowd for fear something would be missed. At times the Street was deserted save at the spot where the oil share dealers surged back and forth in their raincoats. The inclement weather worked to bring about a consummation that the Curb authorities have hoped for during several weeks. It concentrated trading to a degree that made it easy for the reporters of transactions to obtain a record of all sales made. The Curb authorities desire to have dealings in the Standard Oil group taken care of at a single spot, and the test of a rainy day showed that such action is possible.

Making the Farmer Nervous.

In the Middle West the farmers are reported to steadily be growing unfriendly to the tariff that lets corn in free. This grain has been especially affected by shipments from over seas, and news that importations from the Argentine are steadily increasing is disturbing to domestic producers. The ability of the manufacturers of starch and other products of corn to get raw material laid down on the Atlantic Coast from South America at prices from 2 to 4 cents a bushel under current quotations in Chicago gives the farmer something to think about. Nervousness in the corn belt recently has been increased by talk, which is rather vague but persistent, that corn from the Argentine may be delivered soon in Chicago itself at a profit.

Election Calmly Considered.

Stock Exchange members are viewing calmly the coming election of officers, although there will be two tickets in the field. The ballots will be cast next Monday, and there is a sharp division of opinion about some of the candidates which gives promise of a close contest. So far, however, electioneering has been quietly conducted and has consisted chiefly in the advice of one member to another whose opinions do not coincide with his to "think things over." There is still time for the strenuous buttonholing of pre-election endeavors of other years, but the rank and file of the membership do not expect it. It is realized that the Nominating Committee spent a great deal of time and thought on its candidates, and that a hullabaloo about any of their selections is not called for and could not be justified. Popularity will be secondary to personal ideas of the fitness of candidates when the members cast their votes, board leaders say.

Banks Wait for Dearer Money.

The continued ease of money evidently has not stirred a number of banks from the opinion arrived at several weeks ago that interest rates soon would begin to advance. Commercial paper brokers say that a number of institutions are content to keep their funds on deposit at 2½ per cent. rather than buy bills on a 3½ per cent. basis. They are unwilling to buy commercial paper under a 4 per cent. discount rate.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

Price of Gold Highest Since 1909 — London Stock Market Depressed.

LONDON, May 5.—Money was plentiful and discount rates were firm to-day.

Paris obtained most of the $3,750,000 new gold offered in the open market. There was keen competition for the metal, and the price was advanced ⅝d. to 77s. 9½d. per ounce, the highest since 1909.

The Budget statement proposing an increased income tax and a raid on the sinking fund displeased the stock market and gilt-edged securities declined at the opening. Later consols regained a part of the loss, but the other sections were quiet and easy, and Paris continued to sell its favorites. Mexican rails were weak on poor monthly statements, but Canadians had a better tone.

PARIS, May 5.—Prices opened heavy, but closed steady on the Bourse to-day. Three per cent. rentes, 86 francs 82½ centimes for the account.

BERLIN, May 5.—Prices closed higher after an irregular opening on the Boerse to-day.

FARM BANKERS TO ORGANIZE

Expect to Form a National Association at Meeting Here.

Delegates from all parts of the country, representing firms, corporations, and financial institutions dealing in farm mortgages, will begin to-morrow at the Hotel Astor a two-day meeting, at which it is proposed to organize the Farm Mortgage Bankers' Association of America. About seventy-five delegates are expected to be present. A constitution and by-laws will be adopted, officers elected, and standing committees appointed.

It has been the aim of the Organization Committee, of which Kingman N. Robins of Rochester is Chairman, and W. D. Hord of this city, Secretary, to organize on lines similar to those of the Investment Bankers' Association.

METAL MARKET REPORTS.

At the Metal Exchange yesterday copper was unchanged. Tin was down ⅝c, 25 tons of June sold at 33.20 and 25 tons of July at 33.35. Closing prices for copper and other metals were:

Copper—	Bid.	Asked.		Bid.	Asked.
Spot	13.40	14.00	Spelter	5.00	5.10
May	13.40	14.00	Lead	3.85	3.95
June	13.00	14.00	Antimony	7.15	7.25
			Tin	33.05	33.15

London copper market yesterday was weak, spot declined 1s 3d, to £63 7s 6d, but futures was unchanged at £63 13s 9d. Recession of £3 was registered in tin for both spot and futures, closing at £150 10s and £152 10s, respectively. Spanish pig lead, £18 5s, unchanged. Spelter, £21 7s 6d, unchanged. Cleveland warrants, 51s 4½d, unchanged.

Clears Way for New Banking Law.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 5.—In putting the new Van Tuyl banking law into effect the State Controller is empowered to transfer and the State Superintendent of Banks to receive upon the bankers' request the securities deposited with the Controller by private bankers under the old law. This ruling has been made by Attorney General Carmody, who also holds that a court order to first restore the securities to the banker is not necessary. It is within the discretion of the Controller, however, to demand evidence of the banker's intention and desire before making the transfer.

Roads Lose and Win in Mississippi.

JACKSON, Miss., May 5.—An increase by the Mississippi Railroad Commission in the assessment of the Illinois Central Railroad of $3,600,000 and of that of the Yazoo & Mississippi Valley Railroad of $1,800,000 in Mississippi for 1913 will stand, according to a decision of Judges Niles, Grubb, and Shelby, sitting in the United States District Court here, yesterday. In the same decision the Judges held as unconstitutional the privilege tax of $25 a mile assessed against the two roads.

Importer Held on Customs Charge.

Julius Ladenburger, a lace importer, of 111 Fifth Avenue, was arraigned yesterday before Judge Hand, in the Federal District Court on an indictment charging him with using the parcel post to defraud the Government of customs duties on laces made in Belgium. Six specific irregular importations have been charged against him amounting in the aggregate to $140. He was held in $2,000 bail for trial.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Proposals are being received by the Bankers Trust Company for the sale to it on June 5 of first mortgage 5 per cent. sinking fund gold bonds of the Hocking Valley Products Company to exhaust a sinking fund of $25,000. The Bankers Trust Company is also calling for redemption on July 1 of thirty of the serial bonds of the Rogers-Brown Iron Company, at 102½ and interest.

Produce Exchange members will meet on Friday to discuss the advisability of appointing a committee to meet a special committee of the Consolidated Exchange for a discussion of matters of mutual interest. The movement is designed to bring about closer relations, but does not contemplate a union of the two Exchanges.

BANKERS HIS GUESTS.

Lawrence L. Gillespie Entertains Them at Luncheon.

Lawrence L. Gillespie gave a luncheon yesterday at his residence, 11 East Eighty-ninth Street, for the officers and members of the Executive Committee of the Trust Company Section of the American Bankers Association. Among those present were:

F. H. Goff, President Cleveland Trust Company; Ralph W. Cutler, President Hartford Trust Company; John H. Mason, Vice President Commercial Trust Company of Philadelphia; Oliver C. Fuller, President Wisconsin Trust Company, Milwaukee; Lynn H. Dinkins, President Interstate Trust and Banking Company, New Orleans; Herbert A. Rhoades, President Dorchester Trust Company, Boston; M. H. Grape, Vice President Continental Trust Company, Baltimore; Fred E. Farnsworth, General Secretary American Bankers Association; P. S. Babcock, Secretary Trust Company Section; James Quinlan, President Greenwich Savings Bank; Edwin Chamberlain, Vice President San Antonio Loan and Trust Company; Leroy Baldwin, President of the Empire Trust Company; Arthur K. Wood, President of the Franklin Trust Company; George T. Wilson, Vice President of the Equitable; Charles Hayden, Edward C. Delafield, John H. Iselin, Charles M. MacNeill, and Frederick H. Baldwin.

$17,000,000 IN NEW STOCK.

National Cloak & Suit Co. to Increase Its Capital by That Amount.

The National Cloak and Suit Company will shortly increase its capital through the authorization of $5,000,000 new 7 per cent. preferred and $12,000,000 common stock. The company has specialized since its formation in 1888 in women's apparel, but the management intends now to take up the manufacture and sale of men's garments as well. The gross business handled last year was reported to be in excess of $13,000,000.

With the funds derived from the sale of stock the company will put up buildings on Seventh Avenue and centralize its business, which is now conducted in establishments scattered throughout the city. The new securities will be financed, it is understood, by Goldman, Sachs & Co. and Lehman Brothers of this city and Kleinwort Sons & Co. of London.

UTAH COPPER EARNINGS UP.

Chino Company Also Shows Better First Quarter Than in 1913.

The Utah Copper Company reports net profits from mill operations in the first quarter of 1914 of $1,553,899, as compared with $1,110,346 in the same period last year. After meeting charges and paying dividends, a surplus of $775,634 was left, against $348,785 in 1913. The earnings were computed on the basis of a selling price of 14.40 cents a pound for copper.

The Chino Copper Company, another of the porphyry group, had a net revenue in the quarter of $1,177,740, against $778,804 in the period in 1913. The surplus after dividends was $590,367, a decline of $217,456. The selling price was 14.427 cents. The decline of surplus, while net earnings showed an increase, was brought about by the payment of dividends, whereas none were paid in the first quarter last year.

LAKE SHORE ISSUES NOTES.

Sells $20,000,000 in London and Paris to Meet Others Falling Due.

Surprise was occasioned in banking circles yesterday by news from London of the sale in that market and in Paris of $20,000,000 one-year notes of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway. It had been understood that the Lake Shore's cash requirements for the current year were all provided for.

The new notes bear no interest, but were sold at a discount to make the money cost about 4½ per cent. The proceeds will be used to pay off $10,000,000 in notes which mature on May 15 and to reimburse the treasury for cash used in meeting earlier maturities of the year and in various outlays for improvements.

NOT CONTROLLED BY BANK.

The Broadway Trust Company Is Independent, Says President Lee.

Frederic G. Lee, President of the Broadway Trust Company, said yesterday in regard to published statements that the control of the Broadway Trust Company had been purchased last year by the Irving National Bank:

"It should be remembered that a National Bank cannot control any other financial institution. The Broadway Trust Company is an independent bank, organized under the laws of New York State, and the control of it rests with its stockholders. A National Bank cannot own stock in any corporation."

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Prices on the Consolidated Stock Exchange showed a tendency toward reaction from the opening of business at 9:30 o'clock. There was a rally, quite sharp for some of the active stocks, in the early afternoon, but the recovery was not maintained. The pressure of selling, however, was not urgent, much of it representing realizing sales to secure profits. Missouri Pacific attracted special attention because of its fluctuations. Sales of all stocks for the day totaled 32,780 shares. Of Reading 10,520 shares were dealt in. Steel sold to the amount of 7,320 shares, and Union Pacific's total was 3,860 shares.

The Railroad Company having made default in the payment of the interest due May 1, 1914, on the above bonds, it is imperative that bondholders should immediately unite for the protection of their interests. Bondholders who have not already done so should deposit their bonds at once with the Depositary, CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, at its office, No. 54 Wall Street, or at its branch office, Madison Avenue and 42d Street, New York City, under the agreement dated February 26, 1914. Copies of said agreement may be obtained from the Depositary or from the Secretary of the Committee. Bonds in coupon form must be accompanied by the coupon maturing May 1, 1914. Bonds in registered form and registered coupon bonds must be accompanied by transfers executed by the registered owner or his attorney duly authorized. Certificates of deposit will be issued by the Depositary for all bonds deposited, and in due course application will be made for listing such certificates of Deposit on the New York Stock Exchange.

The protective agreement permits the deposit thereunder of such of the stock of THE CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY COMPANY as is not pledged under the trust agreement securing the Collateral Trust Bonds, and holders of said stock are requested to deposit the same or to communicate with the Committee.

Any bondholder desiring further information may apply to the members of the Committee or to its Secretary.

National Car Wheel Company, 6% First Mortgage 20-Year Gold Bonds.

Bankers Trust Company, as Trustee under the First Mortgage of National Car Wheel Company, dated September 22, 1903, hereby invites proposals for the sale to it of sufficient six per centum First Mortgage Twenty-year Gold Bonds above mentioned, at not exceeding 110% of the principal amount of said bonds, to exhaust as nearly as may be the sum of $105,000, now held by it under the sinking fund provisions of such mortgage. Proposals must be delivered to the Trustee at its office, 16 Wall Street, New York City, by 3 P. M. May 11th, 1914, and each proposal should state the date (not later than September 1, 1914,) when the bonds included therein will be presented for purchase, should such proposal be accepted. Should no date be so stated, the Trustee will assume bonds are offered for delivery by 3 P. M. on May 15th, 1914, and, if accepted, will be deliverable to the Trustee on such date, when interest thereon will cease.

In the event of the receipt of two or more proposals for such sale, at the same rate, such rate being low enough to warrant acceptance by the Trustee, such proposals will be accepted in pro rata proportions, provided that no purchase will be made at a rate exceeding 110% of the principal amount of said bonds, and that the Trustee reserves the right to reject any or all proposals in whole or in part if it can at the time of opening said proposals purchase the requisite amount of said bonds, or any part thereof, at a lower price than the lowest price offered by said proposals.

WILSON SEEKS HEAD OF RESERVE BOARD

Olney Declines and Secretary Houston Now Is Talked Of as Governor.

WAS CONSIDERED BEFORE

President Reluctant to Make Changes in Cabinet "Team"—New England Bankers Mentioned.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—President Wilson is again searching for a Governor of the Federal Reserve Board. After four months of painstaking inquiry he had determined on Richard Olney, former Secretary of State, as the man to head the board which will regulate the nation's system of twelve regional banks, but Mr. Olney has now declined, being unwilling at his advanced age to undertake new responsibilities.

Many Administration officials were disposed to believe that Secretary Houston of the Department of Agriculture would be finally chosen in Mr. Olney's place. It is an open secret that the President has wanted to appoint Mr. Houston to the Federal Reserve Board, but did not wish to make any changes in his Cabinet, which he refers to as "a team." Mr. Houston favorably impressed those who came in contact with him when he toured the country as a member of the Organization Committee of the Reserve Board, and his name was suggested for the board then.

It is known that since Mr. Olney's declination the President has not fixed on any one, but is looking over the field for another member of the board. He is said to be anxious to get a New England man, so that all sections may be represented. Col. William A. Gaston and Joseph O'Neill, both prominent Boston bankers, have been suggested as possibilities, but it is believed the President will choose a business man with legal training. The other four members of the board selected by the President are: Paul M. Warburg of New York, Dr. Adolph Caspar Miller of San Francisco, Harry A. Wheeler of Chicago, and W. P. G. Harding of Birmingham, Ala.

National bank subscribers to the stock of Federal reserve banks to-night numbered 5,511, an increase of 181 for the day. The total amount of subscriptions was $90,184,300. Only three days remain for the remaining 1,988 banks in the system to file their subscriptions.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 5.—Henry A. Wheeler, Vice President of the Union Trust Bank, said to-day that the offer to become a member of the new board was received by him this morning, but that he has not yet decided whether or not he will accept the position.

PROPOSALS.

WEIGHING AND SALES COMPANY.
PROPOSALS FOR SALE OF BONDS.

Pursuant to the terms of the deed of trust dated May 12th, 1911, made by Weighing and Sales Company to Empire Trust Company as Trustee, all persons interested are hereby notified that there has been this day paid to the Empire Trust Company, as such Trustee, the sum of Twenty Thousand Dollars ($20,000) to create a sinking fund for the purchase and redemption of bonds, secured by said deed of trust. All persons interested are further hereby notified that pursuant to said deed of trust sealed proposals will be received by the Empire Trust Company at its office, No. 65 Cedar Street, New York City, within six (6) days from the date of the last publication of this notice, offering for sale bonds of the Weighing and Sales Company secured by said deed of trust, with all unpaid coupons thereto attached.

All such offerings shall state the name and address of the person offering the same for sale, the numbers and par value of the bonds so offered for sale, and the price at which the bonds, with all unpaid coupons thereto attached, are offered for sale, which price must be less than the par value thereof and accrued interest. Such offer shall be contained in a sealed envelope indorsed "Proposal for sale to sinking funds of bonds of Weighing and Sales Company," and must be received by said Empire Trust Company at its office, No. 65 Cedar Street, New York City, on or before May 15th, 1914.

The money so paid to the Trust Company will be used in the purchase of bonds under said offers at the best price obtainable. No Proposals will be considered except such as strictly comply with this notice.

Dated New York, May 6th, 1914.
WEIGHING AND SALES COMPANY.

WARBURG TO QUIT BANK FIRM.

Will Resign from Kuhn, Loeb & Co. to Go on Federal Reserve Board.

Paul M. Warburg, before taking office as a member of the Federal Reserve Board, will retire from the firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., although such action is not specifically required by law.

The Federal Reserve act provides that "no member of the Federal Reserve Board shall be an officer or Director of any bank, banking institution, trust company, or Federal Reserve bank, nor hold any stock in any bank, banking institution, or trust company; and before entering upon his duties as a member of the Federal Reserve Board he shall certify under oath to the Secretary of the Treasury that he has complied with this requirement."

Under this clause it will be necessary for Mr. Warburg to resign as a Director of the National Bank of Commerce, the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, and the United States Mortgage and Trust Company. He will also have to dispose of such stock as he may own in banking institutions. His intention to retire from the banking house in which he is a partner is understood to be because of the interest of the firm in several banks.

No action will be taken by Mr. Warburg, however, toward severing these connections until his nomination has been sent to the Senate and confirmed by it.

Mr. Warburg's other Directorates, which are not involved, are in the American Surety Company, Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, National Railways of Mexico, Wells, Fargo & Co., and Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

Bankers generally expressed gratification yesterday with the selections made by President Wilson. Frank A. Vanderlip, President of the National City Bank, said:

"President Wilson has made admirable appointments to the Federal Reserve Board. I do not see how he could have done much better. I know most of the men personally and am certain that they command the respect of the whole country. The President has justified all that was expected of him in selecting really high-grade men for this important work.

"Mr. Warburg is pre-eminently qualified for the task through his intimate study of the currency problem and his knowledge of international banking matters. Mr. Miller has high qualifications as a student and economist, and Mr. Wheeler, while connected with the banking business, is better known through his activities in the formation of the United States Chamber of Commerce, of which he is President, and may be regarded as representing particularly the public.

"I expect that the new banking and currency system will now be organized in a short time. There will be no unnecessary delay, I feel sure."

COMPENSATION LAW FAULTS

Contractors and Allied Employers Puzzled by Its Knotty Problems.

It was manifest at a dinner of the Consolidated Building Trades Credit Association at Pabst Harlem Restaurant, 256 West 125th Street, last night that employers allied with the building industry were at sea concerning the recently enacted workman's compensation law, which goes into effect on July 1. About 800 building contractors and representatives of firms supplying building material attended the dinner. In addition to a general feeling of opposition to the law, there was much uncertainty about fulfilling its requirements. Many men said they had yet to meet a man who understood the law at all.

E. L. Barnard, President of the association, referred to the law as "a damaging piece of legislation," and his were the mildest words applied to it. The liabilities that an employer might incur under the law, it was said, would run into thousands of dollars a year, and how an employer might survive such damages no one could say.

Several contractors mentioned as beneficiaries men who the Legislature probably never thought would be affected by it. These were marriage brokers. Under the law, the contractors said, an employer must pay the widow of an employe killed in the performance of his work two-thirds of her husband's annual salary until her death or remarriage. In the case of remarriage the employer was obligated to pay the widow only part of two years' salary as dowry. The marriage brokers had pointed out that it was to the advantage of employers to have widows of employes remarried.

It was shown that the law had given employers four kinds of insurance by which they might guarantee compensation payments in cases of disability or death of employes. They were: Self-insurance, by which an employer satisfied the state of his own ability to meet all obligations; insurance in the State fund provided by the law; insurance in a mutual company in which employers were members sharing profits and losses, and insurance in a company which accepted a stated premium and assumed all risks.

The dinner was planned with the idea of having speakers set forth the advantages of each form of insurance, so that the diners could choose more intelligently among them; but because two of the speakers did not appear and there was so much noise and confusion, only two speakers told their stories. Neither had any good word to say for self-insurance or insurance in the State fund.

Harrison N. Vedder, Secretary Director of the First Mutual Liability Insurance Company of New York, argued in favor of insurance in the mutual companies. He said that the compensation law was not so damaging as the contractors imagined, and that its evils might be avoided to a great extent by insurance in a mutual company. From the experience in other States, he said, mutual companies could guarantee insurance of employes at a minimum cost to employers. He gave many statistics to uphold his contention.

John Baptiste, resident Secretary of the Southwestern Surety Insurance Company, discussed Mr. Vedder's points, and said that the safest insurance for employers was in a stock company. He contended that the losses under mutual insurance had to be considered as well as the profits and asked what mutual company could stand the damages from such a catastrophe as the Triangle Shirt Waist fire. In insuring with a stock company, he said, an employer paid a fixed premium and assumed no risk.

GETS BROAD TRADE CHARTER

Virginia Gives Wide Latitude to the Continuous Casting Corporation.

Special to The New York Times.

RICHMOND, Va., May 5.—A charter was granted to-day to the Continuous Casting Corporation, by the State Corporation Commission. The concern is capitalized at $12,000,000. The corporation is a holding company and is empowered under its charter to engage in practically every branch of commercial industry.

The officers are Robert A. Van Voorhis of Jersey City, President; Alexander F. Garbe of New York, Secretary; Cornelius A. Cole of New Jersey, Treasurer. These officers form the Board of Directors. The corporation paid a fee of $600 for the charter.

$260,284 TO SPENDTHRIFT.

George H. Robinson, Who Has Had $500,000, Inherits Aunt's Estate.

Miss Augusta Hyatt, who died on May 12, 1912, left a net estate of $260,284, according to an appraisal filed yesterday. As Miss Hyatt died intestate, the entire estate will go to her nephew, George Hyatt Robinson, who was branded in many court proceedings as a spendthrift.

Mortimer A. Hyatt, 80 years old, uncle of Miss Hyatt, contested the nephew's right to the entire estate, but Surrogate Cohalan decided against him.

Mr. Robinson, the nephew, is 28 years old and has the reputation of having spent $500,000 between the ages of 21 and 26. He was put in a sanitarium in 1909 through the agency of his wife, who said that he had ruined himself by a wild life.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The Western disturbance advanced rapidly eastward during the last twenty-four hours, and Tuesday night its centre was over eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey, with the lowest barometer reading 29.36 inches.

During this period this disturbance caused general rains and numerous thunderstorms over all districts east of the Mississippi River.

Another disturbance is central over North Dakota, and is moving slowly eastward. It has caused rains and snows in the Northwest.

Mild temperatures continued throughout the great central valleys and the East and South, but it is much colder in the Northwest.

Indications are that the Middle Atlantic storm will move seaward, followed by clearing weather Wednesday and fair weather Thursday throughout the East. In other parts of the country the weather will be fair Wednesday and Thursday, except that rain or snow is probable along the northern border from North Dakota to upper Michigan.

The temperature will be lower Wednesday in the middle Plains and Gulf States, the great central vallews, and the Middle Atlantic States. It will rise Thursday in the Northwest.

Winds for Wednesday and Thursday along the North Atlantic Coast will be fresh shifting gales, becoming west and northwest; Middle Atlantic Coast, fresh westerly gales; South Atlantic Coast, moderate to fresh westerly winds.

FORECASTS: TO-DAY AND THURSDAY.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair and cooler Wednesday; Thursday fair; fresh west gales diminishing.

3 A. M.	56	56	4 P. M.	66	56
6 A. M.	54	53	6 P. M.	64	59
9 A. M.	55	58	9 P. M.	64	55
12 M.	66	60	11 P. M.	64	52

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 57; for the corresponding date last year it was 62; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 56. The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 56; at 8 P. M. it was 58. Maximum temperature, 62 degrees, at 11:10 P. M.; minimum, 52 degrees, at 6:40 A. M. Humidity, 91 per cent. at 8 A. M. and 91 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 29.69 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 29.40 inches.

CAMPANIA'S LAST VOYAGE.

Veteran Sails for Liverpool—Soon to Be Broken Up.

The Cunard liner Campania sailed for Liverpool at 6 o'clock last night, on what will most likely be its last voyage across the Atlantic. The old ocean greyhound will be replaced by the Aquitania at the end of the month, and will shortly be sold to be broken up.

She has been in the Cunard service for twenty-one years between New York and Liverpool, and Alec Finlay, the carpenter, has been with the liner since the first voyage. Capt. E. T. Britten, the commander, will probably be appointed staff Captain on the Aquitania, which sails from Liverpool on May 30 on her maiden voyage to New York.

OPPOSES SIEGEL AND VOGEL

Preparations were begun at the office of the District Attorney yesterday to oppose the motion of Henry Siegel and Frank E. Vogel, the indicted merchant-bankers, to procure a change of venue on the ground that public sentiment in New York City was against them. The motion is to be argued in the Supreme Court next Tuesday.

The method that Siegel and Vogel have employed for the support of their petition has been adopted by the District Attorney, who has an assistant obtaining affidavits from representative citizens who believe that the indicted men can be tried as fairly and impartially here as in any other county.

EDUCATION NOTES.

The Association of Men Teachers and Principals will hold its annual Spring dinner at the Aldine Club, Fifth Avenue Building, on May 21. The topic to be discussed is "The Co-operation of the School System with City Departments." The work accomplished by school children assisting the Street Cleaning Department has led to the belief that their activity can be extended to other branches of the City Government. Invitations have been sent to all the city officials. The association intends to publish a monograph, embodying the suggestions of the speakers. Tickets may be obtained from Austin G. Clark, 110 East Seventy-first Street.

BARES CAMPAIGN FOR HIGHER RATES

FIRST DEFENDS PRESIDENT

Then Seems to Accuse Him of Undue Influence in Behalf of Roads Before Commission.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, a radical Republican with Presidential aspirations, to-day bitterly denounced the railroads for the campaign of publicity he said they had been waging for a year to force the Interstate Commerce Commission to grant the 5 per cent. freight rate increases. The Senator was speaking to his bill making it a penal offense to attempt through other than prescribed channels to influence the commission's orders. On three desks before him Mr. La Follette heaped copies of communications the commission has receivced bearing on cases before it, and excerpts from this correspondence Mr. La Follette read aloud.

The Senator's references to President Wilson's attitude toward the proposed rate increases puzzled his hearers. It is well known that the President has discussed general traffic conditions with some members of the commission, and the impression has gone abroad on apparently high authority that the President has favored the increase as necessary to an adequate railway service. Mr. La Follette said that he had seen, particularly in Washington newspapers, reports that the President was trying to influence the commission to favor the increased tariffs of the roads. He vehemently asserted that the newspapers had misrepresented the President, and that no one could imagine that the President had "entertained such a monstrous thought."

But when he came to letters addressed to the President or to other officials at the White House bearing on the rate cases and which had been referred to the commission he roused Republican and Democratic Senators to the President's defense by his apparent inference that these communications had been forwarded to the commission with some deliberate purpose to further the aims of their authors.

There were about 150 such letters, he said, that had passed through the White House, some addressed to the President and some to Joseph P. Tumulty, Secretary to the President. Mr. La Follette laid stress on the fact that these letters had been transmitted to the commission after being stamped with the legends, "respectfully acknowledged" or "respectfully referred for acknowledgement and consideration" and signed "in rubber imprint" by J. P. Tumulty.

Mere Matter of Routine.

Mr. Borah of Idaho, a Progressive Republican, called attention to the fact that the marks on the letters were simply rubber-stamped, and suggested that their transmission was merely a matter of routine.

"I can't tell about that," said Mr. La Follette, doubtfully. "The Senate can draw its own conclusions."

While Senator La Follette's speech progressed, Senator Hughes, from the President's State of New Jersey, called the White House on the telephone and learned that the stamping and transmitting of letters to the proper officials was the routine duty of an executive clerk. When Mr. La Follette had concluded Mr. Hughes told him what he had learned.

"Would that procedure be followed with letters relating to business before the Supreme Court of the United States? asked Mr. La Follette, with a smile to those around him.

"I think so," said Mr. Hughes. "I can't think of a better place for such letters to go than to the Supreme Court."

Mr. La Follette began his review of the communications received by the Interstate Commerce Commission by placing in the record twenty-eight publications sent out by a railway publicity bureau in Philadelphia. These communications, he said, were "a mountain of shadow." He also cited communications from Frank W. Hoxon of 30 Church Street, New York.

With quivering voice Mr. La Follette read to the Senate advertisements appearing in trade journals presenting the railroad side of the rate controversy. Some of these advertisements took up a whole page, and La Follette made it plain that he thought their size aggravated their offense.

"I have myself received about 130 letters and telegrams as a result of this advertising campaign," said Mr. La Follette. "These communications, obviously inspired by these advertisements, asked me to use my influence as a Senator with the Interstate Commerce Commission to get the 5 per cent. freight advance. The moral sense of these people is so blunt that they can't see the iniquity of such a proceeding."

Some of the Letters "Shocking."

Mr. La Follette said that many of the letters received by the Interstate Commerce Commission were shocking in the extreme.

"Congress," he said, "derelict in its duty to this organization, has left it exposed to every form of attack. Some are so offensive that it staggers the mind to think that men should write them and append to them their signatures. One of them, Mr. Chairman," he went on, addressing Mr. Thomas of Colorado, who was presiding, "was from your own city and State and was signed 'R. W. Johnson.' In a telegram addressed to Chairman Harlan, he said: 'Kindly decide rate case promptly, or resign. Your delay killing business.'"

Mr. La Follette next read a message from A. E. Russell of Altoona, Penn., asking the commision to waive the merits and demerits of the case and decide promptly in favor of the railroads. One communication, which was anonymous, came from Bridgeport, Conn., under date of Feb. 12, 1914. It read substantially as follows: "Keep up the good work. Force all railroads into the hands of receivers. Then the Government can buy them cheap and put needy politicians in office."

Mr. La Follette thought this telegram represented the views of the other side. He said that running through nearly all the letters addressed to the President, as well as those sent to members of his Cabinet, which also had been referred to the Commission, was the suggestion that the political party that did not preserve prosperity regardless of justice could not retain power.

One letter quoted by Mr. La Follette was on the letterhead of the Union League Club of New York City, and was signed by Henry E. Smith. Its closing sentence was: "While you may not want to interfere with the commission, at least do what you can."

From Joseph P. O'Neill, President of the Federal Trust Company of Boston, with a capital of $1,000,000, was a letter to Mr. Tumulty, which said: "I am writing you as one who can put in a word close up." Then referring to himself as a practical man writing to another practical man, he continued: "Do this thing and in my opinion the Republican Party need not nominate a candidate against us in 1916. Do not do it and I believe there will be no need for our nominating a candidate."

Another letter was from R. C. Mackay of St. Paul, suggesting that the President call on the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve the 5 per cent. increase. On the letterhead of Edward R. Dawson of Baltimore, dated April 6, 1914, President Wilson was asked to "permit one of the enemies to say a word." Mr. Dawson added that he appreciated the delicacy of the President's relation to the Interstate Commerce Commission, but thought something might be done. The letter concluded: "Sorry I haven't the pleasure, as some of the family have, of knowing you personally."

Shingle Company Stained Again.

The Standard Stain Shingle Company, which Mr. La Follette described as having "after to-day, another stain," had sought to establish an endless chain of letters, increasing in multiples of ten, directing their communications to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

"If this can be accomplished," said the shingle company's circular, "Mr. Harlan will soon be convinced what the public sentiment is."

"I hope," said Mr. La Follette, "that he is very junior."

Mr. La Follette said that he was convinced that White & Kemble of 56 Pine Street, New York, had circularized the banks of the country to induce them to write to the commission in behalf of the railroads. He said that he had found very few letters from Senators and Representatives, and that the scarcity of such communications convinced him that members of Congress appreciated the character of the requests made to them by their constituents.

Mr. La Follette bitterly denounced what seemed to be an editorial in the form of an open letter to the commission from B. C. Forbes, business editor of The New York American

"It represents," said Mr. La Follette, "the war being waged on the commission. It is part of the organized system of hammering the commission into submitting to the demands of the railroads."

SARDINES ARE HERRING.

This Is What Uncle Sam Makes Them for Duty Purposes.

That sardines are herring, at least for tariff purposes, was the verdict yesterday of the United States Court of Customs Appeals in test cases brought by the Tokstad-Burger Company and Moos & Co., of this city. The decision of the court is in line with the recent judgment of the Bow Street (London) Police Court, where it was held that the sprat or brisling is not the true sardine, but a herring.

The case arose before the Board of General Appraisers over the classification by the Collector of sprats, or as they are known in Norway, brisling, under the provision in the old tariff act for fish in tins on which a duty of 30 per cent. ad valorem was fixed. No particular kind of fish was mentioned by name in this provision, while in another paragraph herring was made dutiable at one-half of 1 cent per pound when smoked, kippered or salted, and at three-fourths of a cent a pound when fresh.

The court had previously held that this provision for herrings was more specific than that for fish in tins, and the importers, through B. A. Levett, their counsel, contended that as the sardines were not provided for by name they fell within the family of herrings. At the trial of the case before the board, Dr. William C. Osburn, in charge of the Aquarium in Battery Park, appeared as a witness for the importers, and testified that the fish were a species of herrings, although commonly sold under the name of sardines or anchovies in the United States.

Dr. Osburn went very minutely into the scientific meaning of the word "herring" and showed that it included very many varieties, the common herrings being only one of the many species comprised within the term. The Government attempted to show by trade testimony that the commercial meaning of herring did not include sardines, but the board held that the Government had failed to establish commercial designation. The court now approves the board's finding, and grants entry under the herring provision of the law.

The opinion of the court, after discussing the common meaning of the term and the scientific meaning as explained by Dr. Osburn, calls attention to the fact that in the Notes on Tariff Revision before Congress at the time the act of 1909 was passed, brisling and sprats were defined as herrings. The court deducted from this that it was the intent of Congress to include these fish, although known as sardines or anchovies, within the term herrings. Mr. Levett said yesterday that the decision will dispose of many cases which have been suspended on the calendar of the Board of General Appraisers.

THEY PAY WOOL DUTIES.

This True of Garments Composed Mainly of Cotton.

The United States Court of Customs Appeals has laid down the rule that complete boys' suits, when containing in their make-up even a slight percentage of wool, are properly dutiable under the wool schedule of the Tariff act of 1909. This principle, it is understood, will prevail under the present act, and affects men's and women's wearing apparel as well.

The boys' suits in question were imported by Hecht & Co. of this city, and comprised a blouse, flannel neckpiece, and trousers. The Collector classified the articles as wearing apparel in part of wool, and took duty at the rate of 44 cents a pound and 60 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 382, of the old law. The importers claimed under Paragraph 324, which specifies cotton wearing apparel. The Board of General Appraisers overruled the importer's contention. It was admitted at the trial of the case before the court that the suits were ready-made, and in chief value of cotton, although in small part of wool. The arguments turned on which of the two paragraphs should prevail, as the goods might be properly assessed for duty under either of the paragraphs were the other omitted from the law.

Hecht & Co. claimed that Paragraph 324 is more specific than Paragraph 382, under which duty was taken, and based their contention on the fact that it has been judicially determined that a provision for "wearing apparel composed wholly or in chief value of cotton, and not otherwise provided for," is more specific than a provision for "wearing apparel composed wholly or in part of wool, and not specially provided for." Assistant Attorney General Wemple admitted the doctrine contended for by the importers, but insisted that it cannot be invoked in this case, for the reason that the provision for wearing apparel in chief value of cotton is not brought into competition with a provision for wearing apparel in part of wool, not specially provided for, but with a provision which embraces all wearing apparel in part of wool, without restriction or limitation. Judge Smith affirming, the board agrees with the Government's interpretation.

FISHERIES DEFINITION.

For Duties, It Includes All Preparations for Market.

The term "American fisheries" was defined yesterday by the Board of United States General Appraisers in sustaining a protest by the Gorton-Pew Fisheries Company of Gloucester, Mass. A dispute arose between the fishing company and the Collector of Customs at Boston when the latter official exacted duty at the rate of one-half of 1 per cent. per pound on fish caught at a place known as the Bay of Islands off the coast of Newfoundland, this locality being in the zone of what is known as "treaty waters."

It was claimed before the board that free entry should be accorded the fish as the product of American fisheries, as provided for in the Tariff act. The Collector seems to have assessed duty on the ground that all of the fish caught by the crew of the vessel was not cured and packed on the ship, but landed for the purpose at docks and sheds owned by the operating company on the shores of Newfoundland. Eventually the vessel called for the landed part of the catch and entered the entire lot at Boston. In reversing the Collector Judge Waite interprets the fisheries provision of the law as follows:

"It was not, in our judgment, the intention of Congress to limit a fishery in its operation to the deck or hull of a vessel. * * * It is conceivable that the operations might be so extensive as to make it impossible either to take, cure, or prepare the fish on board the vessel. We therefore are of the opinion that a 'fishery' includes the operation of taking, preparing, curing, and packing fish and making them ready for the market, whether conducted by means of a large boat and small boats independent of the land or by means of the same connected with the land, where the fish are cleaned, dried, prepared, and packed for the market."

COMMODITIES MARKETS.

WHEAT.

The wheat market closed a dull session with prices net unchanged to ⅜c lower. The foreign markets were rather steadier than anticipated owing to firm offers from leading shipping countries, as well as some improvement in the general demand. Stocks in America and in and afloat for Europe decreased 9,793,000 bushels, compared with a decrease of 11,261,000 a year ago, according to Bradstreet's.

In the local cash market No. 2 hard Winter wheat was quoted at $1.02, cost, insurance, and freight, New York; No. 2 red, $1.04, cost, insurance, and freight, to arrive; No. 1 Northern, Duluth, $1.01, free on board, afloat, and No. 1 Northern, Manitoba, $1.02, free on board, afloat.

COTTON.

The cotton market was unsettled yesterday. The close was steady, but within a point or two of the lowest at a net decline of 5 to 10 points.

Southern spot markets were unchanged to ⅛c lower. The local market for spot cotton was quiet and 10 points lower, at 12.90c for middling upland; sales, nil.

COFFEE.

The only animation in the coffee market was seen during the last two minutes of trade, when prices dropped 6 to 9 points under aggressive selling of about 2,000 bags. At the outset the market was 4 to 6 points lower as a result of rather heavy markets abroad and a decline of 50 to 75 reis in the Santos futures market, but during the day there was an absence of selling pressure, after which irregularity there was a final break, which left prices 9 to 12 points net lower. The Havre market at the close was unchanged to ¼ franc net lower, and Hamburg was ¼ pfennig lower.

The local spot market was dull and heavy, with Rio 7s quoted at 8⅝c.

BUSINESS NOTES.

The annual meeting of the Wholesale Dry Goods Centre Association, which was to be held yesterday at the Arkwright Club, 320 Broadway, has been postponed until Tuesday, May 12.

Ashland sheetings, which hitherto have been sold only through a single agency in this market, may also be purchased now through Louis Lowinson of 72 Leonard Street. The price on these goods has been cut to 8¾ cents, and are sold on the usual terms and restrictions.

The local office of Montgomery Ward & Co. of Chicago has been removed from 48 Leonard Street to 88 West Twenty-fifth Street.

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday..3¾@4 per cent. for the best names.
Tuesday....3¾@4 per cent. " " "
The quotation is for six months' paper.

A Week's Exports.

General exports, exclusive of specie, from the Port of New York last week, were valued at $16,554,488, compared with $18,873,208 in the previous week, and $17,254,672 the corresponding week one year ago. The total value of this year's exports to date is $354,423,774, against $345,513,737 in the corresponding period of 1913. Exports of domestics and cotton duck from New York last week were valued at $500,547, against $379,726 in the previous week. The greatest amount shipped to a single country, $188,345 worth of cotton goods, went to the Philippines. The week before China led with $179,200 worth.

Rubber Prices Off.

Prices lower than those obtained at the last previous sale were the rule yesterday at the regular fortnightly auction in London. The offerings consisted of 1,150 tons of plantation grades, of which 440 were sold during the day. Buying was slow, and the price tone was weaker. Both smoked sheets and pale crêpe closed the day at 2s. 7½d. Up-river fine was regularly held in London, spot, at 2s. 11½d., while for June delivery 2s. 6¼d. was quoted. For July-December delivery 2s. 4½d. was asked. In this market up-river fine was nominally held at 74 cents for spot delivery, while the day's quotation in Brazil on this grade was 73½ cents.

Gray Goods Trading Small.

The gray goods market was quiet yesterday, there being a great deal more rain than business. There was a little inquiry for goods at prices which the mills did not see fit to meet, but actual sales were small. The only sales of the day worth reporting were made on 38½-inch 60-48s and on 60-52s of the same width. Some of the business on the former construction was put through at 4¼ cents, though later in the day this figure was shaded to 4 3-16 cents. On the 60-52s some fair-sized orders were put through near closing time at 4⅜ cents, this figure representing a concession of an eighth of a cent a yard from the prices asked by the mills. There was a scattering business done on voiles and 40-inch lawns in the course of the day, and some small lots of drills and sheetings were also moved.

Yarn Men Stop a Practice.

For several monthe past, in order to raise funds for their organization without taxing the members, the Brooklyn Sweater Manufacturers' Association has been exacting a tribute of one-tenth of 1 per cent. on all remittances made by members to yarn spinners and dealers. This deduction was represented by stamps sold to the sweater manufacturers by their association and attached to bills that were paid. The yarn men, who are members of the Yarn Credit Association, to put a stop to this practice, which, they say, was done without their consent, has adopted a resolution refusing to accept these stamps in part payment. One yarn dealer figured that if he continued to permit this discount he would be out in the course of a year over $1,000. The large dealers would pay into the treasury of the Sweater Manufacturers' Association even greater amounts.

Fall Purchases of Clothing.

While orders received from the road by the manufacturing clothiers toward the close of last week were fair, there was a falling off in business booked yesterday and Monday. The salesmen in the South are doing well and the demand in the Middle West is fair. From the Coast, however, despite the coming exposition, retailers are not placing their usual orders. Balmacaans still continue to meet with a lively call in those territories where little has been seen of this style. The reasons given by retailers to explain the cut made by them in the amount of their initial Fall purchases shed very little light according to manufacturers on a situation which is admittedly peculiar. Normal conditions prevail in the children's suit line. With the advances which have been made in piece goods, manufacturers are inclined to favor woolens over worsteds in making their purchases.

Fall Dress Goods More Active.

While spot business in Spring goods in the local dress goods trade is very quiet now, a steady improvement is noted in the advance orders being placed on Fall lines. One of the best known operators in the market reported yesterday that all of his road men were now ahead of last year in the amount of advance Fall business turned in, save the man in whose territory Texas is included. Even this man's orders have shown improvement of late, it was said, and he has now brought his total close to last year's figures, despite poor buying on the earlier part of the trip. Strong improvement is reported in the serge demand, both in staple and fancy effects. This improvement has been strong enough to have already been reflected in the primary market. A good call is reported for broadcloths in the newer shades, but the staple colors are said still to be moving slowly and under high pressure.

Coal Situation Encouraging.

The Coal Trade Journal will say today:

"May has started off in a manner highly encouraging to the anthracite interests, for not only is the amount of business already booked for shipment this month fully up to normal, but extra buying is bound to develop a little later as a result of the active retail trade in April. The official records show that last month was the coldest April in seven years, and the amount of coal used for heatmaking was larger than usual. The line demand continues heavy, and so much of the output is being diverted in that direction that some sizes have been rather short in this market. Steam sizes in the poorer grades are accumulating to quite an extent at the lower ports and prices are weakening, but the higher grades are still rather short. In the bituminous trade the past week has been fully as dull as any of its recent predecessors."

More Linings Are Used.

In spite of pessimistic reports from the clothing trade, jobbers of linings state that conditions in that line are up to normal. Margins, however, are said to have become closer. The popularity of the English model coat, in which practically no padding is used, has not, it is explained, materially affected the lining business. The reason for this, it was pointed out, is that some sort of lining is always required, and if haircloth and canvas are not combined, more of one kind of goods is used than formerly. The balmacaan style has created an additionl demand for linings. Formerly, according to one manufacturer, men were content for the most part to wear their Winter overcoats through the Spring, and the number of light-weight overcoats manufactured was comparatively small.

The balmacaan, he pointed out, may be said to have created another industry, and the amount of linings used in the model, although small in the aggregate, has meant good-sized orders for the manufacturers.

Chiffon Velvets Are Going Big.

Chiffon dress velvets, both foreign and domestic, are very active in this market at the moment. One of the largest domestic houses has already booked enough orders on these goods to keep its looms busy until October. Millinery velvets are good, too, both in the plain and novelty weaves. In some quarters velveteens are well thought of for the coming season. A good plush season is predicted, and these goods are expected to be used widely in outer garments for women. The modern plush, which does not crush easily, is said to be especially adapted for use in garments. Among the novelty weaves are shown some attractive mottled effects. For trimming purposes a wide variety of fancy plushes are being offered. Imitation fur effects in pile fabrics will doubtless be good both for garment and trimming purposes. It is said that the most wonderful advance the domestic pile fabric manufacturers have made so far has been in their perfecting of these goods.

Good Orders for Coats and Suits.

Coat and suit manufacturers report that business with them has been very satisfactory for the past season, and that prospects for the Fall are bright. Orders continued to come in from the jobbers and large advance orders are being received from the retailers. For next season artificial fur fabrics, both for coats and suits, look particularly good, and cheviots and worsteds should also prove popular. Tweed and fancy mixture coatings on the balmacaan order will be used extensively. The piecemeal buying at the start of the Spring season, one manufacturer said, really marks a change in the retailer's method of doing business, and one that should be beneficial both to his own interests and those of the manufacturer. Results obtained last season, he pointed out, show conclusively that in the aggregate a larger volume of orders in number and amount were placed than in previous years. "The buyer has cut down his initial purchases," he said, "for he knows that when the occasion arises he can come on here to the market and get what is needed."

About the Fall Buttons.

There is little business going on in the button trade at the moment, it being between seasons and many of the wholesale buyers being abroad making their import selections. One of the largest houses in the trade predicted yesterday that Fall would be a big button season, with the larger sizes most in demand, even on waists and dresses. Buttons as large as 22 to 40 lines are expected to be used for trimmings, which, it is said, will be quite a change. It is not thought that small buttons will be neglected, but that sales of large ones will be greater. Novelty buttons are most in demand for cloak and suit purposes, plain and fancy olives and squares being particularly favored. A big black season is looked for, in which cut jet buttons in all sizes and shapes will share, as will black crocheted buttons. Not much is thought of leather buttons for women's wear purposes. The garment manufacturers are sampling so many different kinds of buttons that it is difficult to outline the real trend for Fall. There is some uncertainty on the color question, but it is thought that blacks will lead, with blues and browns following. In the latter, shades ranging from light tans to a deep reddish brown will be in favor.

Cutter Estate Administrators.

Surrogate Cohalan appointed M. Joseph McCloskey and Frank M. Tichenor yesterday as temporary administrators of the estate of Henry T. Cutter, the founder of the corporation now known as the Riker-Hegeman Company, whose will is being contested by James M. Montgomery, the playwright. Both administrators are required to furnish a bond of $3,000,000, an amount double the value of the estate.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

City.

The Municipal Civil Service Commission finds its new plan of advertising the various examinations to be working satisfactorily. Up to the time that the present Commissioners were appointed the custom had been to publish long technical advertisements in a few newspapers, weekly and daily. An expert advertisement writer was employed to word the announcements of forthcoming examinations so as to save space and at the same time to attract the attention of the public. It was also decided to print these advertisements in every paper which, in the Commissioners' opinion, would reach the class of persons for whom the announcements were made. As a result it is believed that there will be a saving this year of thousands of dollars. A greater number of applications is also being received.

United States.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces for June 8 an open competitive examination for steamfitter to fill vacancies in both temporary and permanent positions in the departmental service in Washington. The usual salary of this position is 50 cents an hour or $4 a day. Competitors will not be assembled for examination, but will be rated on physical ability, training, and experience. At least one year of journeyman experience, or the equivalent, is required; age, 20 years or over on the date of the examination. Further information may be obtained from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

PUBLIC NOTICES.

AT A SPECIAL TERM OF THE SUPREME Court of the State of New York, Part I. thereof, held in and for the County of New York at the County Court House in the Borough of Manhattan, on the 17th day of April, 1914. Present, HON. VERNON M. DAVIS, Justice.—In the matter of the Application of THE STRATFORD PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU, INC., for leave to change its name to STRATFORD ADVERTISING AGENCY, INC.

On reading and filing the petition of The Stratford Press Clipping Bureau, Inc., a domestic corporation, duly verified by its Secretary, Landon Humphreys, on the 26th day of March, 1914, wherein said Petitioner prays for an order authorizing it to assume another corporate name, to wit:—the name Stratford Advertising Agency, Inc., and the resolution of the Directors of said Company authorizing this application, and upon reading and filing the certificate of the Secretary of State of New York, annexed to said petition, certifying that the name which said corporation proposes to assume is not the name of any other domestic corporation or a name which he deemed so entirely resembling it as to be calculated to deceive, and upon filing due proof by affidavit showing that the notice of the presentation of the said petition has been duly published for three successive weeks in the New York Law Journal and the Morning Telegraph, which papers are published and circulated in the County of New York, in which County the said The Stratford Press Clipping Bureau, Inc., has its principal office, and the Court being satisfied by said petition and by the affidavits and certificates presented therewith that the petition is true, and that there is no reasonable objection to the change of name proposed, and that the petition has been duly authorized and that a notice of the presentation of the petition, as required by law, has been made,

Now, on motion of Hardy, Stancliffe & Whitaker, attorneys for the said Petitioner, no one opposing, it is Ordered, that the said petition be and the same hereby is granted and that the Petitioner herein, The Stratford Press Clipping Bureau, Inc., be and it hereby is authorized to assume another corporate name, to wit:—the name Stratford Advertising Agency, Inc., on and after the 25th day of May, 1914; and it is

Further ordered and directed that this order be entered and the papers upon which it is granted be filed within ten days after the date hereof in the Office of the Clerk of the County of New York, the County in which the certificate of incorporation of said Company is filed, and that a certified copy of this order within ten days after the entry thereof be filed in the Office of the Secretary of State, and it is Further ordered, that a copy of this order be published once a week for four successive weeks in The New York Times, a newspaper published in the County of New York, said publication beginning within ten days after the entry hereof. Enter, V. M. D., J. S. C.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

In Town.

JOHN HANSON KENNARD of 2,762 Broadway, formerly President of the Coupler Gear Company of New York, for automobiles and auto trucks, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $41,108, and assets, consisting of salary due from the company, $9,713, of no value; 480 shares of stock and 6 bonds of the company, pledged and of no value; cash on hand, $53, for which he claims exemption, and one-ninth interest in a plantation of 800 acres in Wilkinson County, Miss., $100. Most of the liabilities were on account of the company. Among his creditors are P. C. Blaisdell of Bradford, Penn., $5,000, secured by stock of the Coupler Gear Company of New York and some jewelry; Frank D. Miller and others as trustees, Oneonta, N. Y., $12,945; judgment obtained, $41,913. Mr. Kennard was to have been examined on supplementary proceedings on this judgment on May 7, and Judge Mayer of the Federal court yesterday stayed the examination for a year.

MAX SOLOMON.—A petition has been filed against Max Solomon, jobber in woolens at 621 Broadway, by these creditors: Sawyer & Blake, $1,335; L. F. Dommerich & Co., $300, and Wilmerding, Morris & Mitchell, $170. It was alleged that he made an assignment to Anthony C. Brew. Liabilities are said to be $6,000.

JOSEPH BRISKMAN, broker at 299 Broadway, has filed a petition with liabilities of $4,649 and no assets. Among the creditors are M. Schwenholtz & Co., $1,200, and Lazar Jacobson, $500.

GEORGE STARIN COWLES of 4 Getty Square, Yonkers, has filed a petition with liabilities of $15,463 and no assets. The debts are for lumber and house trim. Among the creditors are Lawrence Brothers, Inc., $4,268; A. O. Lawrence, $2,765, and Owen Carraher, $1,058.

FICHEL BROS.—Judge Hand has granted a discharge to Fichel Brothers, cloak manufacturers, of 35 East Twelfth Street, against whom a petition was filed on Nov. 21, 1910. Their liabilities were $19,779.

JOHN A. ANGER.—Judge Mayer of the Federal Court has signed an order for the examination of Max M. Hart, a note broker; Herman Elkan, John A. Anger, and John A. Anger, Jr., in the bankruptcy proceedings against John A. Anger, President of the Anger Baking Co. of 636 Greenwich Street, before Alex. Gilchrist, Jr., special master. A motion was also granted to restrain suits brought against Mr. Anger by the Bank of Buffalo for $9,607; Yorkville Bank, $1,181; Salt Springs National Bank of Syracuse, $3,339, and Stein, Hirsch & Co., $462 for one year.

THOMAS WHITTAKER, INC.—Judge Blanchard of the Supreme Court has appointed Holland Mallory receiver for the assets of Thomas Whittaker, Inc., publisher of religious books at 2 Bible House, in proceedings for the voluntary dissolution of the corporation brought by Directors Thomas Whittaker, Thomas H. Topping, and Walter S. Silver. Liabilities are $21,900 and assets $13,200. The business was started thirty-seven years ago, and was incorporated on May 31, 1907, with capital stock of $50,000.

ISAAC SIMON, dealer in delicatessen and groceries at 2,222 Amsterdam Avenue, has made an assignment to Leo Schafran.

R. E. COOPER GOWN COMPANY, INC., importer and dealer in gowns at 2,381 Broadway, has made an assignment to Harry Osterman. The business was started in September, 1910, and this company has carried it on since Dec. 31, 1912, with a capital stock of $5,000. Reba E. Cooper is President and Treasurer.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

The upper Washington Heights section furnished the chief features of interest in a quiet realty market yesterday. A large vacant plot in 162d Street, west of Broadway, was purchased for immediate improvement with a garage, and a few blocks north, in the Fort Washington district, a block front of apartment houses on the west side of Fort Washington Avenue, between 179th and 180th Streets, was sold. The houses are known as the Cliffwood and the Westwood. They are six stories in height, each covering a plot 100 by 115.

They were bought by the W. J. Rich Development Company from the Picken Building Company, William H. Picken, President, who a few days ago sold to the Rich company the block front of two similar apartments on the east side of Audubon Avenue, between 172d and 173d Streets. In that deal Hillsdale property, New Jersey, where the Rich company has been operating, was given in part payment, and in the present deal the buyers gave several additional lots at the same place. The two Fort Washington Avenue houses just sold are valued at about $500,000. S. Albert acted as the broker.

Buys Upper Manhattan Garage Site.

In the upper Washington Heights section the vacant plot at 528 to 540 West 162d Street, on the south side, between Broadway and Amsterdam Avenue, has been sold by Jackson & Stern to an investor, who is having plans prepared for erecting on the site a four-story fireproof garage. The plot has a frontage of 100 feet by 99.11 deep, and is the only vacant plot in the block. It has been held at $56,000. Work on the new building will begin at once, and it is intended to have it completed for use by September. The deal was closed through the office of Daniel Birdsall & Co.

Resale of Third Avenue Corner.

I. H. Kempner and Fisher Lewine have resold the northeast corner of Third Avenue and Forty-eighth Street to Frank P. Mosher for investment.

The site measures 25.5 feet on Third Avenue and 95.5 feet on the street, and is covered with a four-story tenement house. It is known as 777 Third Avenue, and was bought by the present sellers last week from Mrs. J. P. Kennedy for about $38,000. Victor Freund & Son were the brokers.

Tenement Property Sales.

Edward B. Corey has purchased from Lena Friedlander the fifteen-family apartment occupying a plot, 75 by 100, on the southeast corner of 113th Street and St. Nicholas Avenue. In part payment the buyer gave the Kenmare, fronting on three streets, Franklin, Ocean, and Meadow Avenues, Far Rockaway, L. I., consisting of a cottage and outbuildings on fourteen lots. This is the last of the Corey holdings at Far Rockaway.

Robert R. Rainey sold for the Merit Realty Company 15 and 17 Sixth Avenue, two four-story tenements, on a plot, 35.8 by 102 by irregular, diagonally opposite West Third Street. The buyer is a client of Pepe & Brother.

Downing Street Loft Sold.

H. Scully purchased from Hubener and Escher 24, 26, and 28 Downing Street, a seven-story loft building located on a plot, 60 by 75, between Bleecker and Bedford Streets. Kurz & Uren were the brokers.

The Private Dwelling Market.

The Charles Hensle Realty Company has resold to a client of Charles W. Smith 12 West 128th Street, a three-story and basement dwelling, on a lot 15 by 100, between Fifth and Lenox Avenues.

$300,000 Manhattan-Bronx Trade.

A Manhattan-Bronx trade, involving about $300,000, was reported yesterday by Louis Fine, who sold for John Kelly the five five-story flats, 507 to 515 Charlotte Street, in the East Bronx. The flats occupy a plot 40 by 100 each and are well rented.

In part payment the buyer, O. Brown, gave the six-story elevator apartment 502 and 504 West 151st Street, occupying a plot 75 by 100 feet.

Recent Buyers.

Joseph E. Marx is the purchaser of the plot 100 by 137 on the south side of Academy Street, 125 feet west of Broadway, recently sold by Dr. Wesley Wait.

The Ritz Realty Company, Lester Floresheim, is the buyer of 14 East Forty-sixth Street, sold several days ago by Pease & Elliman. An eight-story loft building will be erected at a cost of $75,000, from plans by Lorenz F. J. Weiher.

Bronx Sales.

The Schoen & Westchester Realty Company and Mr. Rines sold for Patrick O'Rourke the three-family house, 270 Grant Avenue, to an investor.

Brooklyn.

Charles W. Seitz has sold for Frances A. Foley 253 to 257 Pearl Street, between Concord and Tillary Streets, a plot 54 by 103.5 feet, to a corporation of builders, who will raze the three buildings and erect modern flats on same.

In the Ridgewood section the G. X. Matthews Company has sold the following six-family flats: To Mrs. A. Amsler, 1,823 Putnam Avenue; to William and M. Schneider, 1,859 Putnam Avenue; to W. S. Booth, 1,863 and 1,865 Putnam Avenue; to W. and K. Thomas, 1,867 Putnam Avenue, and to George and M. Beimbrink, 1,869 and 1,871 Putnam Avenue. The seven houses, located on the north side of Putnam Avenue, between Onderdonk and Woodward Avenues, brought 11,300 each.

Long Island.

Jacob Rosenthal has sold to the Interocean Land Corporation 280 lots, with a frontage of 2,800 feet on both sides of Lucia Avenue and 200 feet on the north side of Arverne Boulevard, extending to Jamaica Bay. Forty dwellings, to cost $130,000, and ten bungalows will be erected this season.

Staten Island.

Moffatt & Schwab have sold to Joseph Johnson's Sons of Broadway, West New Brighton, for Mrs. James J. Gillen of Philadelphia, Penn., a house and six lots on Prospect Street, West New Brighton, adjoining their present place of business. This gives the title to the larger portion of the block bounded by Broadway, Myrtle Avenue, Prospect Street and Burger Avenue. The same firm of brokers also sold to James H. Swift of New Brighton three lots on Bay View Place, Bay View Park, formerly a portion of the Ward estate, Ward Hill.

J. B. Haggin Buys in Newport.

James B. Haggin has purchased from the McCann estate its property on the south side of Dixon Street, Newport, R. I. This property, with the Villa Rosa, the E. R. Morse place, which was recently sold, completes the entire half of the Dixon Street front, the remained belonging to Mrs. De Lancey Astor Kane.

School Leases Harlem Playground.

The School of Ethical Culture, located at Central Park West and Sixty-third Street, has secured as a playground and athletic field for its children most of the block bounded by Lenox Avenue, 147th, 148th, and exterior streets. The property was leased from the Pinkney estate through Henry M. Moeller.

Leases.

Rice & Hill have leased for William P. Andrews the corner store and basement in the building to be remodeled at 191 Fulton Street, the northwest corner of Church Street, to Barlow & Levy for a café. The rental averages about $15 per square foot, a record for store space in that vicinity.

William A. White & Sons have leased for Cammann, Voorhees & Floyd, as agents, the building at 426 Washington Street for a term of years to the Italian Importing Company; for Alfred A. Herberman & Co. the store and basement at 314 Washington Street to Frank Gargiulo; the building at 35 East Thirty-second Street to the New York Osteopathic Clinic, and the garage at 303 West 129th Street to Philip H. Senior.

Moore & Wyckoff have leased an apartment of twelve rooms and three baths in the new twelve-story fireproof apartment house now being erected for the estate of Ogden Goelet at 410 Park Avenue to Ernest C. Bliss, and also an apartment of eight rooms and three baths in the building at 115 East Fifty-third Street to Thomas J. Ryan.

A. W. Miller & Co. have leased for the Rellim Realty Company to the Silver Lunch Company the store and basement at 1,935 Broadway, 25 by 100, for a term of years. The rent for the term will total $75,000. The store is near Sixty-fifth Street.

J. P. and E. J. Murray have leased a store at 1,786 Lexington Avenue to the Cen Ten Company.

$400,000 Park Avenue Apartment.

Plans for a new apartment on upper Park Avenue were filed yesterday for the southeast corner of Eighty-fourth Street, covering a plot 133.4 by 91.10. It will be twelve stories high and is estimated to cost $400,000 by the architect, Robert T. Lyons. The charter Construction Company, of which Henry Edelmuth is President, is the owner.

Realty Notes.

Plans were filed yesterday for adding two stories to the eight-story building of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, at the southeast corner of Fourth Avenue and Twenty-third Street. Renwick, Aspinwall & Tucker are the architects, and have placed the cost at $30,000.

A building loan of $135,000 has been obtained by the Foxvale Realty Company from the City Mortgage Company on five five-story apartments being erected on a plot 200 by 100 on the west side of Stebbings Avenue, 369.8 feet south of Westchester Avenue.

REFEREES' NOTICES.

NEW YORK SUPREME COURT, COUNTY of New York.—JEREMIAH KAVANAGH, Plaintiff, against MARGARET MARY KAVANAGH AND OTHERS, Defendants.—County Clerk's No. 21,005, Year 1913.

In pursuance of an interlocutory judgment for partition and sale of the premises hereinafter described, duly made and entered in the above-entitled action and bearing date the 15th day of April, 1914, I, the undersigned, the referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction at the Exchange Salesroom, Nos. 14-16 Vesey Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 11th day of May, 1914, at 12 o'clock noon on that day, by M. Morgenthau, Jr., Co., Auctioneer, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold, and therein described as follows:

All that certain tract or parcel of land with the buildings thereon known and distinguished on a Map of Property in the 12th Ward of the City of New York, made by Edward Doughty, City Surveyor, dated December 3d, 1829, as Lot Number 51 and bounded as follows:

Beginning at a point on the north side of 49th Street, distant three hundred twenty-five (325) feet westerly from the northwest corner of 49th Street and Sixth Avenue; running thence westerly along the north side of said 49th Street twenty-five (25) feet; thence northerly on a line parallel with Sixth Avenue along the east side of Lot Number 52 one hundred (100) feet four and one-half (4½) inches; thence easterly on a line parallel with 49th Street along the south side of Lot Number 24 twenty-five (25) feet; thence southerly on a line parallel with Sixth Avenue along the west side of Lot Number 50 one hundred (100) feet four and one-half (4½) inches to the place of beginning, and being the same premises conveyed to Patrick Shaw by John A. Livingston and Jane G., his wife, by deed dated the 24th day of May, 1872, and recorded in the Register's Office of the City and County of New York in Liber 1222 of Conveyances, Page 41, on the 29th day of May, 1872.

Dated New York, April 16th, 1914.
PERCIVAL H. GREGORY, Referee.

JOHN T. FENLON, Attorney for Plaintiff, 55 Liberty Street, Borough of Manhattan, New York City.

PHILIP J. McCOOK, Attorney for the Defendants, Annie Flynn and the New York Trust Company, as general guardian of the estate of the Infant Defendant, Margaret Mary Kavanagh, &c., 15 William Street, Borough of Manhattan, New York City.

The approximate amount of the taxes, assessments and water rates, or other liens, which are to be allowed to the purchaser out of the purchase money or paid by the referee, is $2,124.61 and interest.

Dated New York, April 16th, 1914.
PERCIVAL H. GREGORY, Referee.

'BIG TIM' SULLIVAN DIED WORTH $970,000

MUCH WORTHLESS STOCK

Invested a Million in Shares Which Have Only a Nominal Value—Estate Owes $236,000.

Patrick H. Sullivan and Lawrence Mulligan, executors of the estate of "Big Tim" Sullivan, filed yesterday the inventory demanded of them and thus avoided being arrested for contempt of court. Surrogate Cohalan signed on Monday night an order for their arrest, but the order has not yet been filed at the Sheriff's office, and, if the inventory is acceptable, it is not likely that it will be filed.

The assets of the Sullivan estate, according to the inventory, amount to $970,257. The furniture at "Big Tim's" headquarters at 270 Bowery was valued at $530. Among the pictures there the one of the highest value, that of a large tiger, was appraised at $15. A Packard automobile was appraised at $1,500, and two horses, Senator McCarren and Catherine R., were set down as of nominal value.

The stocks of the late Congressman, which represented an investment on his part of about $1,000,000, were made up chiefly of large blocks of either worthless stock or stock of nominal value. Included among the former class are 1,400 shares of Dreamland stock, the par value of which was $140,000; 400 shares of Wonderland stock, 35 shares of the Metropolitan Jockey Club, 10 shares of the Financiers' Realty Company, 100 shares of the Solicitors' Realty Company, 1,200 shares of the Mill and Factory Sales Company, 30 shares of the Democracy Printing Company, 252,000 shares of Auerbach Mining Company, 275,000 shares Ox Bow Mining Company, and 275,000 shares of the Metropolitan Cobalt Mining Company.

The chief asset of the estate is the interest in the Sullivan-Considine Theatrical Circuit, of which Mr. Sullivan owned 2,501 shares. The appraisers say that all of the Sullivan-Considine business interests and subsidiary concerns, including the United Theatres, were sold to Marcus Loew in March. The amount paid for the circuit was $1,000,000, and "Big Tim's" interest in this was $500,000. The appraisers say, however, that there are certain debts and other obligations amounting to about $236,000 which must be deducted from the purchase price.

Among the promissory notes held by Mr. Sullivan's estate are five of the Sullivan-Considine Company valued at $164,655 and two of the Sullivan-Considine Co-partnership, valued at $70,000. Other assets include certificates of indebtedness valued at about $125,000, 172 gold bonds of the Dreamland Company, valued at more than $50,000, and notes of the C. J. Sullivan Advertising Company aggregating $142,000. Deposits in the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank, the Germania Bank, and the Metropolitan Bank amount to $4,000.

The Sullivan executors said yesterday that they would have filed a more complete inventory of the estate if they had had more time. The attorney for William Fox, the creditor who petitioned for the inventory, said in reply that the executors had taken more time than the executors of any other estate ever have been allowed. He expressed dissatisfaction with the inventory, but would not say he would take further steps to cause the executors' arrest.

NEW PRINCETON PREACHERS

PRINCETON, N. J., May 5.—Twenty-eight men were graduated to-day at the one hundred and second annual commencement of Princeton Theological Seminary. An unusually small number of alumni were in Princeton for the exercises, and only fifty persons from out of town attended the alumni luncheon this afternoon.

Dr. Ethelbert D. Warfield, President of the Directors, presided at the exercises in Miller Chapel. The graduates were:

Next Sunday's Picture Section will contain striking photographs of Explorer Mawson's ship, the Aurora, seen under a towering cliff of ice in Adelie Land. It is a picture to wonder at. Other photographs will show the New York Yacht Club Cup Defender, Resolute, under sail for the first time; exterior and interior views of the Vaterland, the world's newest and greatest ship, which sails next week for New York on her maiden voyage; Vincent Astor's yacht, rebuilt and refurnished for his honeymoon trip; David Belasco conducting a rehearsal of theatrical "headliners" for the Lambs' All-Star Gambol, and a number of other pictures just as interesting.

Your Sunday will not be complete without the Sunday Times. Tell your newsdealer in time to save you a copy.

"It Can't Be Done!"

¶ No matter where you go or how much you spend, you cannot duplicate the quality and service you get at the Wilson Modern Dance Studios—It can't be done!

¶ With your lessons you get a copy of Mr. Wilson's practical booklet on "How to Dance the Modern Dances," which describes each step that you learn—a great aid to your speedy progress.

Luncheon at Churchill's.

A luncheon that will make a fair play seem good—and a good play—splendid—our

Special Luncheon 75¢ (Twelve to Two)

Inaugurated yesterday with instantaneous success, our Special Luncheon has set a new and striking standard in restaurant service, in view of its superiority for the price. A la carte service of the same excellence as prevails at night is also offered for luncheon.

If—instead of the matinee—you prefer dancing—

Afternoon Tea Dances

Miss Edna Chase and Enrico Muris, whose brilliant dancing has captivated Manhattan's elect for the past two evenings, will, of course, continue to supervise the Ballroom and delight guests by their exposition of the modern dances.

For Dinner and After-Theatre Supper, in a la carte service, Churchill's occupies a position of pre-eminent popularity with the discriminating. Of equal popularity is our Special Dinner, six to nine, $1.25, that's a culinary achievement.
